Sargent Picks Judge Nominee

Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner of 564 Quinobequin road, Waban, was nominated Tuesday by Governor Francis W. Sargent to be the new judge of the Newton district court.

Attorney Flaschner's name was submitted by the Governor to the Executive Council on Tuesday and in accordance with the law was tabled for one week.

If his appointment is confirmed by the Governor's Council, as is expected, Alderman Flaschner will succeed former Judge Julian L. Yesley who retired.

Mr. Flaschner has been Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5 for the past 12 years. He was first elected to the Aldermanic Board in 1957.

His place on the Board of Aldermen will be filled by his fellow city fathers on the board, an action which is almost certain to cause increased activity to include a different method in the city charter for filling such vacancies.

Punishment

Appeal Hearing For Officer

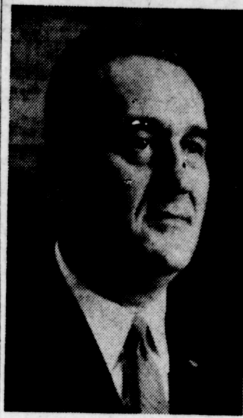

Insisting he was not asleep as alleged by a fellow officer, Patrolman Walter B. Haywood, 35, has appealed from a 200 hour punishment finding, and a hearing has been set for Thursday, Jan. 8 in Boston Municipal Court.

Haywood and another unidentified officer were allegedly found sleeping in a cruiser last April. The other officer accepted the same punishment without an appeal.

Police Chief William F. Quinn said the punishment is neither harsh nor unusual, and pointed out that one officer received 400 hours of punishment duty.

In addition to being ordered to work 200 hours without pay, Officer Haywood was shifted to the 11:30 p.m. to 7:30 a.m. duty; not allowed to work overtime or take extra details, taken off his regular route, and not allowed two consecutive days off.

Haywood and his partner were given a hearing before Chief Quinn and also before Mayor Monte G. Basbas. Both officials rejected the two officers' contention that they were not asleep. Later, the Civil Service Commission also rejected Haywood's appeal.

Aldermen, School Board To Be Sworn In

Inaugural Rites Will Open Basbas 3rd Term

Mayor Monte G. Basbas will start his third two-year term as Newton's chief municipal executive after taking the oath of office at New Year's Day inaugural ceremonies to be held in the Aldermanic chamber at City Hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Also to be sworn in by the Mayor during the inaugural program are the 24 members of the incoming Board of Aldermen, which includes seven new faces, and the eight members of the School Committee, two of whom are new to their jobs.

Mayor Basbas in his inaugural address will urge that the State assume the costs of public school education throughout Massachusetts, relieving the cities and towns of the Commonwealth of a staggering and increasing financial burden.

The Mayor will tell his inaugural program listeners that the local communities, with climbing tax rates, no longer are able to bear the tax burden of educating their children.

He also will declare that such a step would raise the quality level of public school education in Massachusetts and at the same time equalize educational opportunities for all boys and girls.

"Give New Bedford and Fall River the same quality of education as Newton," Mayor Basbas will urge.

Basbas pointed out prior to the inaugural that the State can find new sources of revenue.

Trustees of Newton Wellesley Hospital voted a change in leadership organization on December 2 during the annual meeting of the board of trustees held at the 260-bed teaching hospital, it was announced today.

Authorized by the vote are two new trustee positions. They are chairman of the board and vice chairman.

Also, at the organization meeting of the Board of Governors, William S. Brines Wellesley was named administrative vice president, in which capacity he continues to direct the hospital, affiliated with Tufts Medical School.

In discussing the change in trustee positions, Mr. Brines noted that the reorganization results from accelerated social and health care progress, and the substantial demands that progress is making upon the hospital.

Proliferating legislative activities, new codes and standards that apply to everything from patient care to educational programs, rapidly developing improvements in care techniques, and the continuing matter of determining and reviewing professional relationships are matters that make the

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Prof. Galbraith Assumes Role of Democratic Purger

Harvard Professor John Kenneth Galbraith apparently has appointed himself head purger of the Democratic party, and the egotistical professor has picked some tough customers across the United States to purge.

Among those whom Mr. Galbraith and his liberal associates would like to see wiped out are liberal Democratic Congressmen and Senators who are not quite dovish enough to satisfy the Galbraith wing of the Democratic party.

One dove with liberal credentials — Adlai Stevenson, 3rd — made his way into the Galbraith dog house because he was cool to the Nov. 15 Moratorium.

Stevenson, who is running for the U.S. Senate in Illinois, also displeased the Galbraith camp by entering into a political alliance with Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, whose help Stevenson will need if he is to have any chance of gaining election to the Senate.

Claims Termed "Without Substance"

Deny Fire Hazards At Local Emerson School

A recent report charging the Emerson Elementary School in Newton Upper Falls as being a fire hazard was termed "unfounded and without substance" by Mayor Monte G. Basbas as the state Department of Public Safety concurred with a "no hazard" at the school.

Assurances of the school's safety stemmed from a report to the School Committee by Andrew Dean, architect and father of an Emerson student, who said minor alterations could prevent children being trapped on upper floors in the event of fire.

He charged that the three stairwells in the 65-year-old, four-story structure at 5 High st., are in violation of Fire Department codes and called for extra doorways in the 50 per cent of classrooms which now have only a single exit.

Dean also asked for stops on doors which would permit them to swing in one direction; expansion of the partial sprinkler system and two new corridor fire screens.

Of Dean's charges, a DPS spokesman said: "It is just something that was being someone. I don't think there is any basis for his complaints."

In a letter to other city officials, Mayor Basbas said: "I can assure you personally that nothing concerning the health or safety of the students in any of our public schools, or, for that matter, the occupants of any of our public buildings has ever been overlooked."

His letter was addressed to the president, Board of Aldermen; Public Buildings Committee members; the School Committee and Ward 5 Aldermen.

He said: "I am sure that a brief review of the precautionary measures taken at the school will show that the

Lights Stay on; 180 Cellars Pumped Out

Newton Fares Better Than Other Areas In Big Storm

Last week's triple-punch storm of snow, ice and rain with its widespread flooding, did not affect Newton as badly as it did in other Greater Boston communities.

Only 180 cellars had to be pumped out and no outages were reported to the Boston Edison Company Friday night in Newton.

Thousands of homes were without electric power in West Roxbury, Roslindale, Dedham and Westwood in the wake of the post-Christmas Northeast — the worst of the early winter season.

Street sanding and salting operations started on Newton main streets shortly after midnight Friday and side streets Friday afternoon.

Although 91 per cent of the city's snow-fighting equipment was pressed into service, Mayor Monte G. Basbas said there was difficulty getting trucks at the time.

At "storm central" in the mayor's office a full staff was on hand at 9 a.m. when it was predicted at least 12 inches of snow would blanket Greater Boston.

Mayor Basbas said a series of "50 telephone calls to contractors" were made for trucks before they started "coming in slowly."

Newton pumping crews moved throughout scattered areas of the city in answer to calls for aid. The usual flooding, caused by intense rain, occurred again on Centre street near Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre.

City storm fighters encountered icy crusts on snow which hampered snow removal efforts. Also formation of icy walls and embankments along streets slowed the operation of equipment.

A storm-related accident was reported by police at 1 a.m. at Boylston and Chestnut streets, Newton Upper Falls. Involved were two vehicles. There was no personal injuries reported.

The MBTA reported all lines functioning in Newton but operating slowly.

"Responsibility for the hospital's service rests in the hands of our trustees, the public spirited citizens who donate substantial time and talent in the interest of keeping the hospital the best the community can provide. The workload for the trustee officers and members has increased enormously.

Editorial . . .

The Capital and Crime

Because the Washington municipal police department cannot lend a hand to the task, at least as it is presently constituted, the White House was recently forced to ask Congress for an increase in a special guard to protect the foreign embassies located in the city.

The White House seeks a jump in manpower from 290 to 850 members and it is expected that Congress will be glad to grant the request. The city's municipal police department, it has long been apparent, cannot cope with the crime volume in the city, even without the responsibility of protecting the embassies.

There are some 650 embassies located in Washington. The fact that we haven't found ourselves confronted with a nasty international incident of grave proportions because of the high incidence of crime must be accredited to sheer luck.

A quick glance at some of the crime statistics involving only the embassies and their personnel will show good reason for apprehension. In the last three years there have been 55 robberies, 12 break-ins, two bombings, 39 threats of violence and 16 acts of violence directed at the Washington embassies and their staffs.

It should be noted that during that period the upward pace of crime involving our guests has been climbing at a faster rate than that at which the city as a whole is a target.

Possibly, there was a time in our history when pride, the overwhelming compunctions for good housekeeping in our Capital City and the sheer value of the propaganda worth of a well conducted municipality, would have dictated a swift end to uninhibited crime.

Maybe the permissiveness which has gripped so much of our thinking in the last couple of decades has helped to create the situation Washington faces today. The time has come not only to make the city safe for our foreign guests but for our own people as well.

Let's Try!

Many of us have expressed the opinion that if we can send men through space to pick up rocks on the moon, we should be able to purify the air we breathe and clean up the water in our lakes and rivers.

Now Dr. Lee DuBridge, science adviser to President Nixon declares that cleaning up the nation's polluted air and water is a more complex problem than sending a man to the moon.

He added that although the United States now has enough technical know-how to eliminate most pollution, the job is complicated by political, economic and social aspects.

The opinions of this eminent scientist are hardly to be disputed or challenged by a non-scientist editorial writer.

However, it is fair to say that we have not devoted the same time, scientific effort or expenditure of money to purifying our air and cleaning up our lakes and rivers that we have to placing a man on the moon.

It will be a tough job, but let's try to do it!

Our Luck May Run Out!

Stories and photographs of conditions in Vermont after a paralyzing snow storm point up the fact that we have been fortunate so far this winter in escaping a truly crippling blow from the powerful forces of nature.

Our good luck is not likely to last through the winter. By the law of averages we probably will feel the brunt of at least one substantial snowfall before this winter has recorded itself in history.

There is nothing whatever we can do to keep away a punishing snow storm. But we can make preparations for it with snow tires on our automobiles and the necessary utensils in our homes in case we have power failures which accompany almost every blizzard.

The time for those preparations is now.

Landlord Told Fix Units Or Face A Trial

The Newton District Court on Tuesday ordered Abraham Ginsburg, a Newton Upper Falls landlord, to renovate certain housing units which are considered sub-standard. He was given the alternative of making the repairs or face trial.

Acting City Solicitor Charles H. Morang told the court, "We have been attempting for 2 1/2 years to get him (Ginsburg) to bring his property up to code standards."

The Newton District Court action took place as the City of Newton presented its reasons, in a probable cause hearing, why it considers further action necessary against Ginsburg.

The attorney for Ginsburg, Judge George W. Cashman, argued that his client has tenants who have unpaid rent bills of $300 and $900. He stated that when there is a vacancy, another tenant will move in without the landlord's permission.

The city was seeking 28 complaints against Ginsburg with units in four buildings, one on Chestnut St., one on Washington St., and two on High St.

Judge Kopelman ordered Ginsburg to fix up those units which are not occupied or which have no orders of judgment or executions for eviction outstanding.

Crusaders Of Fatima Invite All To Shrine

The Crusaders of Fatima extend a most cordial welcome to all their friends and benefactors to make a visit during the Christmas season (anytime before the feast of the Epiphany, January 6th) to the Fatima Shrine at St. Gabriel's Monastery, 159 Washington Street, Brighton. The Nativity scene with all its splendor is on display and the Shrine is beautifully illuminated with Christmas lights and decor in honor of Our Lord's birthday.

The shrine is open week-ends with a man in attendance on Saturday and Sunday from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. for those who would like to have a close-up look at this beautiful scene. Many ride by with their families at night to look at the colorful Nativity scene.

Galbraith and his followers decided to enter a Democratic candidate against Stevenson. It subsequently developed that it was too late to do so.

Hubert H. Humphrey heads the list of Democrats to whom the Galbraith cohorts would like to apply the axe. A Democratic adversary will be entered against Hubert in the Minnesota Senate primary.

Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, for years one of the top spokesmen of the Democratic liberals, is right behind Humphrey in Galbraith's bad books.

Galbraith is quoted as saying: "Scoop Jackson is one of my best friends. That's what politicians say when they are about to stab somebody in the back."

With friends like Galbraith, Scoop doesn't need any enemies.

Of interest to Massachusetts Democrats will be the fact that the Galbraithites plan to support a candidate against Congressman Philip J. Philbin in the Democratic primary next September.

Congressman John J. Rooney of Brooklyn and Senator Gale McGee of Wyoming also will be opposed by the Galbraith gang if any Democrats run against them.

This is all a little bit silly since it is improbable that Professor Galbraith and his adherents can do any more than create a little annoyance for any of the Congressmen and Senators.

They might well cause Congressman Philbin to spend more time and effort on his campaign, but that would be just about it.

Any suggestion that they could cause waves for Senator Jackson in the State of Washington or Senator McGee in Wyoming or Congressman Rooney in Brooklyn or Hubert Humphrey in Minnesota would be absurd.

The meeting at which all this strategy was decided upon was originally scheduled for Professor Galbraith's home in Cambridge but finally was held in a New York apartment.

Some of those in attendance had the brass to suggest that the group might do better to try to help their friends in Congress than to devote themselves to meaningless opposition to liberals who had displeased them.

But that's our John Kenneth Galbraith for you!

Volpe Picked As Bay State Politician Of Past Decade

If one were to pick the politician of the 1960s at the state level in Massachusetts, the choice probably would be John A. Volpe, now the Secretary of Transportation in President Nixon's Cabinet.

There might be some dissent on that point from admirers of Senators Edward M. Kennedy and Edward W. Brooke. But Volpe made a greater impact on the state's political history than did either Ted Kennedy or Brooke.

Volpe, a Republican, won election to the Governorship three times in a basically Democratic state.

While a coolness subsequently developed between the two, Volpe pushed Brooke into the spotlight by naming him chairman of the Boston Finance Commission during his first term as Governor.

Volpe persuaded Elliot L. Richardson to stand for the Lieutenant Governorship in 1964 and Francis W. Sargent to seek the same office in 1966.

He pulled the Republican party in the state together when both its fortunes and its prospects were at an extremely low ebb.

Working with a Democratic Legislature, Mr. Volpe as Governor succeeded in obtaining the enactment of important new laws.

After a fight extending over a period of 14 months he placed a limited sales tax on the books.

Because Richard Nixon did poorly in Massachusetts there was a tendency to minimize Mr. Volpe's record at the time he resigned from the Governorship to go to Washington.

However, the chapter he wrote in Massachusetts history was an impressive one.

"Double - Dome" U.S. Image Of Intellectual Is Shown Not Valid

What kind of person is the one whose intelligence quotient ranks him among the top two per cent? Are his interests quite apart from those of the rest of us? In this spotlight article, the writer draws a profile of the person whom scientists regard as a genius.

BY ALLAN KELLER

Mere mention of the word genius conjures up in many minds a caricature of a person with abnormally high forehead—the "double-dome"—thick glasses for eyes weakened by too much studying, bushy hair and ill-fitting clothes. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

Recent research has dispelled this faulty concept and has done much more. It has shown beyond doubt that those we call geniuses are amazingly similar to all the rest of mankind—having the same interests, desires and idiosyncrasies. (For the sake of statistical accuracy, it should be pointed out that the term genius in this context refers to those persons in the top two per cent of the population as determined by I. Q. tests.)

In fact, once it has been said that the genius differs from the normal person in intellect, little else can be marshalled to show a difference.

Some of these persons whom we call geniuses smoke and some don't. Some do well financially and others don't. They tend to feel the same way about the big problems—Vietnam involvement, integration, campus disorders and urban decay—that ordinary persons feel.

The marriage rate for geniuses, barring some divergence for the bright girl, is about the same as for those of lower intelligence, and the divorce rate reflects the national norm.

Many A Genius Leads Dull Life

For every genius who writes a great symphony or invents a revolutionary new aid to mankind there are hundreds who lead dull lives while working at dull tasks. The number of persons with I. Q. ratings that mark them as unusually brilliant and work as milkmen, farmers, clerks, waiter and telephone operators is, in truth, astronomical.

Statistics show that brilliant persons tend to gravitate to certain jobs that society thinks of as important or impressive. So more are found in the teaching, legal, medical and scientific fields than in others. The new computer sciences have lured many gifted persons, but so have government jobs where extremely high mental capacity is not a requirement.

If the statistics show the genius is unlike the normal person in intellect, they likewise show that he is very much like him in all other ways.

Each year an international society whose members must belong in the top two per cent of the population, as determined by I. Q. scores, publishes a book listing many thousands of its members. This organization, called MENSA, is the only large grouping of such brilliant persons, so their statistics are the best source material for a study of genius.

Any belief that these people spend all their time solving problems in calculus, arguing about Einstein's relativity theory, or putting atoms together to form new materials won't stand up against the evidence.

A Genius Usually Follows A Trend

The short biographies in the yearbook reveal that the members are teachers and lawyers, brokers and lab technicians, doctors and analysts, retired naval officers and dance instructors, clerks and musicians.

A breakdown of their religious affiliations shows they reflect the national picture. There are more Jews in the organization than their proportion of the population would justify, and this is highly meaningful to those students of the phenomenon called high intellect. They say it is simply another sign of the strong drive for excellence that marks the Jewish people.

Geniuses have the same hobbies as normal persons, but with weighted differences. While those who took the time to answer listed their hobbies as bird watching, stamp collecting, choral singing, bridge playing, gardening, horse racing and camping, there are more than would be expected in the general population who go in for such things as cryptography and problem brainstorming.

Among the sub-groups to which the members belong are those dealing with fast car driving, alcoholism, nudism and sex deviation.

Strangely enough, the mere admission of having these hobbies gives a clear insight into one of the differences that involve the genius or very bright person. An ordinary person might be reluctant to having a yearbook mention that he was interested in discussing sex deviation or taking part in nudist vacations.

But a true genius—at least according to those who have studied them the most—couldn't care less whether society as a whole thought it proper for him to run around in his birthday suit on a country holiday.

Early on in the study of genius a person has to realize that there is more normality than abnormality, more everyday qualities than unusual ones to be found among the super-intelligent.

Thousands of the members of MENSA were polled just before the last election, and their preferences reflected almost perfectly the final figures by which President Nixon defeated Hubert Humphrey. In other polls, members showed nearly identical reactions to those of the general population when questioned about ending the war in Vietnam, what to do about Vietnam, black power and urban blight.

Genius Not Different In Some Aspects

In another survey dealing with sex attitudes—a particularly revealing, Kinsey-type study—results showed that when it comes to things like premarital sex relations, extramarital sex adventures, sex deviation, homosexuality versus heterosexuality and the like, the brilliant and the not very brilliant seem to share the same feelings in the same degree.

One thing seems clear. All the statistics indicate we still have a long way to learn what makes a genius, why he is what he is, and what we can do to make him achieve the utmost of his extraordinary mental superiority—for his own good and for mankind's.

In the mean time, don't go walking down the street trying to identify who is a genius and who isn't. You can't tell the players without a scorecard, and not always with one.

Political Highlights

ing the 1960 convention, the 1964 convention or the 1964 campaign ever manifested any hint of the slight doubt in his own ability to be the best President ever to serve the people of the United States.

Research Shows Bay State Gave Wallace Smallest Vote

An enterprising political columnist has done some research and come up with the discovery that Massachusetts in the 1968 Presidential election gave George C. Wallace the smallest vote percentage-wise of any state in the union.

He wondered in print why that happened and also was intrigued by the fact that in the tiny hamlet of Mount Washington, which numbers 37 registered voters and cast 31 ballots in 1968, Wallace was the choice of 25 per cent of the persons who took the time and trouble to go to the polls, drawing twice as many votes as Hubert H. Humphrey.

Why the nutcake fringe is as large as it is in Mount Washington, Montgomery, Wales, Brimfield, Chester, Russell and Holland (all Massachusetts towns) is a question we don't feel qualified to answer.

If we lived in any one of those whistletops for any length of time, we'd probably cast a write-in vote for Abraham Lincoln.

But the answer to the overall question as to why this state gave so few votes to George Wallace is a relatively simple one.

The people of Massachusetts don't waste their votes on a candidate who has neither any chance of winning election nor any qualifications for the office he is seeking.

It is difficult to conceive of any greater tragedy than the election of George Wallace as president of the United States, and the people of Massachusetts in the 1968 election helped to serve notice that it isn't likely to happen.

South Vietnamese Not Ready To Replace American Troops

President Nixon's plan for phasing out United States involvement in the war in Vietnam by gradually withdrawing our troops is running into a snag which must be causing Mr. Nixon many worrisome hours.

It is becoming increasingly clear that the South Vietnamese soldiers are not yet capable of assuming the responsibility of fighting the war by themselves and that there is no prospect whatever that they will be able to do so in the near future.

No one in authority says much about this situation. But when they are pinned down and pressed, they admit it is so. At the same time, however, they predict that a sharp improvement in the quality of the Republic of South Vietnam will become evident during 1970.

Whether that is simply wishful thinking is something only time will determine.

South Vietnam's army has been doubled in size. A major part of the turnover of U.S. equipment has been completed. But so far the South Vietnamese soldiers have no demonstrated the skill to be able to use sophisticated equipment.

If the American troops were all suddenly pulled out of Vietnam tomorrow, the South Vietnamese would be clobbered by the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

There would be a wholesale slaughter of the South Vietnamese, including women and children, and members of the last American units to leave Vietnam would be lucky to get out with their lives.

President Nixon a few months ago privately told a large group of Republican Congressmen that the war in Vietnam would not be an issue in next November's congressional elections.

The GOP Congressmen who waited on the President, some of them first-term members, were apprehensive that the public feeling against the war in Vietnam might be so great as to cause their defeat next autumn.

Mr. Nixon assured them they would have nothing to worry about. The impression the Republican Congressmen gained was that he intended to bring so many American soldiers home from Vietnam that the people next fall wouldn't be giving much thought to the war there.

There is doubt now in the minds of competent and qualified observers that President Nixon will be able to hold to that intention without disastrous results.

American army officers are now working frantically to try to train South Vietnamese soldiers on the use of the weapons turned over to them. Progress so far has been slow.

Perhaps there will be a speedup in 1970. If not, Mr. Nixon will be confronted with a choice of slowing down

Study lauds jogging

An 11-week experiment at the University of California indicates marked improvement in cardiovascular fitness can result from a regular program of jogging.

About 60 students, professors and staff showed average improvements of 10 per cent or more on a number of fitness tests after running for either 12 or 24 minutes three times a week for a 11-week period.

The tests measured endurance, lung capacity, amount of oxygen consumed during heavy exercise, loss of fat, ability of the body to clean fat from the blood stream and other physiological factors.

Fine difference

Fractions of a second often separate defeat from triumph in highly competitive track and field events. But who would have envisioned 5/100ths of a second determining the outcome of a six mile foot race? That, according to the Bulova Watch Company, was the margin which gave Bill Mills the win over Gerry Lindgren in the 1965 AAU Championships.

Initially, officials clocked both runners at the same time. However, an examination of the photo taken by a photometer, geared to a hundredth of a second, provided judges with the information needed to pick the winner.

The first U.S. Secretary of Agriculture was Norman J. Colman of Missouri, appointed in 1889.

Birds amuse sightseers

Sightseers in Everglades National Park discover that the wildlife sanctuary's wood ibis like to "Keep current." The birds, expert gliders, spiral upwards in a rising column of warm air. At the "effective top," where the pull of gravity and push of rising air on the birds equalize, they may be 1,000 to 2,500 feet above the ground. Here they set their wings for gliding, and off they go without moving a feather until they reach the feeding grounds as far as 15 to 20 miles away. Wood ibis can be seen around Flamingo, the Park's tourist complex on Florida Bay.

At one time, the Plains Indians roamed an area stretching from the Mississippi River to the Rocky Mountains.

Return Plates Not In Use To Auto Registry

Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin reminds all motorists who are not registering their motor vehicles for 1970 that their present registration plates must be returned forthwith after January one to the nearest Registry office or the Norwood police department. Present plates must also be returned by manufacturers, dealers, repairmen, owner-repairmen, transporters, farmers, boat and motorcycle dealers, and any other registrants who have been issued new plates for the year 1970.

McLaughlin pointed out that plates are the property of the Commonwealth and that when a registration ends, the person in whose name the motor vehicle was registered has the responsibility to return the plates immediately.

"The operator, owner or person in charge is liable for operating or permitting a motor vehicle to be operated or allowing it to remain on a public way without being properly registered," the Registrar said. Such a violation would result in the suspension of a person's license and court prosecution. "It is a very simple matter to comply with the return of registration plates not being used, and I urge immediate compliance after January 1, 1970 to avoid penalties."

So. Hockey Squad In 0-0 Tie Saturday

Goalie Paul Modern was brilliant in the Newton South nets, and had to be, as the Lions battled to a 0-0 tie with Lincoln-Sudbury, last Saturday, at the Merrimack Valley Forum, in Billerica.

The two squads were perfectly matched. Modern turned away 14 shots as did his counterpart Tom Sartori. Neither team mounted a consistent offensive attack as defense took center stage, but both had a few good scoring opportunities and on those occasions the goalies shone.

The shut-out was Modern's first of the season. Last winter, as a sophomore, he had four.

South is 1-1-1 on the year, now, and must face powerful defending Dual County League champ Wayland and tough Weston, this week.

UP, UP, FOR SCORE — Emmons Levine, Newton South basketball captain, soars skyward to score against Brookline in second quarter of last week's home game. Despite South's efforts, Brookline took early lead and held on to win. (Peter Lowy Photo)

Newton High Trackmen Bow To BC High But Take Win Over Weym'th

The Newton High Track Team split two decisions last week, as they defeated Weymouth and lost to Boston College High. Their record is now 2 and 1, and Saturday they meet Brockton.

While the Weymouth win was satisfying after three years of frustration against the Maroons, the B.C. meet was just as frustrating for Newton as few ran up to their best while the team did receive some bad breaks.

The paramount bad break was the loss of 600 yarder Steve Scrimshaw who was snow bound up in New Hampshire. Scrimshaw was a sure five points but there was little anyone could do to get him to the meet. Another loss was Paul Price who pulled up lame at the end of the 50 in the Weymouth meet. He will probably be lost for the remainder of the season.

There were some outstanding performances turned in by Newton in the losing cause, however.

David Douglas, who, according to Coach Boyle is the best sophomore middle distance runner in N.H.S. history stormed home to take the 1000 in 2:31.1. Douglas also triumphed in the Weymouth meet in 2:29.9.

Skip Fawstin turned in his second double win effort as he won the shotput and the hurdles. Fawstin captured the hurdles in the Weymouth meet and finished second to Weymouth's High School All-American tackle, Jim Tambert in the shot.

Senior George Norcross won the 50 in 5.7 at both meets and should be one of the top sprinters in the state. Ken Yanco placed third in the sprint against B.C.H.

Alan Boyer ran second to the Eagles Kevin Dunn in the 300 as Dunn recorded a 35.5 clocking. Against Weymouth Boyer triumphed and was followed by Mike Tymon in third.

In the 600 Steve Scrimshaw won against Weymouth and Tom Best finished third in Saturday's loss.

Hankins Flips Brookline To 72-56 Win Over South Squad

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Super-soph Mike Hankins completely dominated the first half, flipping in 17 points, to propel Brookline High past Newton South, 72-56, last week, at Newton.

Hankins, a highly publicized sophomore lived up to his advance billings. Last year, on the Brookline freshman team, he averaged 40 points per game, including one fantastic 61-point effort.

The 6-2 230-pounder missed only two shots from the field and cleared the boards with frightening efficiency. Hankins, however, also acquired four fouls by the intermission and but for a brief two-minute span in the final quarter, sat the rest of the game out. His first half performance, though, allowed the visitors to breathe a little easier.

With Hankins popping in 11 points, Brookline spurred out to a 20-7 first quarter lead. At the start of the second period that advantage mushroomed to 25-7 and South took time out to talk things over.

Coach Chandler Phinney must have said something right for the Lions looked like a rejuvenated team in reeling off six straight points, paced by Captain Emmons Levine and guards Billy Garber and Bob Sherman.

Brookline was on top, 37-26, at the half, and but for one short flurry mid-way through the third stanza that chopped the lead to eight, that was as close as South could come.

Levine was high man for the Lions with 13 points. Garber and Sherman both had strong efforts and John Corcoran accounted for 10 fourth quarter points.

The Lions are 0-4 on the year and face Arlington and Weymouth this week in hopes of recording their first win.

South High Bows To Milton, No. Quincy As Pottey Stars

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

With a strong last lap finish junior Chuck Pottey cracked the Newton South six-year-old indoor 2-mile standard with a 10:46.3 timing, last Saturday, versus Milton High, at Northeastern University.

The rest of the Lion trackers were not up to his efforts, though, and South fell, 47-29 to Milton Quincy, and 51-35 to Milton.

South built up an early lead against North Quincy by capturing six points in both the mile and 1000-yard run. Junior Dick Dickinson grabbed first in the longer race in 5:07.4 and Mike LeBlanc backed him up in third. Dave Glaser won his first race with a 2:39.8 clocking in the 1000 and Steve Sahl added third.

That was the high point of the meet as the Lions failed in the field events and two short sprints.

In preparation for his record-breaking race Pottey notched a 10:52.8 victory in the 2-mile. Junior John Seeler was also a winner in 37.2 in the 300.

Sophomore Roger Cooper and Dave Peters added second place finishes in the shot-put and 50-yard dash, and Ron Schneider, sophomore Elliot Wiseman and Roy Linn managed thirds in the 600, 50, and 45-yard hurdles, respectively.

Pottey was the clear star of the Milton meet as a depleted Newton squad dropped its third consecutive meet. Pottey led all the way in recording his second win of the campaign. The lanky warrior's time erases the old mark of 10:49, held by Hugh Conway.

Cooper, with a 40-3 3/4 heave in the shot and Wiseman, 6.0 in the dash, were the only other individual winners for South.

Schneider, Seeler, and Scott Lampert copped seconds in the 1000, 600, and 300.

Glaser, Sahl, Lampert, Linn, and Mike McKinney contributed thirds in the mile, 1000, shot, hurdles, and high jump.

For the first time this season the relay team was successful. The team of Wiseman, Sahl, Lampert and Schneider was victorious in 2:41.8.

The Lions meet Rindge Tech and Quincy this week, both at Northeastern.

tionary measures that have been employed by the city to this end will demonstrate beyond any doubt that the claims regarding the safety of the children at the Emerson School are unfounded and without substance."

Of the Emerson and other older school buildings, John Gilleland, assistant superintendent for business services, said, "... the buildings are safe for the children, but if you ask can we make them safer, the answer is yes."

He pointed out, however, that the codes Dean referred to, apply only to new construction.

In his letter, the mayor said: "You may recall that, in 1958, the city conducted an exhaustive study of its older facilities with a view toward proving maximum protection to their occupants."

"The use of sprinkler systems throughout public buildings was seriously investigated but found to be impractical and not as safe as the use of heat-sensitive electronic warning devices."

Continuing, he said: "Such devices were installed in a number of buildings, of which the Emerson School is one. These are scattered throughout the facility and are much more sensitive to heat than are sprinklers."

"Our primary thought in adopting the warning device system rather than the sprinkler system was that we would rather have the building emptied at first sign of a fire than try to save the building with sprinklers."

Members of the School Committee, meanwhile, have asked city officials what can be accomplished to improve safety.

Alderman Ernest Dietz has suggested a separate list of building needs to improve safety throughout Newton be presented to the mayor so that provisions could be included in the 1970 budget.

The remainder of the mayor's letter follows:

"In addition, the Emerson School and all our public buildings are continuously inspected by the Fire Department and the City's Department of Public Buildings, and are inspected annually by the State Department of Public Safety, the very agency that is responsible for writing and issuing public safety codes."

"As Mayor, I have charged the Fire Department with conducting monthly inspections and reporting their results to the School Superintendent, to the School Department Safety Coordinator and to me."

"The Department of Public Buildings conducts their inspections semi-annually and certifies to the School Committee and to me that the buildings meet safety and health standards for the protection of our students. The inspections by the State Department of Public Safety are conducted annually and in their last one (October 31, 1969) they certified that the Emerson School meets all safety and health standards and is certified as such until March 15, 1971. In fact, they certified the school as being safe for occupancy by 500 students, when, in actuality, it only accommodates 325."

"The section of the report referring to doors with double-swing action is a valid one and is well-taken. I have initiated steps to have single-swing doors installed as soon as possible."

"I hope that in reading this you will see that the reported 'emergency situation' is not that, and that the lives of the children attending the Emerson School are not 'at stake' in the present building. Our children are our future, and we have not and will not allow any situation to exist which might endanger their lives and their well-being."

Local Director For Project Of Rehabilitation

A grant of $90,000 has been awarded to the New England Rehabilitation Research Institute at Northeastern University for the study of problems in the rehabilitation of the physically, mentally and socially disabled.

The grant was made by the Office of Health, Education and Welfare, Social and Rehabilitation Service.

Dr. George J. Goldin of 35 Crest Road, Framingham, research director of the institute, said the funds would be used "to study how to overcome the dependency of disabled persons in poverty settings so that they may become productive members of society."

According to Dr. Goldin, studies under the federal grant will focus on the hard core unemployed dependent on welfare because of alcoholism, epilepsy, paraplegia and other major disabling conditions.

Northeastern's Rehabilitation Research Institute is the only one of its kind in New England. Research findings will be utilized through the institute's work with practitioners and rehabilitation institutions throughout the New England area.

Dr. Reuben J. Margolin of 28 Halcyn Road, Newton Centre, has been named project director. Dr. Margolin is chairman of the department of rehabilitation and special education at Northeastern University.

enue but that the cities and towns can only fall back on their already strained tax rates.

He asserted that even Newton, a well-to-do city, is limited as to the amount of money it can provide for its public schools. The Mayor also said that because of school priorities other community needs in Newton sometimes suffer.

The Mayor talked of the need in the coming decade for more equipment to handle snow removal and to meet safety requirements. He said more recreational facilities should be provided and that more services should be furnished for both the elderly and the young.

Mr. Basbas also cited the necessity of improved and increased measures to deal with water and air pollution. He voiced concern that there is no State or Federal agency to guide the city with its incinerator problem.

He said it may be necessary to spend as much as $500,000 to change the city's incinerator so that the amount of fly ash will be reduced.

Mayor Basbas, the Board of Aldermen and the School Committee all are preparing for a busy year.

The Aldermanic Board will hold its first real business meeting next Monday night (Jan. 5).

Six new committee chairmen will be chosen to fill the posts of the retired Aldermen — Winslow C. Auryansen, Finance; George L. Hicks, Public Works; William L. Bruce, City Planning; Melvin J. Dangel, Legislation and Rules; William E. Hopkins, Education; and William P. Matthews, Kenrick Fund.

A seventh committee chairmanship will become vacant if the Executive Council approves the appointment of Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner as judge in the Newton district court.

The new Aldermen starting their service on the city's board of directors are Thomas B. Concannon Jr., Richard J. Bullwinkle, Arthur H. Sullivan, Peter Harrington, Michael Lipof and Harry H. Crosby.

William Carmen also returns to the Board after an absence of four years. He retired from the Aldermanic Board after seeking election as Mayor in 1965.

Two new members of the School Committee are Mrs. Eleanor S. Rosenblum who succeeds Mrs. Norma W. Mintz who did not seek reelection and Herbert P. Regal who has taken the place of Professor Harold J. Berman who moved out of Newton.

The makeup of the Board of Aldermen for the next two years will be as follows: Aldermen at Large: Ade-

Mass. Classic League highlight at Boston Bowl saw Holiday Magic Cosmetics defeat First National Bank of Natick, 8-0 and become the league leaders — taking over first place spot from Boch Motors.

Brighton's Jim Hatherly at 623 and George Santos, Weymouth, with 621 were high for the Holidays, who made up a 15-point deficit the past five weeks to catch Boch who had been leaders for more than three months.

Waltham's Dave Annetichiarico hit 636 for Salvucci Builders in their strong 6-2 win over Boch Motors. 'Steady-as-a-Rock' Ken Galvin of Roxbury with 601-600-600 the past three weeks, could not stop Boch's skid.

Belmont's Barry Warshafsky, hitting over 600 the past six weeks, rolled three 200 games for 638, as his Circle Inn's Pony Room team shut out Fields Corner Driving School, 8-0. Pony's Leon Rodriguez of Brockton hit 243 his first game — Loser's Ken Griggs, Somerville fired 641.

Lynn's Joe Cawlina, bowling 651, paced Phillips Candy House's 6-2 win over Sea 'N Surf Restaurant. Cawlina has had three consecutive weeks with series over 650, moving into the 200 average bracket.

Citgo Gasoline's 'Lefty' Joe Pepl of Marshfield tossed 248-181-254 for a tremendous 653 set, as Citgo dropped A.A.A. Recording Studios, 6-2. Pepl recently bowled a big 655 series.

Chelsea's Hank Rosati, rolling 624, led Carlson Tire's 6-2 win as they topped Rotary Liquors. Picanzo Bros.' Pro Shop and Lord & Miller, Builders, had a standoff, splitting 4-4.

VA News Notes

Two new medical benefits for service-disabled war veterans have been authorized in legislation approved recently by the President, the VA announced today.

The VA said that war veterans who are totally and permanently disabled from service-connected causes can now receive out-patient care at Veterans Administration hospital clinics for non-service-connected conditions as well as for their service-connected conditions.

Out-patient care has, in the past, been available only for medical conditions that were service related.

The new rules, authorized in Public Law 91-102, dated October 30, 1969, entitle the war veteran in service-connected total disability status to medical care without the need for investigation as to the exact relation of a particular condition and the service-connected disability, the VA explained.

Also approved on Oct. 30 was Public Law 91-101 which removes the six-month time limit on providing care in private nursing homes for veterans who are hospitalized primarily for a service-connected disability. The law does not remove the six-month limit as it applies to non-service-

Letter To Graphic

Editor, The Graphic:
The time has come in the history of America when, as a result of the uniqueness in the founding of this nation and in further recognition of the dynamic philosophy of our Founding Fathers appertaining to their Faith in God and in the brotherhood of man, we who occupy this great country, with its abundant resources and plenteousness for our every need, cry HALT to the cancer of racial strife and inward physical destruction of the bulwarks of the nation, its institutions, and its potential greatness in the fields of scientific knowledge and international leadership. Indeed, there is not one of us who can excuse ourselves, blameless for the abominable unrest which plagues this country in our time. All of us in many ways, subtly, overtly, and covertly, have bastardized the symbolism of our institutions, perpetuating social distress, fear, and inability to fully enjoy the blessings and bountifulness which Providence has bestowed upon our nation.

We have placed unnecessary emphasis on color and race; we have despised our fellow brethren because of the color of their skin; we have failed to admit that all humanity has been made at the pleasure of the Great Creator who in his infinite and omnipotent power created mankind, not only at his pleasure, but also in his own likeness. This particular oversight has brought upon this country and all mankind untold and unnecessary discomfort.

Too few people acknowledge the fact that each and every one, whether black or white, rich or poor, must depart this world sometime, we know not when, leaving behind our high office, our pomp and vanity; stripped of the mask of selfishness and deceit with which we have all disguised our true self. We can not continue in this manner of living any longer. We have not only the ability and resources but also the conscience with which to bring about necessary changes for the betterment of all and for our nation. We can organize this country for internal peace, and for a new high in morality that would surpass all behaviour patterns of nations in history. This should be our most necessary endeavor.

or in this country... NOW. To this end, I send out an invitation and a challenge to all SCIENTISTS, PRIESTS, TEACHERS, ADMINISTRATORS, JUDGES, DOCTORS, LAWYERS, POLITICIANS, STATESMEN, SOCIAL WORKERS, EMPLOYERS, MOTHERS AND FATHERS, NURSES, RADIO BROADCASTERS, NEWSPAPER REPORTERS, LITERARY WRITERS, TV ANNOUNCERS AND MC'S, ALL YOUNG PEOPLE, TEENAGERS STUDENTS IN UNIVERSITIES, HIPPIES, BLACK AND WHITE PEOPLE.

Let us all organize this country for an internal peace and self-respect individually and collectively, as has never been known or envisaged in human history.

To everyone who would seek his own personal gain by ulterior motives... I beg of you to change your outlook and your values of life.

Oh America wake up! Do not allow us, who are alive now to lose this wonderful opportunity to assert the commonality of what we really are... human. I know we can do it. Would you decide as of now to join me in a Crusade For the Brotherhood of Man? If you are willing, I am sure we can bring love and peace to this wonderful nation. The life of each of us would be profoundly more beautiful and rewarding. We can all truly work to bring about this in America: A happy time... May 1970 be a year of real peace for us all.

Mr. Larkin would succeed W. Lloyd Allen who resigned. The Governor's Council is expected to act upon his nomination next week.

Surprise was expressed by some Newton officials that Gov. Sargent did not select a Newton attorney to replace Judge Allen in the Newton court.

Device used in space aids cancer detection

Space engineers say a spin-off from the nation's space programs may point the way toward early detection of cancer.

Research with infrared measurement shows body tissue temperatures can be accurately recorded, said Lincoln H. Hudson, director of Space Flight Systems for Honeywell, Inc.

"Cancerous or diseased tissue is slightly warmer than surrounding tissue," Houston said. "By scanning a person's body with infrared detectors similar to those developed for the space program, it is possible to determine the start of cancerous growth before it can be detected by other means."

Solons Oppose 'Madness' Of Crane Beach Pillage

Sixteen Democratic and Republican members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives today declared their strong opposition to the proposal to remove 22 million cubic yards of sand from Cranes Beach and other points on the Massachusetts sea coast.

Speaking for the group Rep. H. James Shea, Jr. (D-Newton) said: "In these days when environmental survival is replacing conservation as one of the most critical issues, these legislators of both political parties wish to make it unequivocally clear that they oppose this kind of proposal which would devastate one of our few remaining natural sea coast areas."

The joint statement reads: "We members of the General Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts wish to hereby notify all concerned parties and the public of our adamant opposition to the proposed removal of 22 million cubic yards of sand from Cranes Beach in the Town of Ipswich for the purpose of providing additional fill for runway extensions at Logan Airport. The blatant absurdity of denuding one of the most truly beautiful and unique natural resources of Massachusetts seems so obviously apparent that we insist that our time should not be wasted by contesting such madness."

Dr. Rebecca Valette Assists Full Co-education at B.C.

Dr. Rebecca Valette of Newton, recently appointed Assistant to the Dean of Boston College's College of Arts and Sciences for the education of women, has undertaken the role of academic guide for women students who will be accepted at B.C. in September of 1970. She will also work with the various departments to determine what adjustments might be made to meet the interests and needs of the women students who are being accepted in the College of Arts and Sciences for the first time then.

Women have been enrolled at the Jesuit university from the beginning in the Graduate School, School of Nursing, the Graduate School of Social Work, School of Education and Evening College but the entrance of some 200 women students in the upcoming freshman class in Arts and Sciences is a pioneering event in the history of the school.

Mrs. Valette, of the Department of Romance Languages at B.C., is the mother of three children who attend the Ward School in Newton where she teaches two experimental sixth-grade French classes. She is also co-leader of a Brownie troop and a Cub Scout den at the school.

Dr. Valette, who is Director of the Language Laboratory at Boston College and Associate Professor of French and Education, was selected for her scholarly reputation, teaching experience, and interest in students.

In her new role she will be dealing with "the challenge of modifying traditional educational patterns so as to meet the

"We further believe that serious consideration given by any state agency to such an absurd proposal is administrative irresponsibility and a disservice to the citizens of the Commonwealth. We therefore strongly urge the Massachusetts Port Authority, the Army Corps of Engineers, the Division of Waterways of the Department of Public Works, and the Division of Conservation Services of the Department of Natural Resources NOT to grant approval to such a plan and NOT again to contemplate giving serious consideration to such a proposal."

The statement was signed by Representatives Shea of Newton, Paul F. Malloy of Cambridge, Richard W. Daly of Wellesley, Irving Fishman of Newton, Michael J. Lombardi of Cambridge, C. Vinadamant of Worcester, Robert S. Creeden, Jr. of Brockton, William A. Pickett of Somerville, Charles W. Long of Westwood, David E. Harrison of Gloucester, An-runway extensions at Logan Airport. The blatant absurdity of denuding one of the most truly beautiful and unique natural resources of Massachusetts seems so obviously apparent that we insist that our time should not be wasted by contesting such madness."

Dr. Valette's doctorate is from the University of Colorado and her undergraduate studies were taken at Mount Holyoke College. Before coming to Boston College in 1965 she taught at the University of Colorado, the University of South Florida, NATO Defense College, and Wellesley College.

Among her current professional commitments are: editor of the Testing Section of the Annual Bibliography of the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages; member of the French Achievement Test Committee of the College Entrance Examination Board; and member of the Foreign Language to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Dr. Valette is the author of "Modern Language Testing" and "Arthur de Gobineau and the Short Story." She is co-author with her husband Dr. Jean - Paul Valette of "Lisons" a French reader; editor of "Lectures Libres," an intermediate French anthology; and author of numerous scholarly articles on literature, pedagogy, language learning, and testing.

At Ringling Gallery

Newton Collectors Head Florida Show

A unique exhibition of 17th century "Dutch Drawings from the Abrams Collection" will open in the New Wing Gallery of the John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art, Sarasota, Florida, on January 5, with a Museum members' reception and preview on the evening of January 4.

Accompanying this show will be an exhibition of "Porto Theatre," a brilliant new concept of portable theater design presented by the International Exhibitions Foundation of Washington, D.C.

The 63 drawings by 51 Dutch artists have been carefully selected by the Wellesley College Museum from the much larger collection assembled by Maida and George Abrams, young collectors of Newton.

They represent less than half of what is probably the most important private collection in America of drawings from the time of Rembrandt, many of which give evidence of his influence.

Noteworthy is the wide variety of subject matter in the drawings which include portraits and figures, landscapes, animals, fish and birds, as well as scenes of Dutch peasants merrymaking at an egg dance, p.m. flirting, singing and playing croquet. The artists represented range from such well known names as Jan Both, Philips Koninck and Jacob van Ruisdael to relative unknowns identifiable only by the expert reception and preview on the evening of January 4.

The "Porto Theatre" exhibition consists of two scale models (interior and exterior) accompanied by plans, color photographs and drawings. Originated by Edward F. Kook, Donald Oenslager, Jo Mielziner and Cyril Harris, lighting, theater and acoustical specialists, it is intended to provide a totally integrated theater with stage, seats, lighting, sound, power plant, etc., which can be air-lifted in two cargo planes for presentation of American theatrical productions abroad.

As conceived, Porto Theatre is a 112-foot diameter theater in the round with 12 rows of seats a c c o m m o d a t i n g 1,022 persons. It will be the largest structure ever built of reinforced plastic. The two exhibitions will be open to the public in the New Wing Gallery of the Ringling Museum of Art weekdays from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.

Anti-Poverty Agency Seen As Failing In Funds Quest Hospital Aid Meeting Set For Jan. 15

"The poor be damned," is the interpretation given this week to the attitude of regional officials of the Office of Economic Opportunity by Leo C. Renaud, Executive Director of Western Metropolitan Boston Regional Opportunity Council, Inc. (WEMBROC), the anti-poverty agency for Arlington, Brookline, Newton, Waltham and Watertown, after two months of fruitless discussion with the New York office regarding program funding for 1970.

"Due to the action of these officials, WEMBROC finds itself in its five communities with no place to go," Renaud said. "At the same time, Renaud predicted that even if Head Start funding authorization comes later, the program will not be able to run unless the WEMBROC administrative structure is also funded. OEO has already advised that it does not intend to fund the administration for 1970."

Unitarian Church Plans Major Spring Fund Drive

The First Unitarian Society in Newton is planning an intensive money-raising drive this spring. Increased community involvement in the church since the Rev. G. Clyde Dodder has become its minister, is one of the reasons for this drive.

At the time of this writing there are several different groups working within the confines of the church in activities ranging from drama to the headstart programs and including yoga classes. The New England Players Theatre is a resident company.

Mrs. John Taplin assists in the church's cooperation with the headstart program which uses its facilities. The office of "Freeport," a half-way house for young people who are having problems at home and at school, is located in the church's parish hall.

Also the church cooperates with the West Newton Community Center in supplying a place for their nursery school. John Ertha's Homestead Camp holds its winter meetings at the church.

Homestead is a private camp, but takes many children at no cost, where the need for such an environment exists. The church is headquarters for the Clergy Consultation Services for Massachusetts, which is under the direction of Rev. Dodder.

This is an advisory service for women who have problem pregnancies. Both the Boy and Girl Scouts meet regularly. Also Geoffrey Godsell conducts his Friday morning lectures on current events at the church.

Many of these groups contribute in some manner to the upkeep of the premises, but all these activities take their toll of the physical premises, and to meet these added hidden expenses of these services, the church needs an enormous amount of money.

A series of activities is planned for the next three months. First on Friday, January 16th, 1970, a gala dinner dance will be held at the church. There will be a sherry hour and then dinner. Mrs. Marjorie Nesson and Mrs. Marjorie Bachrach are "doing" the dinner. They will be assisted by members of the Supper Committee. At this time, plans for the auction and raffle will be announced.

The auction will take place on Saturday, March 21st, at the church. It is hoped that many lovely articles will be offered for the auction. Following the auction, will be the drawing for the raffled Chrysler - Simca.

The evening before the auction, March 20th, there will be a wine-tasting party, at which time the articles presented for auction can be viewed.

Between the beginning of January and the drawing for the raffle, tickets will be sold by members of the 1st Unitarian Church. The Sequira brothers, Dick of West Newton Chrysler - Plymouth, and Al of Wareham Chrysler - Plymouth have extended all sorts of moral support and enthusiasm to the committee, as well as supplying the car for the raffle.

The steering committee for this special fund drive is composed of the following: Mrs. Morris Harold Adler, Chairman; Mrs. Richard Lowell, vice-chairman; Mrs. G. Clyde Dodder, Mrs. Marjorie Bachrach, Mrs. Marjorie Nesson, Mrs. Lowell Coulter, Mrs. Albert Beisel, Mrs. L. Fabian Bachrach, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hagan, Mrs. Walter Hauke.

The committee hopes for the cooperation of the entire church membership to help make this drive a huge success.

5 COOKOUT GIRLS TESTIFY TODAY IN INQUEST CLIMAX

BARRING ANY SURPRISES, five girls who attended the cookout on Chappaquiddick Island are scheduled to testify today at the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne. The witnesses, former campaign workers for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, apparently will be the final ones in the inquiry. Testifying Wednesday were John N. Farrar, a scuba diver; Dr. Ronald R. Mills, associate medical examiner who ruled Miss Kopechne drowned, and Edgartown Police Chief Dominick J. Arena, who supervised recovery of the body. Meanwhile, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has called for "full and quick disclosure" of testimony at the inquest. A Chicago newspaper quoted a Kennedy aide as saying the senator wants the Massachusetts Supreme Court to make the transcript public as soon as possible. "I expect to be vindicated and vindicated fully when the transcripts are made public and I am then allowed to answer questions," Kennedy was quoted as saying.

FORMER BOSTON MAYOR JOHN B. HYNES' BURIAL SATURDAY

SOFT-SPOKEN John B. Hynes, Boston's popular mayor for the length of the 1950s and regarded by many as the real architect of the "new Boston" will be buried Saturday. Hynes, 72, who was mayor from January 1950 until January 1960 and twice defeated the formidable James Michael Curley, died Tuesday night of a heart attack in his Dorchester home. He also served as temporary mayor in 1947 when Curley was in prison for five months on a fraud charge. The former mayor suffered a heart attack in November but returned home before Christmas.

GOV. SARGENT PROPOSES BILL OF ENVIRONMENTAL RIGHTS

GOV. FRANCIS W. SARGENT proposed an amendment to the Massachusetts Constitution Wednesday establishing a Bill of Environmental Rights as part of a wide-ranging program to protect man and preserve his surroundings. Sargent made no mention of new taxes in his first annual message to the 166th Legislature on the first day of its second session. Senate Pres. Maurice A. Donahue of Holyoke who is expected to vote for the Democratic nomination for governor, applauded the "sincerity of purpose" in the governor's 3,500 word address, but said he hoped Sargent will move "beyond mere rhetoric and inexecutable velleities to constructive leadership" of his legislative program. House Minority Leader Sidney Q. Curtiss, R-Sheffield, praised the Republican governor's address for focusing on problems that "shout for solution." While pledging programs to deal with a myriad of subjects including welfare, housing, auto insurance, education, transportation, the elderly and governmental reform, Sargent said: "We shall begin with an amendment to the Massachusetts Constitution that a healthy environment is as fundamental a constitutional right as free speech." Sargent also reaffirmed his support for the League of Women Voters' initiative petition to cut the size of the House from 240 to 160 members. It was on this point alone that House Speaker David M. Bartley, D-Holyoke, took issue with the governor; he said he found the governor's legislative aims to be—in the main—laudable.

BOSTON CITY HOSPITAL LOSES ITS ACCREDITATION

BOSTON CITY HOSPITAL has lost its accreditation for the first time in its 100-year history, city Health and Hospital Commissioner Dr. Andrew P. Sackett announced Wednesday. He said the ruling was "unwarranted." The Joint Commission of Accreditation gave the 1,250 bed hospital a list of 51 recommendations which, it said, "should be put into effect." Most concerned staff increases, fire prevention and record keeping. "Less than half of them are in any way related to the furnishing of medical care," Sackett said Wednesday afternoon. He emphasized that hospital service would be unaffected by the change and that the facility's reimbursement by the city for such expenses as Medicaid and Medicare would not be impaired. Continued loss of accreditation could mean withdrawal of federal aid, difficulty for nurses in securing on-the-job training, problems in Medicaid and Medicare certification, and general loss of confidence in the hospital on the part of interns, resident doctors and patients, Sackett said. The hospital, a complex of 26 buildings with 4,000 employees, was placed on probation four years ago and given accreditation in the subsequent survey the following year. There was no warning of the present loss of accreditation.

POLICE SAY AT LEAST 2 PERSONS MURDERED YABLONSKI

STATE POLICE said Wednesday at least two persons murdered United Mine Workers official Joseph A. Yablonski and his wife and daughter as they slept in their Clarksville, Pa. home. They also said it was possible Yablonski attempted to protect his family with a shotgun before he was cut down by five bullets in the bedroom. Two shotgun shells were found under his body and an unloaded shotgun was on a windowsill near the bed, police said. The FBI entered the case with plans to conduct its most intensive manhunt since the assassination of Martin Luther King. The FBI said it would interview thousands of persons, including UMW President W. A. "Tony" Boyle. Thousands of miners in a three-state area continued their sympathy walkout. Capt. Joseph C. Snyder of the Pennsylvania State Police said at least two weapons were used to kill Yablonski, 59, his wife, Margaret, 57, and his daughter, Charlotte, 25, in their colonial style home. Their bodies were found Monday. Funeral services for the victims will be held Friday.

TEAMSTERS' CONTRACT PROPOSAL NEARLY DOUBLES WAGES

THE TEAMSTERS UNION Wednesday proposed a new labor contract that would nearly double wages and benefits over a three-year period. The nation's trucking firms said it was "obviously out of the question." Chief Industry negotiator Ray F. Beagle said the proposal presented at the opening of the contract talks would boost wages and fringe benefits 96.4 per cent and cost nearly $9 billion for the life of the contract covering 450,000 teamsters. But Frank E. Fitzsimmons, union general vice president, defended the proposal as necessary to maintain the truck drivers' "present standard of living in a marketplace with ever increasing prices." Fitzsimmons is running the union in the absence of imprisoned President James Hoffa. He repeated a Teamster pledge not to have a nationwide strike and said he hoped agreement could be reached without any walkouts. The old contract expires March 31.

DEVICES—(See Page 21)

A $600,000 increase in the non-salary portion of the school budget over the $2.5 million allocated for the same purpose last year was reviewed and given tentative approval by the Newton School Committee at a special meeting on Monday night.

It is expected that the section of the school budget containing the funds to pay the salaries of teachers and other school personnel will be at least $1 million greater than in 1969.

Negotiations on raises for the city's public school teachers are still being conducted, and to date there has been no indication as to what those salary increases will be.

Provisions must be made in the 1970 budget to pay whatever raises are agreed upon for the last four months of this year.

Funds also must be included in the budget to cover the wage hikes voted last year, which were in effect for only four months, for a full 12 months this year.

When the wage negotiations with the Newton Teachers' Association are completed, both the salary and non-salary portions of the school budget will be adopted by the School Committee. No estimate is presently available as to when that will be.

Increased school expenditures are considered certain to cause a substantial boost in the city's tax rate.

The largest portion of the $600,000 increase in the non-salary budget is a result of the transfer from the city to the School Department of Blue-Cross, Blue-Shield coverage for school personnel.

The increase in the school budget resulting from this transfer amounts to $360,500, John Gilleland, assistant superintendent for business services reported.

Gilleland also observed that the $2.5 million non-salary budget in 1969 was regarded as "Spartan and austere" and the same approach was used in preparing this year's figures, he said.

A second major factor in the budget rise is the allocation of $25,000 for transportation costs for physical education programs that will be necessitated by the loss of

"Shared Decision" Sought On Housing

Robert Casselman, president of the Newton Community Development Foundation, requested the School Committee on Monday night to appoint a representative to work with his group in deciding on possible housing sites and particularly asked for a "shared decision" regarding the possibility of utilizing the Stearns School site in Nonantum.

As a result they are seeking to have the sites designated by April.

It is important to have School Committee or School Department involvement in site decisions because school enrollments could be affected, Casselman stressed.

General Opposition Answers Basbas School Funding Plan

Caution and opposition among most state representatives and Newton School Committee members have been expressed to Mayor Monte G. Basbas' plan to have the Commonwealth assume the costs of public education.

Although Basbas in his inaugural address last week proposed a state takeover of expenditures, he urged that "local control" of the schools be retained.

Rep. H. James Shea Jr., said that although supporting a system of state funding, it would mean state control. He said: "That's the purpose of the program — to enforce state standards."

He doubted that Newton would retain autonomy of public education if the state took over funding.

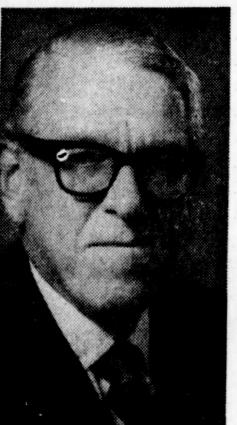

Of state control of money, Rep. Paul F. Malloy asserted that it "necessitates strict control by the state" over Newton's operation of the schools.

In Malloy's opinion, the statewide standard would result in a "whopping tax bill" and the tax bill would be confiscatory.

Rep. Shea said that the mayor made his proposal at a time "when there wasn't much news and it hit big." He also said the concept was not new.

Rep. Theodore D. Mann, however, saw the need for something to relieve the property owner... now paying a large share of school costs through taxes.

Nixon Regime Let Brooke Make Himself Look Silly

Officials in the Nixon administration made one serious blunder in connection with the proposed closing of the NASA research center in Cambridge.

They allowed Senator Edward W. Brooke to make himself look rather silly, and Brooke is not one who is likely to forgive and forget such treatment quickly.

Brooke's office was issuing statements assuring the people of Greater Boston that no decision had been made to close NASA at the very time letters were being prepared in Washington informing Massachusetts Congressmen of the intended closing of the Cambridge center.

Senator Brooke deserved better protection than that from President Nixon.

Diet Workshop To Hold Open House Next Thurs.

Diet Workshop will hold an Open House at its main office at 317 Washington St., Newton Corner, next Thursday, Jan. 15 at 7:30 p.m. for the benefit of Mini-Losers and Maintainers.

The Diet Workshop has been utilizing the group technique successfully now for four years to cope with weight problems, but only recently did it realize the necessity for different kinds of groups within the framework of The Workshop. Thus there is now a Mini-Loser, Maintenance Workshop, designed specifically for people who have ten pounds or less to lose and who want to receive individual instruction in the art of maintaining a weight loss for indefinite period of time.

This group will meet once a week for six weeks and must be paid for the first evening. There are also other regular Diet Workshop groups held at the main office and more information can be obtained by calling them during office hours.

Not many dieters can enjoy the luxury of ice cream three times a week and some cocktails thrown in for good measure (not to mention an occasional piece of cake or serving of spaghetti!) Mini-Losers do and they never lose the nutritional balance of the original diet. "If this be dieting, eat on!"

The following recipe for a huge "Diet" lunch will give some idea of the really great meals Diet Workshop members enjoy:

Tuna Delight

1 small can tuna, drained and flaked.
1 apple, peeled, cored and diced.
1/2 cucumber, peeled and diced.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
4 or 5 celery stalks, diced.
several large lettuce leaves.

Toss together reserving leaves for the base. Garnish with diet salad dressing. Add a piece of toast and a cup of tea.

Sabbath Of Concern For Israel Plan

The Sabbath of January 9 and 10 has been designated by the Massachusetts Board of Rabbis, together with the Va'ad Harabonim and the Associated Synagogues of Massachusetts as a "Sabbath of Concern for Israel."

Men, women and children have been urged to help fill the Temples and Synagogues at Sabbath Eve and Sabbath Morning Services as an expression of solidarity with the beleaguered State of Israel.

Prayers for lasting peace in the Middle East and for the safety of the Jewish people in their ancestral homeland will be offered.

Rabbis have been asked to warn of the dangers to the United States and Israel which will result from a futile effort to appease the Soviet Arab axis through the erosion of the historic American position of support for Israel's inalienable rights as enunciated and endorsed by American Presidents and the Congress through the years.

Congregations will be reminded that anything less than a secure peace, achieved by direct negotiations between Israel and the Arab States, paves the way to a new "Munich" which is clearly inimical to the American and Israeli interest in a just and lasting peace.

The cornerstone of the U.S. Capital was laid in 1851.

Curry College Gets Check For $50,000 From Drapkin

A check for $50,000 was presented to Curry College Tuesday, Jan. 6 by a Waltham businessman who never had the opportunity for a college education himself.

JOSEPH DRAPKIN of West Newton, owner-president of the Waltham Supermarket, and Mrs. Drapkin presented the gift to Curry President John S. Hafer during the College's 90th Anniversary Dinner attended by some 350 persons at the Sidney Hill Country Club.

The check presentation was a highlight of the $100-a-plate affair, which was conducted for the benefit of the College's future building program.

President Hafer said this program, which will include a $1,500,000 library and a new dining hall, "will be greatly enhanced by the Drapkins' gift and by the generosity of those friends of the College who have supported this dinner to-night."

Featured speaker at the dinner was Dr. Yigael Yadin, Sukenik Professor of Archaeology at Hebrew University in Jerusalem and former Chief of the General Staff of the Israel Defense Forces. He spoke on the "Masada," the famous palace built by Herod the Great which Dr. Yadin excavated during 1963-1965.

Special guests attending the dinner included Federal Judge and Mrs. Charles Wyanski; Bishop and Mrs. James K. Mathews of the Boston Area, United Methodist Church; Congressman and Mrs. James Burke of Milton, and the Hon. Moshe Ofar, Israeli Consul-General.

Co-Chairmen of the dinner were Isadore Bromfield of Milton, president of the Bromfield Corp., and William H. Sullivan, Jr. of Wellesley, President of the Boston Patriots who served as Master of Ceremonies.

Dr. Leo C. Donahue, chairman of the Corporation and Board of Trustees of Curry College and Superintendent of the Somerville Public Schools, welcomed the group.

Plans Proceed For Jewish Historical Society In Boston

An interim steering committee met this week to shape the emerging Jewish Historical Society of Greater Boston.

Formed of lay leaders, scholars and academicians, the committee convened at the national headquarters of the American Jewish Historical Society in Waltham with Hirsch Sharf, temporary chairman, presiding.

Two specific steps authorized by the group were the creation of a legal committee to formulate by-laws and a nominating committee to prepare a slate of officers and governing board.

The functions of the new group have been tentatively outlined to include the collection and preservation of written or illustrative material — letters, photographs, prints, diaries, journals, newspapers, organizational minutes — which can throw light on the participation of Jews in the historical development of Boston.

The Greater Boston Society would also concern itself with the dissemination of such historical information through the use of exhibits, special publications, educational meetings and tours for adults, young people and children.

According to Bernard Wax, director of the American Jewish Historical Society, there are about a dozen local Jewish historical societies throughout the nation. They have been instrumental in making fresh historical resources available to teachers on all school levels, they have motivated the placing of markers on sites of historical significance, they have helped save historic buildings from destruction, they have helped formulate legislation to protect the historic character of their neighborhoods.

The next meeting of the interim Steering Committee, said Mr. Sharf, will be convened about a month hence to ratify the proposed by-laws of the new Greater Boston Society.

A special invitation has been sent to former alderman William Hopkins, who has retired after seven years on the Board of Aldermen. Mr. Hopkins will be paid a special tribute for his service as an outstanding alderman.

An election has been called to replace Mrs. Ruth Misch, who has had to resign because of professional commitments.

Candidates for the position are Mrs. Edna Krims and Mrs. Joan Barras. Dr. Cavin Leeman has been in charge of preparation of the meeting which begins at 8:10 and is open to the public.

A joint mid-winter meeting will be held by the Auburndale Woman's Club and the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs next Wednesday (Jan. 14) at the Melrose St. Clubhouse in Auburndale.

Business meetings will be held in turn by both clubs to be presided over by presidents Mrs. James I. Glaser of the Auburndale Woman's Club and Mrs. George J. Brookhiser of the Newton Federation.

Auburndale Woman's Club officers of the day are the following: chairman, Mrs. Charles B. Cossaboom; invocation by Mrs. Richard V. Keyes; and hostess Mrs. L. Bradford King.

The guest of honor will be Mrs. Robert H. Mayo, 12th District Director. All members of the Newton Women's Clubs are invited to attend the meeting.

There will be a petite lunch followed by entertainment performed by members of the Drama, Music, and Writer's Workshop committees of the Auburndale Woman's Club. Directing the committee members are Mrs. Richard Swift for the Drama group, Mrs. Stephen Zubrod for Music, and Mrs. Robert F. Bradley for the Writer's Workshop.

The art corner will have an exhibit of the creative efforts of both clubs.

Century-old Company Salutes Miss Kieser

A Washington official close to Mr. Nixon asserts that the President owes little to Senator Brooke and nothing to Senator Edward M. Kennedy, Speaker John W. McCormack and Congressman Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., in whose home city NASA is located.

That's true up to a point. If Brooke had his way, Mr. Nixon would not have been nominated as the Republican candidate for President. And if Ted Kennedy, John McCormack and "Tip" O'Neill had their way, Mr. Nixon would not have been elected after he was nominated.

Brooke first supported George Romney for President and later backed Nelson Rockefeller. He engineered the political coup which saw Rockefeller win the Massachusetts GOP Presidential Primary in April, 1968, a maneuver which embarrassed both President Nixon and former Governor Volpe.

But after Mr. Nixon won the Republican Presidential nomination, Senator Brooke took to the hustings for him, campaigned vigorously in his behalf and gave Mr. Nixon some much needed help.

Brooke is not just another Republican Senator. He is the only black ever elected to the U.S. Senate by popular vote, and some of those who rallied in his behalf were not too enthusiastic when he extended a helping hand to Nixon in 1968.

Beyond all that, Senator Brooke will be standing for reelection in 1972, and his chances of gaining a second term will be hurt if he cannot protect his state during the administration of a Republican President.

The fact that Hubert Humphrey swamped Richard Nixon in Massachusetts in '68 may justify the President in writing off the Bay State as far as 1972 is concerned, but if he also writes off Senator Brooke he may jeopardize his own reelection prospects.

One highly placed Washington Republican told this writer that an attempt is being made by the Nixon administration to effect economies in the states and districts of senators and congressmen who want them.

That was a smug and somewhat oblique reference to the fact that Senator Ted Kennedy, in a speech a few months ago, called for a reduction in NASA's spending. The Nixon regime responded by announcing a plan to close the NASA's center in Ted's state.

It will be interesting to see how much influence Speaker John McCormack has with the Nixon administration.

Nixon and McCormack are members of opposing political parties. But McCormack in running the national House has given strong support to President Nixon. If Mr. McCormack, in turn, cannot exert influence with the President, then the fact that he is Speaker of the national House is no longer of any real value to the people back home who elect him to Congress.

John McCormack will be running for renomination, reelection and vindication next fall. He probably will be opposed. His chances of being retained in office will be much better and brighter if he is still powerful enough to step in and get things done for the people of Greater Boston.

As far as the relationship between Nixon and Brooke is concerned, Nixon owed Brooke nothing up to the time of the GOP national convention, but when he sought and accepted Brooke's help in his campaign he obligated himself to the junior Senator.

Book On Mary Jo Accident Does Not Make Much Sense

Astonishing and shocking to this onlooker was the publication of a book theorizing that Mary Jo Kopechne was driving Senator Ted Kennedy's automobile and was alone in the vehicle when it went off the bridge and into a tidal pond at Chappaquiddick last July.

Written by Jack Olsen, a senior editor of Time Magazine, the book, a full-length work about the unfortunate accident, came off the press three days before the inquest began at Edgartown. The name of the book is "The Bridge at Chappaquiddick."

What is astounding is that author Olsen, who made an extensive investigation into the drowning of Miss Kopechne, in advancing his own theory, discounts the story told by Ted Kennedy as untrue.

Olsen theorizes that Ted was driving his automobile on Dike road, saw a deputy sheriff, assumed the officer saw him and might follow the car and ask some questions.

So Ted, as Olsen fitted the pieces together, got out of the car, told Mary Jo to take the wheel, circle around and pick him up in a few minutes if the officer didn't chase her.

But Mary Jo, unfamiliar with the area, went off the bridge and was drowned, according to the Olsen theory.

Olsen's version has a rather hollow ring to this observer. Some of his conclusions don't make sense to us, and he seems to have a number of pieces

Unitarians To Honor Dr. King Sunday Jan. 11

The Religious Education Committee of the Unitarian Church of Newton has unanimously supported a resolution that Sunday, January 11, 1970, be a day of observance in the church school of the birthday of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. (January 15, 1929) noting his contribution to the cause of Peace and Racial Amity by studying his writings and speeches.

On that Sunday the fourth and fifth grades will visit Christ Church in Cambridge, where Dr. King initiated the Vietnam Summer Program in 1966.

Teacher of the fourth grade is Fred King, Newton Coordinator of the January Moratorium Activities, who was Chairman of the Peaceful Wednesdays program at the Newton Community Peace Center during the Vietnam Summer, sponsoring local speakers, discussions and films.

Re-elected at Florida

John J. Kraus, manager, metal finishing products, Shipley Co., of Newton, was re-elected secretary of the American Society of Electroplated Plastics, at the second annual meeting held at Boca Raton, Fla.

Mr. Kraus also was the moderator of a panel which discussed, "Molding and Plastic Equipment."

Maine grows about 8 per cent of the nation's potatoes.

What almost any experienced newsman will wonder, however, is whether Olsen has the legal right—to say nothing of the moral privilege—to base his book on the premise that Ted Kennedy did not tell the truth about what happened that tragic night last summer.

From where we sit it would be a little out of character for Ted Kennedy to go into a panic because he saw a deputy sheriff and thought the deputy sheriff saw him. Mr. Olsen's theory doesn't make much sense to us.

Otis M. Whitney Is Now Living Happily In Florida

Down near the bottom of a list published the other day of persons who had passed the Bar Examination in Florida was the name of Otis M. Whitney of St. Petersburg.

Further inquiries led to the information that Mr. Whitney had moved to St. Petersburg from Concord, Massachusetts.

He was the same Otis M. Whitney who had been judge of the Concord district court, former State commissioner of public safety and head of the State Police, former State insurance commissioner, a member of the Governor's Council and a former member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

For years Otis M. Whitney was a prominent, popular and distinguished citizen of Massachusetts, influential in the councils of the Republican party, respected by Democrats and Republicans alike.

When the now defunct State Crime Commission made its investigation a few years ago, rumors concerning many men prominent in public and professional life, among them Otis Whitney, were widely circulated.

Most men dismissed them. Otis Whitney was not of the temperamental makeup who could. They all but broke him and his health. Mr. Whitney finally called a press conference and demanded to know if there were any allegations whatever of wrongdoing against him. It turned out he wasn't even being investigated.

But the rumors had taken their toll. His health had failed under an unfair strain. Not long after the rumors had been squelched, he resigned from his judicial post.

His old friends will be glad to know that he is now living happily in St. Petersburg, Fla., and practicing law on a modest scale. He was an outstanding public official and will have many well wishes.

Democratic State Conclave Now Only Five Months Away

Five months from now the delegates to the Democratic State Convention will assemble at the University of Massachusetts and endorse a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Their choice almost certainly will be either Boston Mayor Kevin H. White or State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue.

Neither of the other two candidates—former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti and former Presidential Aide Kenneth O'Donnell—appears to have any real chance of coming away from Amherst the winner.

The possibility that a deadlock might develop at the convention and that the delegates might settle on a surprise compromise candidate other than White, Donahue, O'Donnell or Bellotti also seems to be so slim as to be almost non-existent.

White and Donahue are now increasing their efforts to line up support among the Democratic ward and town committees across the Commonwealth which some weeks hence will select the delegates to the Democratic State Convention.

Bellotti and O'Donnell still are uncertain whether they will bypass the conclave or contest at it with White and Donahue.

They can get a certain amount of publicity at the convention even if they are defeated, but the exposure they would receive would be expensive. The guessing now is that one of the two will enter the convention as a candidate and that the other will avoid it.

Here is a thumbnail sketch on each of the four men seeking the right to run as the Democratic nominee for Governor.

Kevin H. White is starting his third year as Mayor of Boston. He served as Secretary of State for seven years and during those years he made contacts in communities throughout Massachusetts which will stand him in good stead in his present quest for delegate support.

White first won election to the office of Secretary of State the hard way back in 1960. He staged a come-from-behind victory at the Democratic State Convention in the Boston Arena. He toppled a formidable adversary in the Democratic primary, and he defeated Edward W. Brooke in a tough election battle.

That was the first and last state-wide election contest lost by Brooke. Kevin White is the only Democrat who has been able to best him in such a fight.

Maurice A. Donahue of Holyoke is now serving his 20th year as a member of the State Senate. He was a member of the House of Representatives for four years before achieving promotion to the Senate. He is a recognized expert on state government.

A Holy Cross graduate, he was a school teacher before entering politics. Donahue is an extremely able law-maker. He is a bachelor, and the married politicians predict the lack of a wife and children could hurt him in a primary or election race. However, bachelorhood was no handicap to the late Paul A. Dever who was a great vote-getter.

Donahue is from Western Massachusetts, where he is well known and highly respected.

Francis X. Bellotti has had a rather unusual political career. He came out of nowhere to win election as Lieutenant Governor in 1962. Up to that time he had been well known outside of Norfolk County.

Endicott Peabody had defeated former Lieutenant Governor Edward F. McLaughlin for the Democratic endorsement for Governor. While an attempt was being made to persuade McLaughlin to stand for the Lieutenant Governorship again, the delegates endorsed Bellotti for that office.

Both Peabody and Bellotti subsequently were elected as Ted Kennedy, making his first run for the U.S. Senate, helped to produce a Democratic tide.

Bellotti decided to make his bid for the Governorship in 1964. In so doing he challenged a sitting Governor in his own party, and he acquired an image of a political maverick.

Peabody beat down Bellotti's challenge at the Democratic State Convention, but Bellotti toppled him in a surprising upset in the primary.

Bellotti's victory resulted from a combination of his own personal appeal and the hostility Peabody had aroused by his prolonged and unsuccessful drive to repeal the death penalty.

In the 1964 election Bellotti lost by a relatively narrow margin to John A. Volpe. He came back in 1966 to gain the Democratic nomination for Attorney General but was beaten by Elliot L. Richardson in the election. Bellotti made the strongest showing of any of the major Democratic candidates in that '66 election.

He is a good campaigner and has been able to attract political foot soldiers to get out and work in his behalf. Bellotti is not a candidate to be dismissed lightly in a primary.

Kenneth O'Donnell made a surprising run against former Attorney General Edward J. McCormack in the 1966 Democratic gubernatorial primary, and McCormack was a much stronger candidate than some political observers credited him with being.

But O'Donnell had a strong helping hand which will be missing in his coming campaign. Robert Kennedy championed his cause, endorsed his candidacy and helped to finance his campaign in 1966.

But Bobby Kennedy died 19 months ago from an assassin's bullet, and Kenneth O'Donnell will miss his support. O'Donnell's political attraction stems largely from his association with the two martyred Kennedy brothers, John and Robert.

Whether that will yield the same harvest of votes in 1970 that it did in 1966 is uncertain.

The People Wonder!

If a convincing case is made to show that political considerations influenced the decisions to close down the NASA Center in Cambridge and the big reductions in the federal grants for a number of Boston Redevelopment Authority projects, it would react to the disadvantage not only of President Nixon but also Senator Brooke and all the Republican Congressmen from Massachusetts.

President Nixon received no help from Massachusetts either in his bid for the Republican Presidential nomination or in his efforts to achieve election to the Presidency itself. In a strictly political sense he owes nothing to Massachusetts although several Bay Staters are holding prominent positions in his administration.

But the people of Massachusetts have a right to expect fair treatment from President Nixon. If they don't get it, the entire Republican party could suffer not only in this state but far beyond its boundaries.

The people of Massachusetts pay much more in federal taxes than their state receives in federal funds.

They certainly have a right to wonder when the NASA center in Cambridge is ordered abandoned almost before it is completed, and its employees are told they can have jobs in other parts of the country if they are willing to move to new states and cities.

The decision to cut off funds so that urban renewal projects in Boston cannot be completed along the lines they were planned does not seem to be the action of a sensible and reasonable administration.

President Nixon may owe little to the people of Massachusetts, but he cannot afford to lose their confidence.

Permissive Education

From a group of concerned English educators, psychologists, publicists and parents who have been making a deep, many-faceted study of education in their country, comes word that English standards today are lower than they were in 1941. They blame the United States in no small measure.

England, they complain, at least in recent decades, has been paying too much attention to the development of education systems in the United States. Too many American educators, they believe, went all out for the permissive theories which came into being somewhat more than a generation back.

The English study group makes no attempt to show how the permissiveness has worked out in the United States, but they appear to be quite upset about what it has done to England. They consider that to the extent discipline has been relaxed in England, education has suffered.

Average attainments in reading, spelling and mechanical and problem arithmetic, the study group has found, are lower than they were 55 years ago. Reading standards are poor not alone among the children but the teachers as well. The group makes the bald accusation that up to 25 per cent of college-level students are semi-literate, compared to their predecessors in previous generations.

English industrialists among other complaints they voice, claim that college graduates they hire today are lacking in ability to spell. Spelling, they admit, may not be an essential talent in developing a future transportation magnate or a top trade expert but it does often indicate the depth of the education which the subject has received.

Here's a study which might well get wide attention from many of our American educators, particularly those who believe it is time to re-study the results of U.S. permissiveness and the down-grading of discipline.

New Laws Protect Consumer From Fast-talking Salesmen

Newton consumers will be interested in the laws that have recently been enacted to protect them as stated in the Consumer News column from the office of Attorney General Robert H. Quinn:

Fraud and deception still plague buyers in the state, despite the extensive consumer protection laws that have been enacted in Massachusetts. One reason for this unfortunate circumstance is that as old schemes are outlawed, fraudulent salesmen devise new, more complex methods of deceiving the public.

To curtail these relatively new techniques and to put to a halt to other as yet untouched areas of consumer fraud, I have formulated a 1970 consumer legislation package, containing twelve major points. Two of these are concerned with securing for consumers a fuller coverage from laws that already exist.

A law that was designed to give people who were "fast talked" by a door to door salesman time to change their minds was passed in 1969. It specifies that within three business days after signing a contract a consumer may cancel that contract if he signed it in his home or any other place away from the seller's place of business. However, certain stipulations were attached: the contract must call for at least four installment payments and require more than one dollar in interest.

As a result of this legislation some door to door salesmen have begun selling on a cash basis only, thus nullifying the effect of the law.

I have included in the 1970 legislative package a bill that would extend to consumers who sign cash contracts the same second chance afforded those who sign installment agreements. The purchaser would have until midnight of the third business day after he receives his copy of the contract to cancel it. For example, a contract received Monday could be cancelled until midnight of the following Thursday (Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday being the three days after the consumption is received). The interested in the laws that have recently been enacted to protect them as stated in the Consumer News column from the office of Attorney General Robert H. Quinn:

This law then is designed to expand existing consumer legislation. The second point of the legislative package also provides an expansion of consumer rights by amending a current law. This law contains a clause stating that if the Federal Trade Commission has filed a complaint against a company or an individual for violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act, then neither the Attorney General nor any resident of Massachusetts may take legal action against that company or individual.

This section was incorporated into the law to ensure that the Massachusetts Attorney General would not duplicate the work of the FTC. However, the FTC only functions in a regulatory capacity. That is, it acts to guarantee that the individual or company will not continue the illegal practices. But the FTC cannot recover losses for individual consumers who are swindled by the company.

I have submitted a bill that will allow individual citizens to take remedial legal action against a company or individual to regain losses, even though the FTC may at the time be involved in court proceedings against that company or individual.

This simply means that if a consumer buys, for example, a color television that does not function as advertised and the company refuses to give him a refund, he would be able to take the company to court to recover damages for this false advertising even if the federal government is involved in a false advertising suit against the company at the same time.

In the next few weeks I will be discussing other parts of the consumer legislation I have proposed for 1970. Persons who have questions or comments about present consumer protection laws should contact the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office at the State House in Boston or in Springfield.

An Era Of Change To Grip U.S. Schools In New Year

Teachers in an elementary school in a Pittsburgh suburb no longer teach classes. They teach individuals. Each child's lessons are prescribed individually.

In Jefferson County, Colo., a computer checks each student's record and then writes his schedule, assigning the work he needs in 20-minute modules. High school students in Altoona, Pa., "talk" to a computer through a typewriter-like keyboard. It gives them the next problem when they answer correctly or asks them to try again if they're wrong.

Students Plan Own Curriculum

At San Angelo, Tex., junior high school students plan their own curriculum, sometimes working individually, sometimes in seminars of 5 to 10 students and sometimes in lecture classes of 250.

In Philadelphia, urban youngsters go outside their school to let the city be their teacher. Municipal offices, hospitals, libraries, museums, parks and factories become their classrooms.

These things are happening in American education today and they point the direction the nation's schools are going to go in the 1970s.

Public schools are learning the importance of individual differences in their students. This militates against the traditionally rigid, lock-step progression through school and ability grouping with its self-fulfilling prophecies of attainment.

Instead, look during the 1970s for more and more schools to adopt:

—Individualized instruction: Students progress through a sequential curriculum at a rate depending on their own capacity. The teacher tests them for accomplishment and then prescribes individually either advanced material or remedial work.

—Nongraded schools: Arbitrary progression through the grades because of chronological age or number of years in school is eliminated. Progress is tuned to the student's skill. He may be ahead of traditional "grade level" in one subject, behind in another.

—Flexible scheduling: Curriculum is broken down into small units that can be prescribed according to a student's needs or the nature of a particular subject. Teaching is not shackled to a standard 40- or 50-minute class period.

Team Teaching May Be In Vogue

—Team teaching: Groups of teachers, sometimes aided by student teachers, paraprofessionals and outside experts, cooperatively present units of curriculum, combining classes into sizeable groups for lectures or breaking them down into small groups for individual attention as the situation warrants. Flexible scheduling and crossing of arbitrary interdisciplinary lines are possible.

—Independent study: A student pursues study or research on his own, in or out of school, under faculty supervision. Sometimes assignments are open ended—enabling motivated students to go as far and as fast as they wish. Some schools are starting independent study in the elementary grades.

Significantly, in the 1970s the definitions of education should change along with the techniques and hardware.

"I think we're going to think of education as being much broader than schools," says Dr. James E. Allen Jr., the present U. S. Commissioner of Education. "Education will be far more than the institution we now call a school, more than the five- and a-half hours we set aside each day for classes. We realize there are many more factors that influence the education of a child and many other institutions that help a child learn."

Allen believes there will be dramatically more opportunities for self-learning and more for cooperative learning, such as attending class part time and working in government, museums or cultural institutions or business and industry as part of their education. Philadelphia's Parkway project — "the school without walls" — demonstrates this.

Computer Principle Seems Enormous

"The principle of the computer for self-learning is enormous," Allen said. "Already some places you can pick up a telephone and dial a lecture or other information." Such a program is operating experimentally now in the New York City school system.

Dr. Ole Sands, director of the National Education Association's Center for the Study of Instruction (CSI), says:

"Because of technology the school and the school program will change as the decade progresses. A student may not arrive at the school building until noon, because until then he has been studying at home with educational television.

"Or he may spend the morning at a community center where computers teach him how to read or spell or figure. Instead of being restricted to a class and a teacher and a book, the future student's curriculum may be expanded by a series of learning experiences with television, computers or other media in places far from a formal classroom."

Sands, who is directing the CSI's massive study "Schools for the Seventies and Beyond," sees an entirely new kind of teacher, one who spends perhaps no more than 12 hours a week in front of students while devoting himself exhaustively to planning the style and content of his teaching.

Such staff utilization would be revolutionary in most schools but in Newton, Mass., for example, there have been no formal classes on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons since 1912. This allows time for teachers to prepare better

Moratorium Day January 15 Committee Sets Plans

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee announced today that January 15 will be observed as Moratorium Day this month. The day assumes special significance because January 15 is the anniversary of Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday.

The Moratorium Committee is focusing its activities around King's strong opposition to the Vietnam War and the resultant neglect of problems of poverty and race, and his philosophy of non-violence.

National organizations co-operating with the January 15 observance are the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the National Urban League, and the National Association of Black Students.

Jerome Grossman, chairman of the Newton Moratorium Committee, met with 88 Newton citizens recently to develop a program for the day. A committee was formed to arrange observances in the schools, with student representatives from all five junior high schools and both senior high schools.

They will work with a parents committee to seek the support of the school committee and the superintendent of schools.

A delegation was appointed to request Mayor Monte Basbas to designate January 15 as Martin Luther King Day for the city. A committee was also formed to contact clergy for all faiths to preach sermons on Sunday, January 11, and Sunday, January 18, on the meaning of the philosophy of non-violence and to urge lessons and students to study independently.

Technology Now In Greater Use

"As technology comes into greater use," Sands predicts, "the teacher will spend hundreds of hours of his time in planning and programming instructional materials for the computer, preparing educational television programs or preparing teaching tapes and records."

His time will be well spent even if each individual student punches a button or flips a switch to use that program for only an hour, because thousands or even millions of students might at some time use the same teacher-planned learning experience."

Prof. Peter Rosenbaum of Teachers College, Columbia University, notes there are multiple uses for a computer in the schoolhouse:

—Instruction in computer use and programming.

—Use of computers as a tool; that is, to work problems in math or science.

—Skills instruction and supervised student practice in subjects such as math, foreign language, spelling and grammar.

—Laboratory simulation of scientific experimentation.

"I'd say supervised practice in skills instruction far outstrips the other uses," Rosenbaum said. "The two most important features of skills instruction are individual correction of errors and individualized allocation of work."

"In the very best classrooms, the amount of time a teacher can interact with individual students is severely limited. In poor schools, how a child gets anything from skills instruction now is a complete mystery to me," said Rosenbaum, a specialist in educational technology who until recently was associated with International Business Machines.

their social groups to consider the problems of poverty, racism, and war.

Grossman said that other communities across the state are planning similar observances.

On Urban Renewal

(Editor's note: the following two letters were submitted to The Graphic for publication by John E. Young, chairman of the Newton Lower Falls Urban Renewal Project Area Committee, 2313 Washington St., Newton.)

Wendell H. Bauckman, President, and Newton Board of Aldermen:

After a meeting on December 30, 1969 of the executive Board of the Newton Lower Falls Urban Renewal Project Area Committee, it was unanimously voted to re-submit our request to the full Board of Aldermen for reconsideration that our group be recognized as the only legally elected committee authorized to meet and negotiate with the Newton Redevelopment Authority.

We did not arrive at this decision in haste. Careful consideration was given to the matter before deciding on this course of action.

Since we are the only legally elected committee, we feel that to merge with the old illegal Newton Lower Falls Urban Renewal Study Committee headed by Mr. Joel Leighton would be improper and illegal.

In view of these facts and in accordance with the Department of Housing and Urban Development Urban Renewal Handbook Manual RHA 72217.1 Chapter 5, Section 2, we would like to point out to you the following:

a. Our group (PAC) is unable to merge with Mr. Leighton's group. According to HUDS rules and regulations we feel it would be illegal to merge with Mr. Leighton's committee, who has remained unresponsive to date.

However, a merger by PAC can be accepted by Mr. Leighton's group.

b. Notice of our election meeting was duly advertised in the newspapers as to date, time and place.

c. Our committee was formed according to HUDS rules and regulations under Chapter 5, Section 2.

d. Our committee is made up of a cross-section of the residents and tenants both inside and outside of the project area.

e. Our committee bars no resident, tenant, homeowner or business-owner from membership and all the above mentioned have full voting rights at each and every meeting.

f. Our committee membership includes a cross section of ethnic groups.

g. Our committee is the only legally elected committee according to the Department of Housing and Urban Development Urban Renewal Handbook RHA 72217.1 Chapter 5, Section 2, as outlined in their rules and regulations elected committee that has the legal authority to meet and negotiate with the Newton Redevelopment Authority.

I hope you and the members of the Board will give these points your careful consideration and take the necessary action to make Urban Renewal acceptable to the following points:

After careful consideration and deliberation of the matter and in view of the fact that we have received no proposal from Mr. Leighton, chairman of the now illegal Urban Renewal Study Committee, we have taken the position that it would be quite improper and illegal to combine or merge with Mr. Leighton's committee as outlined in the rules and regulations of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Urban Renewal Handbook RHA 72217.1 Chapter 5, Section 2.

Our committee would be most grateful to accept the members of the old illegal Newton Lower Falls Urban Renewal Study Committee as committee members on our membership and all the above mentioned have full voting rights at each and every meeting.

e. Our Committee membership includes a cross section of ethnic groups.

f. Our committee is the only legally elected committee according to the Department of Housing and Urban Development Urban Renewal Handbook RHA 72217.1, Chapter 5, Section 2 as outlined in their rules and regulations covering this subject and therefore we are the only legally elected committee that has the legal authority to meet and negotiate with the Newton Redevelopment Authority.

I hope you will give these points your careful consideration and take the necessary action to make Urban Renewal acceptable to the people of Newton Lower Falls. You and the entire Board of Aldermen must first make yourselves responsive to the people and their needs, fears and plight. If you can show this type of leadership, and one of the first steps in this direction is to recognize this committee, then I am fairly certain we can have a forward looking urban renewal program in Lower Falls.

JOHN E. YOUNG
Chairman.

Noisy Library

Editor of The Graphic:

On December 16, I was in one of the first floor halls of the main branch of the Newton Library attempting to do some work. I say "attempting" because the noise level in the library rendered any serious study impossible.

Flocks of people were flitting through the library, chatting away, and not bothering to lower their voices although people were obviously studying. A party was evidently in progress. One irate reader, upon complaining, was told that it was a staff party.

She mentioned that it was always noisy each time she came. I too commented that this was not the first time the noise level had hampered my attempts to work at the library.

I have no desire to be a "crank," especially where Christmas parties are concerned. Still, research must go on, papers must be completed, examinations must be taken — even nine days before Christmas.

Mr. David W. Jackson
Acting Planning Committee Chairman
Board of Aldermen
Newton City Hall:

In reply to your letter dated December 1, 1969 in which you requested that the old Newton Lower Falls Urban Renewal Study Committee and the new legally elected Newton Lower Falls Urban Renewal Project Area Committee get together and resolve our differences and perhaps merge our efforts and membership, I subcommittee and feel their experience, viewpoints and talents could be most useful and advantageous to the neighborhood. However, the executive board of the Newton Lower Falls Urban Renewal Project Area Committee cannot be changed without holding another election and therefore Mr. Leighton's group could only serve as committee members. For Mr. Leighton's group to merge with our group would certainly not be in violation of HUDS rules and regulations and we would look upon this more with favor.

As in our previous letter to your committee, our election of the Newton Lower Falls Urban Renewal Project Area Committee was carried out according to the rules and regulations of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Urban Renewal Handbook RHA 72217.1 Chapter 5, Section 2.

Therefore, may I point out to your committee and the Board of Aldermen that:

a. Notice of our election meeting was duly advertised in the newspapers as to date, time and place.

b. Our committee was formed according to HUDS rules and regulations under Chapter 5, Section 2.

c. Our committee is made up of a cross-section of the residents and tenants both inside and outside of the project area.

d. Our committee bars no resident, tenant, homeowner or business-owner from

Meetings in the Trustee's room have caused problems to readers all throughout the year. Conversations in the reference room are carried on in full voice.

All this is symptomatic of a general attitude on the part of the library staff which I do not find helpful, although in many ways the staff is most co-operative.

It might be advisable for the library staff to examine this complaint in the light of the discomfort which has prompted it.

Perhaps library meetings and parties might be held after hours. Perhaps both staff and readers will cooperate and attempt to improve conditions at the library.

Sunday Services At 1st Church of Christ Scientist

The First Church of Christ Scientist will hold Sunday services at 10:45 a.m. at 391 Walnut St., Newton.

A communion service will be held this Sunday in Christian Science churches. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read is "Sacrament."

The Golden Text in the lesson is from First Corinthians: "Let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth."

Passages from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy referring to Christ Jesus read: "First in the list of Christian duties, he taught his followers the healing power of Truth and Love. He attached no importance to dead ceremonies. It is the living Christ, the practical Truth, which makes Jesus 'the resurrection and the life' to all who follow him in deed" (p. 31).

Newton Tracksters Still Hope for First Place Tie

The Newton High and Natick track teams continued to shadow leader Boston College High closely in the Division 1 Met League standings as both teams finished last week with 4-1 records while the Dorchester based Eaglets flew to a 5-0 record.

Bradley Club at 8:30 p.m. Gym 1—E. Doherty.

NOTE

First four teams qualify for playoffs: In the event of tie for any playoff position, one (1) game will be played to break the tie. Date for this game would be on Friday, Feb. 13.

Semi-Final series between teams one and four, two and three, will start best two out of three games series on Tuesday, Feb. 17, and continue on Thursday, Feb. 19, and Friday, Feb. 20, if necessary. Final series between above two winners of semi-final series, will play on Tuesday, Feb. 24, and Thursday, Feb. 26, with Friday, Feb. 27, as the date if third game is necessary. Above dates are subject to change if school programs or storms interfere with regular schedule dates.

After Newton's loss to BCH two weeks ago, Natick and BC were the only undefeated teams left but BCH took care of Natick to take over sole possession of first place.

Only a superior effort by Brockton against BCH in the last week of the season can give Natick or Newton the chance to tie for league supremacy and they will also meet the final week.

Newton was forced to go down to the relay last Saturday to edge Brockton, while they ran over Malden earlier in the week, 53 to 33.

Alan Boyer, George Norcross, Skip Fawson and Steve Scrimshaw in that order handed the Brockton relay team a decisive 50 yard defeat.

Aside from the relay, Newton won six events on their way to the triumph. The first Newton win was recorded by sophomore David Douglas who won the 1000 in a fast 2:28.3 effort. Douglas kicked by Brockton's John Casey on the last lap as the sophomore remained undefeated and handed Casey his first loss of the year.

Steve Scrimshaw also utilized a last lap spurt to win the 600 in 1:19.8. Scrimshaw is undefeated at the distance.

The 300 was won by Alan Boyer who has recorded the fastest time in the division in that event this year along with Waltham's Charlie Duckworth. Both have run 34.7.

In the two mile, Jim Boates split the Brockton distance runners by taking second. Newton scored four more in the high jump as juniors Dick O'Brien, Fran Murphy and senior Paul Fryar all tied for second.

Skip Fawson won the hurdles and was followed closely by Stan Birdwell. Fawson also won the shot put with a throw of 46'6". Fawson's double win was his fourth of the season and there is not one who seems more vital to the success of the team than the 6'4" senior. Footballer Marc Simon threw the 12 pounder 42'1" for the third spot.

George Norcross, another of Newton's undefeateds, gained five points in the 50 and was instrumental in holding the Brockton relay team off as they challenged on his leg, the second leg of the race.

In the Malden meet earlier in the week most of these results were repeated. Douglas won the 1000 and Steve Caggiano snuck in with a third. Scrimshaw and Boyer were also victors and co-captain Mike Tymian added a third to Boyer's first in the 300.

Jay Sidman and Ed Reilly ran second and third in the mile, and Jim Boates ran second in the two mile. Fawson was again a double victor and Dennis Hannigan finished second in the shot while Birdwell ran second in the hurdles.

George Norcross and Gordon Manter were one and three in the 50 and the same team that ran away from Brockton also clobbered the Malden four. This week a few of the members of the team will run in the Boston Athletic Association Games. A week from Saturday NHS meets Waltham as they resume league activity.

Lions Suffer Sixth Straight Hoop Defeat

By Lewis Freedman

Forward Stan Schwartz and guard John Corcoran sparked a valiant fourth quarter in the Newton South comeback attempt that just fell short, as Weymouth High dealt the Lions their sixth straight setback, 74-66, last Friday at Newton.

Trailing 37-21 at the half and by 18 late in the third quarter, South started to move. The lead was cut to 14 by the fourth period tap - off and before the visitors could get untracked their lead had shrunk to three.

Corcoran and Bob Sherman completely demoralized the Weymouth guards and harassed them so much that the ball rarely reached the forecourt. Schwartz, meanwhile, was ripping the cords at better than a point a minute, collecting ten in the final eight minutes.

The planned fairy-tale ending did not quite materialize as the Lions simply ran out of gas in the final few minutes and Weymouth's big man, Mike Buckley, had time to jam through a few more points, adding to his game high 27-point total.

Schwartz was the leading point - getter for the hosts with 19. Captain Emmons Levine maintained his 15 - plus point per game average with a 17 - point effort and Corcoran was also in double figures with 15.

Sherman, eight, Billy Garger, five and Paul Selby, two, rounded out the South scorers.

The game was certainly South's best effort of the year. The final total is the Lions' highest to date and their 26 points in the fourth quarter is the largest output for one period.

Earlier in the week Newton South was upended by Arlington, 67-50.

South had trouble mounting a consistent attack, but was down only 37-30 at the intermission. The Lions couldn't find the range at all in the second half and the Spy Ponders spurred away to their 17 - point margin of victory.

Arlington's John Novillis was the game's leading scorer with 18 points. Levine paced South with 14, followed by Sherman, also in double figures with 10.

Garber and Corcoran, eight apiece, Schwartz, six, and Steve Stockman and Ken Green, two each, were the other Lion point-scorers. South chases its first win against Rindge Tech and Brockton this week.

Newton South Track Team Ends Long Winless Streak

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Dave Peters and Roy Linn grabbed third in the 45-yard hurdles to end four years of Newton South indoor track frustration in the Met League's Division II, last week.

The four points gathered in the hurdles clinched a Lion victory over Rindge Tech, ending a 17 meet winless streak, dating back to the 1966-67 season.

Sophomore Elliot Weisman added three more points with a second in the 50-yard dash and South was victorious, 46 1/2-39 1/2.

To prove that their triumph over Rindge was no fluke the Lion tracksters roared back four days later to pulverize Quincy High, 60-26, and start a new streak, this time in the positive direction.

Junior Chuck Pottey followed his school record-breaking 2-mile performance with an easy 4:57.8 mile victory to start things rolling against the Technicians. Steve Sahl captured third.

Ron Schneider and Dave Glaser ran 23 in the 1000 and John Seeler and Scott Lampert registered seconds in the 600 and 300.

Then came the first break in the meet. Dick Dickinson and Mike LeBlanc captured the two top spots in the 2-mile to make the score read, Rindge 25 Newton South 24, after five events.

Roger Cooper launched the shot 43-10 1/2 for an easy five points, but Steve Sacks' second was the pivotal point of the meet. Sacks had only competed in the shot once before and had not practiced it since the first week of the season, but he came through with a very important three points.

Schneider and Rich Kates, suffering with an injured knee and jumping for the first time during the season, tied for a second in the high jump at 54, and Mike McKinney added another half point with a third-place tie.

With three events remaining South needed only four points for a victory and Peters and Linn provided them on the first try.

The closest the Lions came to victory during their winless skein was a 43-43 tie with North Quincy in the final meet, last year. South was ahead 43-38, but lost the relay and had to settle for a tie.

Having experienced victory and liking the taste of it the Lions went out and promptly destroyed Quincy.

Quincy captured the first event, but by the time his second win was registered the meet was all but out of reach. Dickinson and sophomore Ed Forman grabbed second and third in the mile, but then in quick succession Schneider, Seeler, and Lampert copped the 1000, 600 and 300.

Schneider and Glaser ran neck and neck all the way in the 1000, burying their Quincy opponent and crossing the line only a tenth apart in 2:37.9 and 2:38.

The 600, perhaps, was the most inspiring Newton South sight of the last four seasons. From the starting gun the race-all of the race-belonged to the Lions. Seeler, Sahl and John Bucavales streamed across the finish-line with only a second separating them, for a nine-point sweep. Paul Nissen just nipped his opponent at the tape for third in the 300.

Pottey and LeBlanc finished second and third in the 2-mile. Pottey's time of 10:49 was only three seconds off his record clocking of the previous week.

Cooper won his third shot-put competition of the year at 42.1.

Kates again tied for the lead in the high jump and Schneider and McKinney split third. Peters notched his second hurdle win in 6.8 and Linn was third for the fifth time. Weisman clocked a 6.0 in the dash for his second win and Sacks was right behind in 6.1 for three points.

Coach Don Sutherland experimented with his relay team, running all underclassmen. Peters, Seeler, Dickinson, and Weisman comprised the squad, which was victorious in 2:43.2.

After last week's action the team's leading scorer is Captain Ron Schneider with 23 1/2 points. Senior Steve Sahl has proved the most versatile performer, having scored points in the 300, 600, 1000, mile and relay.

Now 23 on the year South will have a break from dual meet action this week after a heavy vacation schedule. Instead, the squad will be participating in the all-state BAA meet at the Boston Garden.

NHS Basketball Team Pushes Its Suburban League Record to 3-1

By JEFF GROSSMAN

The Newton High basketball team romped over Rindge Tech and fell to Brockton as they moved their overall record to 4-2 and their Suburban League slate to 3-1. Tuesday they met a tough Cambridge Latin team at home and tomorrow night they will visit Waltham in an attempt to stay near the front of the Suburban League chase.

Newton's win, their first over the Technicians since 1965, was broken open early as the guest Tigers led 19 to 6 by the end of the first period.

Jeff Dunn and Chuck Pendergast led the high powered offense with 24 and 18 points respectively while twelve Newton players scored. Newton performed well from charity stripe in the Rindge contest hitting 21 for 34.

A notable lack of success from the line against Brockton (NHS hit 15 for 31) was one big factor in the Tigers' eleven point defeat.

Rindge was only 5 for 8 as Newton committed only seven personal fouls.

Outstanding for the losing Cambridge squad was Dennis Edwards, the only returning starter from last year's team who pumped in eight from the floor and two from the line for 18.

Senior George Reynolds led a high scoring attack as the Newton High Hockey team and Jim Fay, Mark Howley, Boston Arena last Saturday 6 to 1.

Reynolds scored twice as Newton ran their record to 3-1, good for third place in the realigned Suburban Hockey League. Arlington, which defeated Brockline in an early season showdown of power on Saturday, leads the league with a 4-0 slate good for eight points. Brockline holds down second with the loss as the slate reads 4-1, also good for eight points.

After Newton, with seven points there is Cambridge Latin with 1-1 for three points.

The Rindge contest was a break-through for the offense which had been somewhat lethargic up until this game as they had been held pretty well in check by Brockline, Brockton, Cambridge and Hingham before.

Even then it took the Newton offense two periods to get going as they led the Technicians by only 2 to 1 at that juncture. Four fourth period goals may finally announce the wakening of the formerly dormant offense.

For goalie Steve "Gump" Condon it was another fine performance. Assisted by a strong defense which includes Steve Dunn and Dan Murphy, Condon has allowed an average of less than two goals per game.

Other scorers for Newton besides Reynolds were co-

Other Newton scoring was done by Len Gentile and John Colantonio who scored eleven and eight respectively. Bob Loughlin with five and captain Jerry Beatrice, Steve Matloff, Chris Doolin, Bob Wargin, John Murphy, and Ed Platt each netted two.

After an even first half (the score was knotted at 34 at the half) Brockton spurred to a seven point advantage at the end of the third quarter to take control of the contest.

Brockton showed balance with four men shooting in double figures while Newton had three players with 10 points or more. Brockton's Mike Gordon and Jim Alfiera who scored 15 and 14 respectively, led the third quarter Brockton onslaught.

Back court quarterback Chuck Pendergast and forward Len Gentile were both good for 15 points a piece while captain Jerry Beatrice put in five field goals.

Newton's poor foul shooting and Brockton's 16 of 24 free toss record were major reasons for the 70 to 59 loss handed Newton.

After approximately 1 1/2 of the season, five Newton players have compiled double figures scoring averages. Center Jeff Dunn leads the scoring with 84 points in six games for a 14 point per game average. Len Gentile has tallied at an 11.9 points per game rate while Chuck Pendergast is at 11.7. John Colantonio has knocked home 64 points and Jerry Beatrice has 60.

South Hi Hockey Team Splits 2 In League Play

Backed by the strong goaltending of Paul Modern, the Newton South hockey team split two decisions in Dual County League play last week.

Unbeaten league pacesetter Wayland handed South a 3-1 defeat, despite 42 saves by junior netminder Modern.

Wayland Co-Captain Bruce Turner was instrumental in his team's victory, tallying two goals, including the clincher in the third period.

Wing Bob Ronayne notched his first goal of the season for the Lions on an unassisted blast early in the second period.

South came back to topple Weston, 2-0, to even its season's mark at 2-2-1 and move into a fourth place tie with Acton - Boxboro in the league standings.

Modern recorded his second shut - out in five attempts this winter.

John Delaney picked up his first goal of the campaign and Ronayne collected his second, as South scored both its goals in the middle period of an otherwise scoreless contest. Tom Mescon, younger brother of former Lion hockey star Gary Mescon, assisted on Delaney's goal, while Delaney set up Ronayne's score.

In its only game of the week the South pucksters face-off against Bedford, Saturday, at 5 p.m., at the Merrimack Valley Forum, in Billerica.

Mid-Winter Barbecue Set At Temple On January 11

The annual joint meeting of the Sisterhood and Brotherhood of Temple Beth Avodah will be held on Sunday, Jan. 11 at 7:00 p.m. This year's meeting will feature a barbecue dinner destined to bring back memories of summer fare!

The high point of the evening will be a discussion, "Parents, Children, and Drugs." Leading the conversation will be Ron Riccardi of Turnabout. A new organization, Turnabout, endeavors to rehabilitate drug addicts.

The group is composed of young people, all ex-addicts, helping each other turn away from drugs. At present the group meets at the Allston-Brighton YMCA, just as many branches of Turnabout are meeting all over the country to assist in solving the crisis of teen age addiction.

Several members will accompany Mr. Riccardi, and will relate their personal battle with drugs. Also attending will be a psychoanalyst who has been aiding the group. Rabbi Edward Maline will moderate the discussion.

Reservations are limited, so those interested in attending, call the co-chairmen of the evening, Mrs. Stanley Selib, 969-9189, or Mrs. Alan Fain, 891-1288.

Devices -

The testing, adjusting, sealing or condemning of weighing and measuring devices will be performed on the following specified dates and time: Through Jan. 16, except Saturdays and Sundays, 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

In pointing out the importance to the community of local weights and measures administration and enforcement in relation to scale and meter accuracy, Sealer Bowen reports that he is not only concerned with weighing devices of the butcher and grocer, but also the scales of the junkman, express company, candy stores, hardware stores and laundries as well as the delicate balances and tiny weights of the apothecary which can spell the difference between death and life itself.

Also included are all gasoline vending pump meters, fuel oil truck meters and linear measures from yard sticks to taxi meters. This is not only to insure accuracy for the benefit of consumers, but for the benefit of vendors as well, for over-delivery of product steals legitimate profit and over a period of time is an invitation to bankruptcy.

Today's high prices, Sealer Bowen avers, with a 1939 dollar having declined to a worth of 37 cents make it more important than ever that quantity determinations be accurate.

With reference to small inaccuracies that may seem inconsequential, Sealer Bowen said, "A weighing error of one ounce per pound for 100 weighings a day causes a loss of 6 1/4 pounds. Multiplied by 300 days in a year at a dollar a pound the resultant loss is $1,875.00. If a scale be fast, the loss is that of consumers. If the scale be slow, such loss falls upon the merchant.

If a gasoline vending pump meter is in error by one-tenth gallon (one fiftieth part) on each five gallons delivered at 30 cents per gallon, such loss will be $60. on each 10,000 gallons.

Analysis of Federal and local statistics indicate that in Newton $366.00 per person is the approximate annual food bill, or a total of over $33.5 million dollars. Over 42,000-000 gallons of motor vehicle fuel worth over $12.5 million dollars pass through Newton vending pump meters annually.

Over 53,000,000 gallons of fuel oil for heating worth over $8 million dollars are annually delivered within the city. Sealer Bowen pointed out that the computation of such figures indicate that a 2 percent error in quantity determinations of only the three items of food, motor vehicle fuel, and fuel oil, would cause a loss of over $1,000,000, and without the surveillance of Newton's Weights and Measures Department over weighing and measuring devices involved in dispensing these

George Wells Will Speak To Harvard Women

Newton members of The Harvard Women's Club of Boston will hear George Wells, speaker at the Thursday, (Jan. 8) meeting, who will talk about "Our Polluted Planet".

Mr. Wells, who was born in Worcester and is a member of the City Council there as well as a former Mayor and Chairman of the School Committee, is Public Relations Coordinator for the Massachusetts Department of Commerce and Development. He has been an editor, a writer, a public official, a radio commentator and a leading figure in veteran and patriotic circles.

Local women who will attend this event are Mrs. Neal O'Hara, former president of the Harvard Club; Mrs. Henry C. Gray; Mrs. Jos. Ahern; Mrs. Arthur Anderson; Mrs. Walter Blanchard; Mrs. Edw. Gray; Mrs. John Milles and Mrs. George L. White.

The Harvard Women's Club, while being a social club, has a much more serious side to it, the basic purpose of the club is to sponsor and maintain the Student Loan Fund, to help worthy students through its donations. These loans are made to applicants throughout the year on a short term basis with no interest. Mrs. Arthur G. Carty of Belmont, chairman of the Student Loan Fund will introduce Mr. Seamus P. Malin, Director of Financial Aid at Harvard College. He will cite some of the cases where aid was furnished to Harvard Students.

Mrs. Nathan M. Pusey, wife of the President of Harvard College will be one of the honored guests. A social hour will precede the meeting.

athletic fields when construction begins on the new Newton High School.

The School Committee set aside for later consideration an item involving sizable increased expenditures for the elementary school lunch program. Last year $62,420 was allowed in the budget for this purpose, but that amount covered only the months from September, when the compulsory program began through December.

Included in the budget prepared for Monday night was the amount of $94,750 to pay for the lunch program for the entire year of 1970. However, it was pointed out that this amount would have to be increased by $23,250 because certain costs had been omitted from the original figure. This would bring the total budget allocation for the lunch program to $118,000 for the year.

A fourth major factor in the budget rise, according to Gilleland, is a seven per cent increase that affects the budget across the board as a result of inflation. This amounts to $175,000, the assistant superintendent noted.

A fifth factor is an $18,000 allocation for miscellaneous items.

The only cut in the budget requests made by the School Committee was $28,000 pared from the $128,000 asked for the school athletic account. Gilleland said that $100,000 was the amount spent in 1969.

There were some supplementary requests in the non-salary budget that still will have to be considered at a future meeting by the School Committee. These were not spelled out at Monday night's session.

In other action the School Committee formally recognized the Newton Teachers' Association as the official bargaining agent for professional employees in the school system. This action came as a result of a vote by the personnel recognizing the Teachers' Association in this role.

The School Committee also was told by Superintendent Aaron Fink that in response to a letter from two members of the Newton Vietnam Moratorium Committee he has contacted the secondary school principals and asked them to day on Jan. 15.

Indian School Speaker Here At DAR Chapter

Miss Gertrude A. MacPeck, Honorary State Regent, Massachusetts Society, DAR, and Miss E. Marguerite Allen will give an illustrated program on St. Mary's School for Indian Girls at the regular meeting of Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter, DAR, on Monday, January 12, at the home of Mrs. Louis Caterne, 37 Fisher Avenue, Newton Highlands.

St. Mary's School is located in Springfield, South Dakota, and maintained jointly by the Episcopal Church and the DAR. It is a boarding school with high standards, having an enrollment in the seventies. Miss MacPeck and Miss Allen both spent a week at a summer workshop there this last June, and left with vivid impressions of excellence.

The headmaster, Mr. Kenyon Cull, according to them, is responsible for that excellence. As Miss MacPeck says, "Erudite, fun loving, teacher extraordinary, this man lives his religion every day with his feet planted firmly on God's good earth."

At the school, "every dollar one gives buys 100 cents worth, and without being pennywise, St. Mary's has the very best of food, and all of its equipment is standard and well cared for." Many of the girls study piano, and many are talented in art and handicrafts. All come from very modest homes, many of which are quite isolated.

The program will be preceded by a one o'clock dessert and social hour, and a business session. Hostesses for the refreshments are Mrs. Hartwell W. Blanchard and Mrs. John Gay, Jr.

The Gourmet Adventures of THE HIGHLANDS

Canapes are the little rounds and slices you broil or spread or decorate. Their advantage is that odds and ends used on top of toasted bread rounds produce a flower-garden effect on a platter and taste as good as they look. Besides—it empties the ice box. You can use any of your favorite dips on these. How about combining creamed cottage cheese with any flaked, seasoned and cooked fish you like. Make it about half and half. Add one tablespoon of lemon juice for each cup of mixture, then stir in seasonings.

For food that tastes as good as it looks come to THE HIGHLANDS RESTAURANT, 1114 Beacon Street, Newton, 332-4400. Fashion Shows every Wednesday during lunch and every Friday during dinner. Dinner Special Monday thru Friday two (2) boiled live lobsters only $3.95.

Diet Workshop Meeting Place Now In Newton

The Diet Workshop which formerly met at the Stop & Shop on Route 9 will now meet at St. Paul's Episcopal Church on 1135 Walnut St. in Newton Highlands every Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

The group instructor, Arlene Davis, is a resident of Newton Centre and is also a graduate of the same program. Her weight loss of thirty-five pounds has been maintained for nearly four years plus she was able to give up smoking during this time and not gain an ounce.

Her constant contact with the groups of people who are currently losing weight added to her knowledge of diet and nutrition have kept her looking and feeling so well that weight problems are something she knows she can handle.

One of her greatest enjoyments is being able to pass on her skill to others who are struggling to lose and maintain weight.

Diet Workshop groups are much like adult education classes with an added difference very important to dieters — they supply moral support which is so badly needed by people who are having to forgo the "goodies" at hand for what seems to them to be some distant, rather hazy reward — namely that of being thin.

Wearing a size 10 can happen with the help of Diet Workshop and with the "free" membership available to graduates, staying in one should be no problem.

Anyone seeking further information may call Mrs. Davis at 244-0208. New members are welcome every week.

Church Acquired For Student Use At Framingham S.

Newton students at Framingham State College will be using the new chapel for ecumenical religious services recently acquired by the College from the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

The new facility, located at Maynard Road and Church St. in the college campus neighborhood will be ready for use by the students next December.

Acquisition of the 74-year-old structure came following negotiations between the state and the Southern New England Conference of the Association of Seventh Day Adventists.

The building, named St. John's Episcopal Church when it was completed in 1895, is bounded by several pieces of property already owned by the college and is immediately convenient to the Framingham State Dormitories which house several hundred students during the academic year.

The church building is an outstanding example of Gothic style construction according to state experts and is constructed of cut granite blocks of so-called "Framingham Stone."

The slate-roofed building and its attractive lead-framed windows has been exceptionally well-maintained.

The Reward

1/3 cup Alpa (powdered milk)
3/4 cup water
4 to 6 ice cubes
1 scant tsp. instant coffee or any favorite extract
sweetener to taste

Blend everything but the ice on high, then add cubes one at a time till it is all homogenized. You may have two of these a day. Vary with fruit for flavoring.

Police Receive 8,000 Stray Dog Complaints

Eight thousand complaints entered dogs in the city, so with about stray dogs have been received by the Newton Police Department since the leash law went into effect May 1. Police Chief William F. Quinn told a committee of the Board of Aldermen Monday.

Chief Quinn was requesting a transfer of funds for the department's animal control unit since the cost of enforcing the leash law has been a little more than anticipated.

The Chief specifically requested $405 to pay the November bill for using kennels, where the picked up strays are kept until called for. The $405 represents anywhere from 50 to 100 dogs, he estimated.

Alderman Sidney T. Small commented: "People in the city generally say the law is not being observed."

In reply, Alderman Jason Sacks claimed that in the winter the snow covers the grass and the homeowner doesn't complain of dogs damaging his lawn.

Further statistics were given by Chief Quinn to members of the Finance Committee. There are 5,700 registered dogs in the city, so with about stray dogs have been received by the Newton Police Department since the leash law went into effect May 1.

"We have people in the city who have paid $30 in fines for violating the leash law," the Chief commented.

Twice as many dog complaints are made at night as during the daytime.

"One of the two regular men in the animal unit is quitting because of the work load," said Quinn. Even though the man in this department receive more money than regular police officers, Quinn has had no offers of replacement.

"We're in trouble looking for a dog officer now," the Chief declared.

Complimenting the dog officers for doing a "fine public relations job" in handling the animals, he said he has never had a single complaint about their work.

"It's a touchy thing in this city," Quinn observed. "Some people think more of their dogs than anything else." The request was approved by the full board.

Newton Lower Falls Group Asks Aldermanic Approval

John E. Young, the chairman of a group challenging the recognized Lower Falls Urban Renewal Project Area Committee, has again requested the Board of Aldermen for recognition as "the only legally elected committee."

In a letter to the president of the board, Young said the group's executive committee met Dec. 30 and unanimously voted to request this consideration. Once before the Board of Aldermen turned down the group's bid for recognition on the grounds that a legal committee exists.

Young's argument is that his group was elected and not appointed as the present Project Area Committee membership was.

A committee of the board of aldermen, headed by David W. Jackson, suggested that Young get together with the present Project Area Committee to resolve their differences of opinion over representation, but Young is rejecting that proposal.

"After careful consideration and deliberation of the matter, and in view of the fact that we have received no proposal from (Joel) Leighton, Alderman which just left of chairman of the now illegal Urban Renewal Study Committee, we have taken the position that it would be quite improper and illegal to combine or merge with Mr. Leighton's committee as outlined in the rules and regulations of the Department of Housing and Urban Development urban renewal handbook RHA 72217.1 Ch. 5, Sec. 2."

However, Young does propose to accept the members of "the old illegal Newton Lower Falls Urban Renewal Study Committee" as members of his group. He cites federal regulations which would prevent appointed members from serving on the elected executive board, however.

Young maintains in his letter that the election of the new committee was fully carried out according to federal requirements.

"I hope you on the Board of Aldermen will give these points your careful consideration and take the necessary action to make urban renewal acceptable to the people of Newton Lower Falls village," he wrote. Young's proposal will probably go to committee for study.

The previous Board of Aldermen which just left of chairman of the now illegal Urban Renewal Study Committee, we have taken the position that it would be quite improper and illegal to com-

Mail Appeals For March Of Dimes On Way

A stamp and a check can bring new hope to a child penalized by a crippling birth defect, Honorable Monte G. Basbas Mayor of Newton 1970 March of Dimes campaign director, said today.

"Our mail appeals are on their way into homes throughout the community," he said. "Please take those five minutes to fill out a check and place a stamp on the return envelope."

According to Mayor Basbas, who represents March of Dimes volunteers throughout Newton, contributions aid the progress in research, education, patient care and community services conducted throughout a nationwide network of 11 Birth Defects Centers.

"The March of Dimes is fulfilling a twofold purpose at these centers," he explained. "Research into the causes, cures and prevention of birth defects is going forward at an accelerated pace; comprehensive care for those who need it is provided by the most competent health professionals."

"Only an enthusiastic public response can continue these gains," Mayor Basbas said. "The future is in your hands — and your checkbook."

Newton Man Among 7 Nabbed by Agents

A 40-year-old Newtonville man was among seven others who were arraigned in connection with the break-up of a counterfeit currency ring.

Richard MacLeod of 154 Lowell Ave., who was arrested Sunday by federal officers, was arraigned before U.S. Commr. R. Robert Pomeo in the latter's Brookline home. Arraigned with MacLeod, was Johning Citrano, 29, of 84 Graymore Rd., Waltham.

Arrests stemmed from a raid on a Framingham Insurance agency early Sunday in which $250,000 worth of counterfeit $20 bills were seized. Four suspects were also seized at the agency as well as a number of weapons.

Taken into custody at the Stearns Insurance Agency on Hollis street, were Lawrence Stearns, Norfolk; Richard Leone, Somerville; Anthony Marino, Malden and Rosario Martoli, Boston.

The seventh man, John Storella, 30, was arrested in Salem, N.H. He was released in $6,000 bail following his arraignment in Manchester, N.H.

According to U.S. Atty. Wayne B. Hollingsworth, the counterfeit bills were in shopping bags on the first floor of the agency.

Thus far, federal agents have seized $800,000 in counterfeit currency since December in the Greater Boston area. A total of 16 counterfeit $20 bills were seized. Police reported that a number of $20 bogus bills as well as those in the $5 and $10 denominations were passed in Newton and Waltham during the Christmas shopping season.

NIGERIA EASES BAN AGAINST FOREIGN RELIEF FOR BIAFRA
NIGERIA relaxed its ban against foreign relief for Biafra Wednesday, accepting an offer from the Red Cross to send food and medicine for refugees of the secessionist regime that was starved into submission. The federal government of Gen. Yakubu Gowon continued its rejection of relief offered by the Catholic Church, Western governments and special relief agencies that supported Biafra during the 30-month civil war, however, Gowon accused them in a radio broadcast of "meddling in Nigerian affairs." Earlier acceptance of a plane load of medicine from Britain was withdrawn, pending transfer of the cargo from a military to a private civilian aircraft and inclusion of specific drugs requested by the federal government. The government's demands were expected to delay the arrival of the flight until Friday.

CAIRO WARNS BRITAIN AGAINST SALE OF TANKS TO ISRAEL
AN OFFICIAL GOVERNMENT spokesman in Cairo Wednesday warned Britain that Egypt would consider the sale of heavy Centurion tanks to Israel as a "hostile act." There were no reports of major fighting along the Middle East cease-fire lines during the day. On Tuesday, Israeli warplanes bombed an Egyptian air base only eight miles from Cairo in their closest strike to Egypt's capital since the 1967 war. The warning to Britain was sounded by Esmet Abdel Meguid, who said Egypt viewed reports of the sale of 200 Centurion tanks with "concern and solicitude." Cairo newspapers have repeatedly charged that the Israeli condemnation of France's sale of Mirage jet fighter bombers to Libya was merely a smokescreen for more American and British arms shipments to Israel.

AGNEW PLAYS TENNIS IN CANBERRA AS GROUP CHANTS
VICE PRESIDENT Spiro T. Agnew, untroubled by anti-American demonstrations in Australia's capital, took time out Wednesday to play a quick game of tennis on the grass courts at the U.S. Embassy. A handful of demonstrators huddled alongside a nearby wall, chanting anti-Vietnam War slogans and obscenities under the watchful eyes of the police guarding the embassy. Extra police were ordered to the embassy following a violent anti-American demonstration outside the parliament house earlier in the day. A mob of about 300 anti-Vietnam War demonstrators fought with Australian police and U.S. Secret Service men while Agnew was lunching with Prime Minister John G. Gorton. None of the protestors got near Agnew, but scores managed to rush the light steel barriers, waving anti-American placards, and shouting pro-Vietnam slogans and curses.

NATION PREPARES TO PAY TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF DR. KING
THE NATION Wednesday prepared to pay tribute to the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on the anniversary of his birthday with a round of memorials seldom accorded a dead private citizen. Officials ordered schools closed Thursday in several cities. Several governors, including Massachusetts' governor Francis W. Sargent, declared the 41st anniversary of the assassinated civil rights leader's birthday as "Martin Luther King Day." The Martin Luther King Memorial Center—a projected cultural and spiritual mecca for American Negroes—will be officially inaugurated near King's new Crypt and the Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta where he was co-pastor. King's body was removed Tuesday from Southview Cemetery and reinterred near the church in downtown Atlanta.

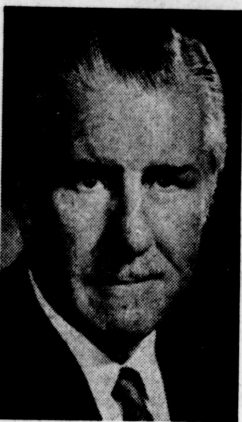

DOCTOR WARNS WOMEN UNAWARE OF PERILS IN 'THE PILL'
A GYNECOLOGIST warned Congress Wednesday that 9 million American women were gulping birth control pills like "chickens eating corn," unaware they may cause cancer, blood clots, diabetes and artery disease. "The widespread use of oral contraceptives, such as has developed in the United States in the past 10 years, has given rise to health hazards on a scale previously unknown to medicine," Dr. Hugh J. Davis told Sen. Gaylord Nelson's Senate small business subcommittee on monopoly. Davis is assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Baltimore, and director of its Contraceptive Clinic. Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., asked Davis whether Congress can depend on the medical profession to fully advise women of the alleged hazards. "These people are busy," Davis replied, referring to doctors. "They read the materials which the drug houses pump into them... so even the physician is not fully informed." He said sequential birth control pills and ones high in estrogen should be banned for contraceptive use. "Estrogen is the culprit" in blood clots, he said.

TRIBUNAL ORDERS 5 SOUTHERN STATES TO DESEGREGATE
THE SUPREME COURT decreed Wednesday that 14 school districts involving 300,000 students in five southern states must totally desegregate their schools by Feb. 1. Immediately thereafter, however, the court agreed to study a petition from one of the states, Florida, asking an extension beyond that deadline. In brief orders, the court granted the appeal of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund and rejected that of the Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana school boards asking that the deadline be extended to next September.

NIXON ORDERS FURTHER BUDGET CUTS AT CABINET REVIEW
PRESIDENT NIXON ordered "further substantial cuts" in the next-to-final draft of his proposed new federal budget, the White House reported Wednesday. Other sources said he might forego the idea of raising excise taxes. Nixon's decision was made at a cabinet-level review Tuesday of the administration's tentative spending plans for the next 12 months starting July 1. Budget Director Robert P. Mayo was instructed to find new areas for trimming. The White House refused to say what totals the President had ordered reduced. Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon's aim is "a responsible budget that will help stop the rise in prices, a budget that will be balanced and which will have some surplus."

2 PEMBROKE MEN INDICTED ON 57 COUNTS OF FRAUD
THE PLYMOUTH County Grand Jury Wednesday returned 57 indictments against two Pembroke men in connection with fraudulent loans from the Rockland Credit Union. Fifty-four counts of larceny of money and three counts of larceny by fraudulent check were returned against Edward Carns, 35, and David Waller. Carns is the son of Allen A. Carns, a member of the board of directors of the Rockland Credit Union and chairman of the Hanover Board of Selectmen. Officials said the incidents covered by the indictments occurred during a six month period last year. The men will be arraigned later in Brockton Superior Court.

Extra Teaching Help Aim Of Schools Here

The Newton School Committee on Monday night gave tentative approval to the school administration's request for 11.5 new teaching positions, 49.2 new teachers, 25.4 teacher aides and 2.5 secretaries for the coming school year.

The total package will cost $68,666 from September to December of 1970.

The administration's recommendations represented a considerable reduction from the number of new people in the system that had been sought by the elementary school principals. They had asked for 49.2 new teachers, 25.4 teacher aides and 4.1 secretaries. The partial numbers represent part-time positions.

Superintendent Aaron Fink declared that the majority of the new personnel sought would be utilized to strengthen the elementary school programs.

"I feel strongly that if we're going to deal with the problems of young people, we have to deal with them at a very early level," he said.

Requests were submitted for 3.5 new teachers and 16 teacher aides to "improve learning" in Kindergarten through grade 2.

Assistance was recommended for classes which include more than 27 children, Fink explained.

Also included in the requests was one teacher aide to "improve learning" in Kindergarten through grade 2.

Aurysen Is Now on Mayor Staff

Winslow C. Aurysen, a former Newton alderman, has been appointed by Mayor Monte G. Basbas as an administrative assistant to fill the post of William K. Mackey who has retired.

A mayor's office said last Monday that Aurysen isn't necessarily replacing Mackey as the former's duties may be different from Mackey's.

Curley Slur Caused Hynes To Seek Election as Mayor

A flip remark by James M. Curley in 1947 so angered John B. Hynes that he ran against Curley and defeated him in 1949. Except for that one unwarranted quip, Boston might not have had one of its best Mayors.

Hynes, who was city clerk at the time, served as interim Mayor of Boston for five months in 1947 while Curley was incarcerated in the federal penitentiary at Danbury, Conn., after being convicted on seemingly vague charges of using the mails to defraud.

He was chosen by the then Governor Robert F. Bradford to step into the breach and run the city during the emergency, and he did an outstanding job.

Newton Tourist In Iron Curtain Country

No Friendly Skies In East Berlin Air Trip

By WIGMORE A. PIERSON

The Soviet Union of Socialist Republics was the final stop on a two week tour of Europe.

It carried a group of 34 Americans to London, Amsterdam, Copenhagen, Berlin, Moscow and Leningrad last fall. Soviet Union travel restrictions make it impossible for a tourist to fly from a western country to Moscow so we had to depart from the East Berlin air field on Monday, October 6, 1969.

Let me briefly describe some of my impressions of the East Berlin Airport. First, there was no arrival and departure board as we see at the airports in the United States.

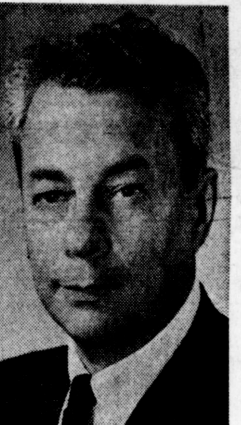

On one wall in the airport terminal building was a large picture of the East German Premier Walter Ulbricht. There appeared to be no airport control tower at the airport. There was a small lunch counter and the food appeared to be very plain. In looking in the back where the food was prepared, much of it appeared to be out in the open with less concern apparent

Board Retains Ties With Bogota School

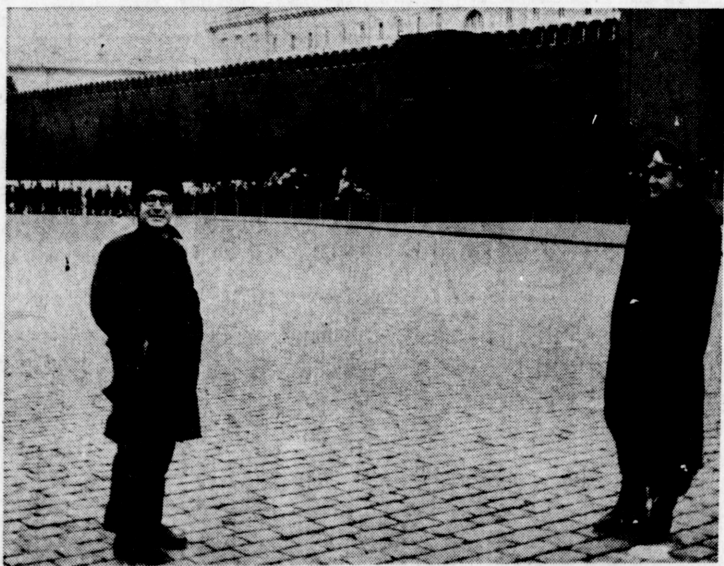

By a split vote the Newton School Committee on Monday night decided to continue for one more year its relationship with its sister school in Bogota, Colombia.

It was also decided, through the vote, to explore during the coming year other possibilities for foreign or domestic teacher and student exchange programs.

Voting to continue the relationship for the coming year were School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith, Committee members Francis Fra- zier, Eleanor Rosenblum, Edwin Hawkridge and Alvin Mandell. Opposed were Committee members Vincent Stanton and Richard Douglas. Committee member Herbert Regal abstained from voting.

Martin Luther King Jr. Day Is Set in Newton

Mayor Basbas of Newton has officially proclaimed today, Thursday, January 15, as "Martin Luther King, Jr. Day" and has urged other mayors in the state to similarly honor the slain civil rights leader in their communities.

Today is the 41st anniversary of the late Dr. King's birth.

In issuing the proclamation, the recently elected president of the Massachusetts Mayors' Association stated that he feels it, "only fitting and proper that we should join together and pause on that date to offer tribute to the memory of a man who not only led the people of his race in a search for equality and justice, but did so much to awaken the conscience of us all."

"He did this not by jarring our senses and wrenching our institutions with violence, but by appealing to our understanding, our common sense, and the love for our fellow man that should be inherent in each of us."

Mayor Basbas then added that, "I wish to urge each of my colleagues in the Commonwealth to lead their citizens, in whatever way they deem most appropriate, in observing the birthdate of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr."

Women Voters To Launch Agenda At Meeting Today

The League of Women Voters of Newton launches its 1970 activities with a local action membership meeting on Thursday, January 15 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Melvin Darack, 1672 Beacon St., Waban. Mrs. Ira Dyer will be the discussion leader and Mrs. Gilbert Friedell and Mrs. Charles Pfund are preparing background material.

This is the first step in the selection of local program and is part of a process which ensures membership control of the choices made. League members will evaluate all the local support positions which have emerged from previous studies in education, zoning, planning, charter, fiscal policy, equality of opportunity, library, public health and recreation.

Future directions of current studies in education and zoning will also be discussed. The Public Education Committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Bruce Fischberg, is focusing on the role of citizens, teachers and students in decision-making about public education in Newton. Zoning, the other major local study item led by Mrs. Joseph Apfelbaum, includes in its scope evaluation of state statutes of zoning, contents of the local zoning ordinances, administration and enforcement of zoning, comparison with other communities, and the relation of zoning to planning and the future development of Newton.

In considering new areas for study, members will consider whether the issue involves current needs and community interest, and whether it is an issue that local government can solve. Interested citizens as well as all members are urged to attend this important planning session.

Legal Counsel Request Sought By Urban Group

A request for legal counsel was made by John E. Young, chairman of an elected urban renewal project which is now fighting for recognition as the one legally required group. The present group is an appointed one.

The Newton Redevelopment Authority agreed Monday night to inquire about possible legal counsel for the residents of Newton Lower Falls due to be displaced by the pending redevelopment project.

Young's request followed the regular, routine board meeting, which he attended along with members of his group. Several other Lower Falls residents were present, along with Kenneth H. Salk, director of the authority, and authority board members, Mario DiCarlo, chairman; Lawrence C. Sullivan and Robert C. Casselman; plus a member of the press. No others were present.

"Wouldn't it be proper", young asked, "for the citizens to have legal counsel in view of the fact that the Redevelopment Authority has counsel?"

The Board members suggested that citizens can get legal advice from two sources: the authority itself or legal aid societies.

Director Salk stated that legal counsel has never been provided by the authority for the citizens to his knowledge. But he added that he would write to the Department of Housing and Urban Development if Young wanted him to do this. Young said he did, and added that he is also checking legal aid elsewhere.

Citizens For Education Meeting on January 18th

Aaron Fink, Superintendent of Schools, will discuss "Critical Issues of the 70's for Education in Newton," at the Winter Meeting of Newton Citizens for Education, to be held at the Peirce School, Temple Street, West Newton, on Thursday, January 22 at 8 p.m.

"This will be an opportunity for all interested students and adults in the community to hear Mr. Fink and then question him about problems in the Newton Schools," according to Mr. Ed Hickey, President of the organization.

Mr. Fink emphasized to the committee making plans for this meeting that he "...wants to encourage a critical attitude towards the schools, one that seeks to identify problems and help work them out." He plans to open the meeting for discussion after his remarks on areas of major concern.

All are welcome to attend the meeting. Members are encouraged to bring non-member guests.

Newton To Appeal Art College Ruling

The City of Newton's appeal of a Massachusetts Superior Court decision favoring the taking of 30 acres of the Webster estate for the Massachusetts College of Art, is expected to be argued in the fall.

A decision was rendered by Judge Henry H. Chmielinski involving the takeover of the land which is in Chestnut Hill.

In deciding in favor of the state, Judge Chmielinski ruled that the eminent domain proceedings of the Board of State Colleges were proper. The judge said the board had the power of eminent domain "by the appropriation order of the Legislature."

The city had argued that the Board of State Colleges had not been granted the power of eminent domain. Acting City Solicitor Charles H. Morang stated that the $500,000 appropriation bill granted the board the power of eminent domain only by approval of the governor and the Governor's Council.

That approval was never given, Morang stated. Judge Chmielinski said the approval wasn't necessary, however.

The city had taken the same 30 acres of land for use as open space conservation. The Board of Aldermen in Oct., 1968, approved a $300,000 bond issue to acquire the property.

The federal government approved $289,250 for the city to buy 65 acres of the estate along Hammond Pond Parkway. The state once comprised a total of 370 acres.

In all, the city has acquired about 103 acres. Of this nearly 31 are in dispute between the city and the state.

At the time of the state taking, city officials angrily denounced the Board of State colleges for failure to announce their intention to take the land. Chestnut Hill residents organized to oppose the state taking.

The commissioner of state colleges defended the taking as "living up to every specification of the law." "We took it from a private owner and no notification to the city was necessary," said Francis X. Guindon. He also said he tried to notify Mayor Monte G. Basbas prior to the taking but couldn't reach the mayor. The college is located on 2.2 acres in the Fenway in Boston. The state took the land for $232,500. The college

Centre Garden Club Meetings On January 20

With gardens buried in snow, gardeners can hardly wait for the first crocus and their thoughts turn longingly to the time when they can pick their own blooms for indoor flower arrangements.

As a happy substitute, on Tuesday, January 20, members of the Newton Centre Garden Club and their invited guests will meet at the Newton Centre Woman's Club to learn about "Living Every Day with Flowers" from Kenn Stephens, owner of The Four Winds on Newbury Street, Boston.

A native of Michigan, Mr. Stephens operates a unique store, encompassing flower and plant design, appears on TV and lectures widely about the theatre arts and flower arranging, with special emphasis on its relationship to interior design and other art forms.

A coffee hour at 9:30 will precede the business meeting at 10 which will be conducted by the club president, Miss Esther Winslow of Newton Centre. Hostesses are Mrs. Benjamin T. Fawcett of Wellesley and Mrs. Alden K. Sanderson of Waban. Pourers are Mrs. W. Walker Cowles of West Newton and Mrs. John D. Fox of Wayland, both past presidents.

Completes Course

Marine Private David H. Barron of 11 Dalby St., Newton, has completed a month long course at the Motor Vehicle Operator's Course at the Motor Transport School, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C. He was taught to operate and maintain all types of government motor vehicles as well as driving safety and preventive maintenance. Political Highlights

This writer was the City Hall reporter for the old Boston Post during that period, and one of our noteworthy journalistic experiences was accompanying Curley to prison.

Curley was granted a pardon by former President Harry Truman and was released from prison the day before Thanksgiving in 1947. He spent exactly five months in the penitentiary, which Curley subsequently referred to as "the academy."

We were waiting at the gate when Curley came out of the prison doors and stepped into the official limousine which Hynes had sent down from Boston to meet him. Curley was all full of pep and energy. He predicted that the rest he had received would enable him to live to the age of 125.

He went back to his Jamaica home to be greeted by a brass band and cheering supporters who accorded him a hero's welcome. After a restful Thanksgiving at home, Curley hustled to City Hall the next day and put in a full and busy day's work.

At the day's end Curley sat back in his chair and told newsmen he had accomplished more in a single day than John Hynes had in five months. Curley was to regret that slur for the rest of his life.

This reporter only once saw the mild-mannered John Hynes enraged. That was when another newsman informed him of what Curley had said. Thereafter, Hynes never went into Curley's office if he could avoid it. When he did, he reacted icily to Curley's attempts to smooth things out. He usually sent an aide.

The political writers, including this one, came to Hynes' defense and pointed out that Hynes had done an exceptional job for the people of Boston over a span of five months.

He had kept things running smoothly, had not thrown his weight around and had demonstrated an outstanding administrative ability. He knew the city as did few men.

Various versions have been published as to what Hynes did which antagonized Curley. It apparently was his action in advertising for competitive bids on the rubbish-removal contracts. Curley had awarded the contracts on the basis of negotiations. Hynes advertised for bids and saved the city $100,000.

Up to the time Curley made his quip, which was to cost him another term as Mayor, John Hynes had not thought of running for the office he was to hold for 10 consecutive years in the 1950s.

Just before Curley was released from prison in November, 1947, Hynes told the writer that being Mayor had cost him money. His pay had increased when he shifted from the job of city clerk to that of Mayor, but his expenses had increased even more, he said.

One of the things he had to do while Mayor was buy a tuxedo, he revealed. He hadn't needed one as city clerk, but it was essential to a Mayor.

After Curley's slur, persons close to John Hynes had little difficulty in persuading him to run for Mayor in 1949.

That was an exciting, hard-hitting campaign. It was Boston's last mayoralty election in which there was no preliminary contest to narrow the field down to two candidates.

Curley was in his early 70s but was still a skilled and fiery campaigner. A woman became so worked up during a speech he made to an overflow crowd in a North End school that she almost fell out of the balcony. Only the quick reflexes of two men enabled them to pull her back to safety.

Hynes was nervous and amateurish, but he won the election.

This writer has cherished memories of accompanying John Hynes on a variety of occasions.

We traveled together to Democratic national conventions. He was the Democratic national committeeman at the 1960 conclave in Los Angeles where John F. Kennedy was nominated for the presidency. Hynes had accepted that post at the request of JFK.

We went with him to New York in the winter of 1953 when he began the negotiations which were to culminate years later in the construction of the Prudential Center. He was then conferring with the man who had organized the group which erected the Empire State Building.

While he was interim Mayor in the summer of 1947 we accompanied him to Hartford after he accepted a challenge from the Governor of Connecticut to engage in a horseshoe pitching contest.

Hynes was an expert horseshoe pitcher, and in his kindly manner he tried not to make the Governor look too bad. But an enthusiastic group from Scituate who made the trip to Hartford in a chartered bus to see the match wouldn't let him pitch what they called a "customer's game."

In a joint endeavor the writer and John Hynes revived the Post Santa Claus in 1953 to provide Christmas gifts to needy children. The Globe took that over after the Post ceased publication in 1956.

John Hynes was a modest, kindly, mild-mannered, dignified man, both in personal and public life. He was disposed to magnify his own failings and minimize those of others. He was a dedicated Mayor who disregarded the political consequences of every decision he made.

He was the man-behind-the-scenes in Maurice Tobin's famous campaign for Mayor in 1937, writing his speeches and helping to plan his strategy.

John Hynes probably could have been elected Governor, and he would have made a good one. But he rejected all efforts to persuade him to run for the office. There always was someone running he didn't want to oppose. That's the kind of person he was.

Boston became a better city because of the imprint John Hynes made on it during his 10 years as Mayor. Something went out of it when he died. He was a truly great man in just about every respect.

Gov. Sargent Now Favorite Against Any Dem. Adversary

Governor Francis W. Sargent would win election today over any of his potential Democratic challengers who currently intend to seek their party's nomination for the Governorship.

That is what polls and surveys of voting sentiment indicate at the present time. The big question, of course, is whether they will still show the same thing next October.

Governor Sargent's dealings in the months immediately ahead with the Democratic-controlled state Legislature, one of whose leaders is a possible opponent in next fall's election, will play an important part in determining whether the Governor's popularity rises, falls or remains at its existing level.

Mr. Sargent was really an unknown political quantity when he took over the Governorship after John A. Volpe moved to Washington a year ago to assume the position of Secretary of Transportation in President Nixon's cabinet.

He got off to a rather shaky start as far as the public was concerned, and this was understandable. In April of last year a majority of the people who had formed an opinion about Governor Sargent were unimpressed by him. Many had not reached any judgment at all.

It is difficult to pinpoint the precise time of the turning point in public sentiment toward Governor Sargent, but this observer would make a guess that it occurred late last April.

Since then Mr. Sargent has achieved a rising amount of public approval until today he would be a tough adversary for any Democratic candidate. He is a Governor who would not easily be ousted from office.

Looking back over the months, it would seem that the shift in Governor Sargent's popularity trend came shortly after the Democratic-controlled House of Representatives rejected Mr. Sargent's tax program and adopted a plan of its own in place of it.

Apart from what the Legislature did or didn't do, however, Francis Sargent has made few mistakes as Governor. He has handled himself very well.

All this does not mean that Francis W. Sargent ooms as an unbeatable Governor. A number of factors will be militating against him.

He will be standing for election in a basically Democratic State.

Republicans are running the Governor's office for the eighth year in the last 10, and the people may be ready for a change.

President Nixon will hurt Governor Sargent's election chances if he does not treat Massachusetts fairly in the distribution of federal funds.

Notwithstanding these considerations as well as the hard political fact that Democratic leaders will be watching for any opportunity to trip him or cut him down, Francis Sargent still looms as a favorite to retain the Governorship next November.

Don't race out to mortgage the homestead in order to put down a big wager on him. But don't bet much against him either.

New York's Mayor Lindsay Still Building His Fences

New York's Mayor John Lindsay seems to have a natural gift for turning a seemingly unhappy situation to his own benefit. Early in the last mayoralty campaign, when it appeared his chances of victory were dim, he went into those areas where voters were most vocally critical of his administration.

One of these sections was the Borough of Queens where his sanitary forces had fallen down badly in clearing snow during the winter of '68-'69. He not only showed up in Queens during the campaign but he brought along with him some sparkling new snow-fighting equipment.

Then when New York was hit by an unpredicted early storm this winter, Lindsay found himself enjoying a well-earned rest in the sunny Bahamas. When he learned of the storm, he called City Hall and made quite a fuss as he ordered priority for Queens in the snow-removal task. His efforts got him plenty of publicity, and he iced the cake by cutting short his vacation and speeding home and to the Queens.

Recently, when the Nixon administration decided to take over the office of U.S. Attorney in New York from Robert M. Morgenthau, there was a storm of protest. Morgenthau had been one of the most active and efficient prosecutors ever to hold the job. He also was engaged in investigations of considerable public concern.

However, Nixon's advisors spared no effort in convincing their boss that the New York job was rightfully Republican under the victor-and-spoils reasoning. Morgenthau wasn't happy about the whole thing and he made a bit of protest, which got him a good press. However, the Washington people had their way and his job was passed along to a worthy Republican.

Now, Lindsay entered the picture. He has signed Morgenthau as a $42,500-a-year deputy Mayor. That gives him a line of mayoral deputies which include a Republican, a Democrat and a Liberal and soon, no doubt, he'll be adding a Conservative to complete his coalition.

In Morgenthau he not only gets a highly capable, honest public servant but one whose Democratic party loyalty cannot be questioned. On top of that, he gets one of the most respected Jewish philanthropists in the country to help clean up whatever lingering distrust may be directed at his administration as result of the costly school strike a year back.

Speed Traps On Run From Boston to Miami Eliminated

It's now possible to drive one third of the way from Boston to Miami without encountering a single stop light. You can get all the way to Stony Creek, Va., some 576 miles from Boston, before a red light will order you to halt.

It's interesting that the American Automobile Association, while taking some satisfaction out of that development, appears more proud of the fact that it has eliminated the "speed traps" which diverted many a northern motorist of spending money through the medium of hungry officials and road-side stand justice.

One of these speed traps, located in Ludowici, Ga., on Route U.S. 301, became so notorious that the AAA sent out regular bulletins advising motorists to avoid the town even if it meant a long detour. The Governor of Georgia became so provoked at the damage the speed trap was causing the State's reputation he ordered signs erected warning: "Approaching Georgia's Renowned Speed Trap, Ludowici." The trap still exists but on a modified basis.

Youths Who Picketed Nixon Party Gained Few Friends

If the bedraggled young men and women who gathered outside the home of the young Eisenhower couple in Northampton on the night of the former Julie Nixon's birthday party for her father, were intent on attracting attention to themselves they succeeded.

If they hoped their conduct would attract allies to their cause whatever it may be, they were probably wrong.

Indeed, their shocking display of gaucherie on an evening when a young couple were entertaining two of their parents, was very definitely conceived to spoil the little family get-together and draw whatever tawdry publicity they could get.

They may have upset Julie and her husband but as far as they were concerned themselves, they should check the night off as a complete loss.

Cub Leaders' Training Day This Saturday

A Cub Scout Leaders' "Training Day" will be held this Saturday at the Central Congregational Church in Newton according to Norumbega Council Leadership Training Chairman Arthur Alexander.

Alexander, along with Paul Dangelo of Newtonville, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright, Cub Training Coordinators of the Wellesley-Weston area, will direct the activities of the day.

Training Day will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue to 3:30 p.m.; a "Blue and Gold Banquet" luncheon will be included in the training schedule in preparation for Boy Scout Week (February 7-13), when many area Packs are expected to conduct similar events.

The "School Night to Join Scouting" of last November 20 has resulted in what might be called a population boom among the Norumbega Council's family of adult Scouters, particularly in Cubbing," Mr. Alexander said. He continued, "This one-day session is designed to orient these new Scouters with the methods and objectives of the Cub Scout program."

All interested adults are invited to take part.

Monstrous Chapter Ends

Americans never did learn much about the Biafran War. They did not pay much attention to its causes or its slowly unfolding developments as it moved toward the complete collapse of the Biafran military effort and the apparent overwhelming victory of the Nigerian forces this week.

Yet, even with their own Vietnam conflict ever growing more weighty on their consciousness, no foreign war has ever engaged the attention of Americans in quite the same way as did that in Nigeria.

That attention was not directed to the manner in which the Nigerian forces slowly crushed the rebellion during two and one-half years of war at its very worst. The attention was in the hearts and minds of countless men and women across the nation who came to know so keenly the suffering, the actual slow starvation of hundreds of thousands of young, innocent children.

Few Americans had any feelings one way or another about the rights or wrongs over which this terrible war was fought. Few stopped even to think about whom they wished to see the eventual victor.

They prayed for an end of the conflict to be sure. Yet, far beyond that they prayed and they contributed financially to the gigantic seemingly hopeless task of bringing a surcease to the suffering of those children.

Americans will welcome word that this civil war is at an end but they will also go right on hoping and praying, giving and seeking help for those little children. That such a scourge could visit this world in this the 20th Century; that tiny humans should be made to suffer starvation at its excruciating worst in this era of man's civilization, is shocking.

Now the hope of Americans and the hope of men and women of good will the world over is that the suffering will be ended quickly; that those who have survived may be brought to know and live in a better world.

Pure Amateur Ideals

The Canadian Amateur Ice Hockey Federation has cancelled the world championships it had planned to host during March. The Canadians are angry because the European ice federations refused to go along with the Canadians' desire to use professional players.

They argued that other countries used the best talent they had available and that they should have the same right.

Ever since Russia became such a strong factor in the Olympic Games, the question of amateurism has been threatening to explode in a big way. Behind the Iron Curtain they entertain a strange idea of pure amateurism.

In Russia athletes devote their entire year to the sport in which they are engaged. They toil not; neither do they spin in callings outside the athletic field, the arena and the ice rink. Yet they live a notch or two better than their less talented brethren.

At the moment Canada is pretty upset about the whole thing. It will not allow its hockey teams to go to Europe in the future and will not invite teams from abroad to visit Canada.

Such disputes have a way of mending themselves with the passage of time, but the rumbling that came out of the last Olympic Games in Mexico — the charges and counter-charges, which cropped up — are probably only forerunners of what the near future may bring.

It's not going to be easy to preserve the amateur spirit which prevailed in the early days of the Olympic revival.

LETTERS TO THE GRAPHIC

Teacher Speaks

Editor of The Graphic:

Your editorial entitled Permissive Education, which appeared in your issue of January 8, 1970, is a gross insult to those of us who possess even a modicum of comprehension of the fundamental goals of education in contemporary American society.

"Spelling," I quote, "may not be an essential talent in developing a future transportation magnet or a top trade expert but it does often indicate the depth of the education which the subject has received."

How can one possibly reconcile such a statement with an article appearing in the same issue of your paper, an article entitled An Era of Change to Grip U.S. Schools in New Year, which in essence points to a re-orientation across the nation as to the goals, values, methods, techniques, and general philosophy of education today and which makes mention of Newton, Mass., as having one of the few school systems already practicing what other systems are still dreaming about?

If depth of education is to be measured by one's ability to spell correctly, then we must call this regression rather than progress of which we in Newton, in our "delusion," have been so proud and to which we have been so dedicated.

As a newspaper which purports to reflect as well as to comment upon the Newton scene, you are woefully ignorant of what Newton's educators mean by depth. I would suggest for your enlightenment a consultation with the school committee, the mayor, the superintendent, or with any single one of the hundreds of teachers in the Newton public schools.

Criticizes Brooke

Editor

The Graphic:
What would you do for a person who has persistently opposed you?

That's exactly what Senator Brooke has done to Mr. Nixon. Mr. Brooke just harvests what he has planted and promoted. He has no trace of fidelity and should be left to leave his party. It would be much better to have a Democrat in the Senate in the place of Senator Brooke who always votes with the Democrats anyway. His record is pathetic.

There is more to running a nation than to take away from non-voting entities and minorities and handing it out to the ignorant and sometimes not to smart majority.

Senator Brooke got what he deserved.

Murray Road School Experiment Emerges As Avenue to Maturity

MURRAY ROAD — road to where? One hundred and seventeen high-school students, eight Newton teachers, and 15 volunteer teachers housed in a former elementary school in West Newton think it's an avenue to learning, to maturity, with liberal soul-searching and stumbling, compromise and concession along the way.

HOW IS IT DIFFERENT? — With a core of teachers equipped to teach various levels of English, history, math, science, and foreign languages, the school year started with the entire student body participating in a concentration week.

This means that the teachers offered nine possibilities for concentration: problem solving with Ron Barndt, film making with Tom Wolfe, experience writing with Alison Kenney, French with Ann Elliott and Elise Mandel, perception with John Foss, observations on how children learn with Carol Lynch, drama workshop with James Medalla, explorations into the study of history with Mini Grosser, and our environment and pollution with Frank Spitzer.

The students picked one subject in which to specialize for a whole week. Their aims — to absorb content, to know one another, to begin to learn to work in a group, and to learn how to evaluate their learning experiences.

Two groups, the French students and the experience writers, physically removed themselves from the school, and concentrated in isolation, 24 hours a day, in a ski-house in New Hampshire and in a youth hostel in Harvard, Mass. The other seven groups did their work at and from the base, the school at 35 Murray road, West Newton.

THE RESULTS AT WEEK'S END: Nine groups of students and teachers who had come together as strangers, parted as working units, richer in knowledge of their subjects and of each other as human beings.

NEXT STOP ON THE MURRAY ROAD CALENDAR: Evaluation took place — evaluation by students and teachers of the week's efforts, and organization by the student body, with assistance from faculty, of the semester's work to come.

To facilitate organization

A Cambridge, England, church has refused to accept the 50 pounds ($120) proceeds of a women's football match because the game was played on Sunday.

of the curriculum, the students arranged themselves in committees to share the work; committees for first- and second-semester planning, for outside resources, for scheduling, for colleges, for parents, and for public relations.

Once the students decided on a structure for classes, the resource committee began searching to find teachers for courses where there was student interest, but no core teachers. Next the scheduling committee did its work; and classes, tutoring in elementary schools, and other learning involvements began for the semester.

Students this term have had a choice among subjects as varied as Shakespeare, problem solving, Irish literature, advanced German, reading and writing, astrology, and ceramics.

WHO ARE THE STUDENTS PARTICIPATING in this 3-year-old experiment in high-school education? They are graduates of Warren, Bigelow, Day and Weeks (north side) Jr. Highs, and students from Newton High who with their parents' consent, have applied for entrance and have been accepted at Murray Road School.

They represent a mix of students who are under-achievers and high achievers; who come from as many curriculums as could be recruited; whose personality traits are varied and whose I.Q.'s are, too; and who have an interest in science to complement those interested in liberal arts.

HOW DID MURRAY ROAD SCHOOL GET ITS START? — Four years ago a group of Newton High teachers met with Principal Richard W. Mechem and the then superintendent of schools, Dr. Charles Brown, to discuss high school education. One idea which held their attention was: What kind of a school would you propose if you could make an entirely new one?

Out of this discussion grew the proposal for a small, experimental class of high school juniors who, guided by experienced teachers, would build their own educational program for a year.

The first-year participants were so enthusiastic, and the experiment seemingly so successful, it was felt that the philosophy should be extended through time. Thus the juniors stayed on, if they wished, and most did, as seniors; and a new junior class came in fall, 1968. For the first time, in fall, 1969, sophomores were added to the students body.

WHAT MAKES MURRAY ROAD GO? — The students make it work because they have a real responsibility in the make-up of the school. The students and the teachers are creating a school in which they are building the program and scheduling the courses, formal and informal. This involves making decisions together; and it involves making the decisions work.

This together concept is very important to the Murray Road students who enjoy working and learning with a core of experienced, sensitive teachers, and with their responsive volunteer teachers who spend with them an hour, or three hours, or six hours a week during the day or evening.

The students and teachers see the school as a community in which students learn from the teachers and also from each other, a concept rarely capitalized on in the usual classroom.

WHO CRACKS THE WHIP? — The pressures on students at Murray Road come from the students themselves. Their milestones are regular self-evaluations.

THE FUTURE? — The future is not yet clear. But for many students, parents and teachers, the Murray Road School offers a serious, thoughtful, difficult and frustrating, and at the same time often beautiful and exciting path, hacked out by serious young students, with their teachers, to meaningful, enduring, learning and growth.

that we landed in Moscow in a heavy overcast and rain slower some two hours later, about 5 o'clock Moscow time.

We were met at the airport by two women from Inourist, the Russian tourist agency.

According to several knowledgeable persons in our party, our plane, as well as others we saw at the Moscow and Leningrad Airports, as readily convertible to a bomber probably in a matter of hours.

It had in the nose of the plane a bomber's look-out while the center of the plane was so constructed that it could be readily converted to hold bombs if that was desired by the Soviet Union.

From the moment I arrived at the East Berlin Airport it was immediately clear that the society is not consumer oriented or concerned with the creature comforts of the individual. No attempt is made to make the passenger comfortable as we have come to expect in this country.

In subsequent articles I will discuss my experiences with the Russian people, the food, the transportation, the regimentation of the society, and the stores in Moscow and Leningrad.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Wigmore A. Pierson spent five days last fall in the Soviet Union as part of a European trip under the auspices of the Small Business Association of New England, Inc. Active in many Newton civic organizations, Pierson also served as a Peace Corps volunteer in Peru. In this first of a series of articles highlighting his observations, he tells of the experiences of his American group while flying from East Berlin to Moscow.

There were no comments of apology or welcome aboard by the stewardess on the plane even though there had been about a four hour delay from the original departure time. The take-off was terribly noisy and the noise continued until we were at our cruising altitude.

The take-off itself was very shallow and it appeared that every bit of space on the runway was needed. There were no air sickness bags in pouches on the back of the seats such as we have in this country. There was no air conditioning on the plane or air vents as we have. It seemed to me that the interior of the aircraft was extremely warm.

The decor was a drab green and a pale white while and as far as light was concerned for reading purposes, there was only one small light on the back of the chair in front of me with no individual controls available. The lunch was very plain, and was cold; but acceptable.

The flight itself from East Berlin to Moscow took two hours and ten minutes and was, in fact, very smooth and comfortable for the entire distance. It was with mixed emotions of excitement, concern and some apprehension

A director and member of the company's executive committee for several years, Mr. Maher has helped guide the company in a program that has expanded the firm into mutual funds, variable annuities and other financial services.

Mr. Maher is the 12th man in the company's history to carry the title of president. A native of New York City, he joined the district agency field sales force in 1923, and rose successively through the sales organization to become executive vice president, field management and marketing, in 1966.

He has always spent a considerable amount of his time in field sales offices and will continue to devote a major part of his time to the company's expanded and diversified sales effort.

Maher has held top positions in many life insurance industry associations, including past president of the Life Underwriter Training Council and the Life Insurance Agency Management Association.

He is a former trustee of the American College of Life Underwriters, and a former secretary of the agency section of the American Life Convention.

He is a trustee of the Lahey Clinic Foundation, the Newton, Massachusetts, Free Library, and is active in many other social service organizations. Mr. and Mrs. Maher have five children and reside in Newton.

Gerhard D. Bleicken, newly elected chairman and chief executive officer, said: "We are fortunate to have in Mr. Maher a man who has devoted his entire working career to the life insurance business."

"Mr. Maher's thorough knowledge of insurance marketing is of particular importance as we continue in our efforts to offer the public a broad range of insurance and related financial services."

Times Must Be Getting Bad; Circulation Of Books Is Up

The nation's economists may do well to look to libraries to determine if people are actually affluent or not.

According to Newton Chief Librarian Henry E. Bates Jr., "things are getting bad" when the circulation of library books goes up.

He explained to the budget committee of the Board of Aldermen last week that "with affluence, book reading goes down."

The chief librarian appeared before the committee with a request for a $2,391 advance to replace a position in the Reference Department with two lower positions.

Disclosing that circulation at the Newton Free Library was up 5 per cent in 1969, he said: "When there's a lot of money around, reading takes second place. But when times get rough, people don't go to restaurants and other entertainment."

Bates said times must be getting rough because in the last six months, Newton, as well as other communities have experienced an increase in library book circulation.

During the last several years, however, circulation at the Newton facility decreased, indicating a healthy economy, he said.

In proof of his ability to auger the economic state of the nation, Bates said that during the years of the Great Depression, library circulation reached an all-time high which even now has not been surpassed.

The finance committee approved his request for the funds and the board concurred.

Hospital Film Documentary To Be Seen Jan. 20

"Hospital" was filmed at a public hospital in New York City serving 1,500,000 people. The film shows the day to day activities of a huge city hospital attempting to cope with the overwhelming health problems of the metropolitan population.

"Hospital" is Mr. Wiseman's fourth documentary in a series on contemporary American institutions. "Law and Order," on the Kansas City Police Force, won an Emmy in 1969.

The ban is now being appealed to the United States Supreme Court. A group of 35 inmates of Bridgewater, represented by an Assistant Attorney General of Massachusetts, has recently brought a new suit against Mr. Wiseman. The "Titicut Follies" Legal Defense Fund was established to help defray the cost of the legal battles surrounding the film.

Tickets for the showing may be obtained from the Defense Fund, 264 Third Street, Cambridge 02142 or at the box office of the Harvard Square Theatre from Jan. 18.

as the Outstanding News Documentary, "High School" was described in Newsweek as the most important documentary of 1969.

Mr. Wiseman's first documentary of the series, "Titicut Follies," filmed at the Bridgewater State Prison for the Criminally Insane, was banned to the general public by the Massachusetts Courts.

Free Bus Tours Of City Murals

Newton residents interested in viewing the five-story-high murals on city buildings painted on exterior walls over the past two summers in conjunction with "Summerthing" may take the Institute of Contemporary Art sponsored bus tours Monday through Friday (Jan. 26-Jan. 30).

Nineteen murals are located throughout the city of Boston, the work of local artists bringing vivid color to city neighborhoods and expressing the painters' philosophy.

An artist on board each bus will explain the meaning of the murals. Buses are free to the public from the Plymouth-Brockton Street Railway through the Department of Tourism. For bus information call the Institute 254-1157.

In answer to a small printed advertisement in January only three short years ago, talented musicians from the Newton area were drawn together under the baton of Michel Sasson of the Boston Symphony.

With enthusiasm one of their biggest capital assets, a group of Newton residents interested in bringing more of the musical arts to the city joined together to assist in the formation of a civic symphony.

ACT Display At Library

Action for Children's Television, a young Newton-based organization which has been making waves all over the U.S.A., is the subject of a special display at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, from January 12 through 30.

A.C.T., brainchild of four Newton mothers, Mrs. Peggy Charren, Mrs. Judy Chalfen, Mrs. Lillian Ambrosino and Mrs. Evelyn Sarson, has in just over 12 months made a real impact on television programming for children.

Concerned with encouraging quality programming as well as with casting a critical eye on the undesirable stuff, the Action officers have recently conferred with C.B.S. television program planners in New York, and have also testified before the U.S. Senate Commerce Subcommittee on Communications hearings in Washington, D.C. The Newton Library exhibit features news stories and other printed material about the aims and activities of A.C.T.

Symphony Is One Of Area's Largest

The enthusiasm generated at that first gathering, enhanced by the inspiring musical direction of Mr. Sasson, has culminated in a symphony orchestra with a full complement of eighty-eight players to offer the pleasure and excitement of the best in music to Newton residents. Support of local citizens contributes to the continuing success of the orchestra.

As the orchestra has grown in size, so has its commitment to the community. It now offers a series of evening concerts, afternoon concerts for the young people of Newton, and a scholarship program to help in the development of the musically talented young.

February first is the date set for the orchestra's second evening concert at the Meadowbrook Junior High School. Jules Eskin, principal cellist of the Boston Symphony will be guest soloist in a performance of Dvorak's B-minor Concerto. Haydn's Symphony No. 6 and Rossini's overture "Grazia Ladre" complete a program promising much enjoyment for those who attend.

The Waban Woman's Club will meet next Monday (Jan. 19) at 2 p.m. for a program entitled "Discover America Best By Car" to be presented by Miss Carol Lane, Women's Director for Shell Oil Co.

Miss Lane is an expert in travel by car as the result of research and testing during 60,000 miles of driving a year. A frequent guest on radio and television, she will demonstrate how to pack a maximum wardrobe in a minimum of space—all wrinkle free.

She has multiple suggestions for making auto travel fun filled for both young and old on any size budget.

Mrs. Damon Carter and Mrs. Don W. Fawcett, co-chairmen are fortunate to be able to present Miss Lane in this year's program, after the cancellation of her talk last year, when even the most expert of travellers could not overcome the perils of 1969's worst snow storm and blizzard.

Mrs. Robert L. McWilliams, club president, will open with the regular business meeting, prior to the program. The Tea Hostess will be Mrs. Archibald Price, who will also arrange the flowers. The pourers will be Mrs.

Donald H. Gosch, Mrs. Wendell P. Hiltabrand, Mrs. Charles B. Jones, and Mrs. Warren E. Lincoln.

Bloodmobile Due Here January 29

On Thursday, January 29th, the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at our Lady's High School, 575 Washington Street, Newton, from 1 until 6:45 p.m. This will be the only bloodmobile open to the public until March 24th.

Newton did not meet its quota of blood donors at the recent bloodmobiles held in the city. The need for blood has reached disaster proportions.

In order to have sufficient blood on hand for the needs of Newton residents, it is incumbent upon all its citizens who can donate, to do so.

Churches, synagogues, fraternal organizations and industrial units in the city should make a concerted effort to send members of their organizations to the next bloodmobile at Our Lady's Church School.

South High Wrestlers Remain Undefeated

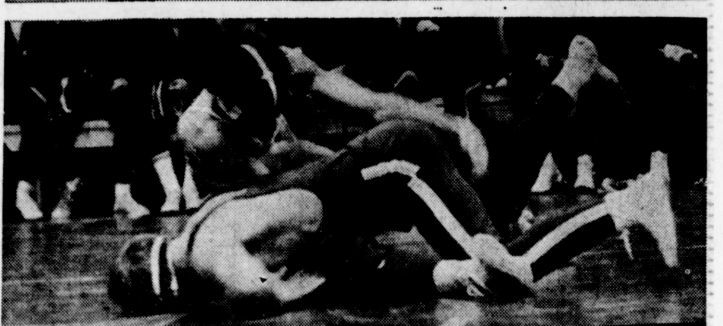

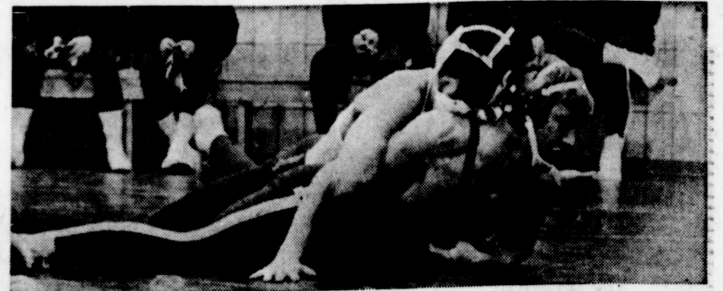

After a two and a half week lay-off the Newton South wrestling team returned to action by thumping Lexington 38-8, and Brookline 25-15, last week to remain undefeated. South had an extremely easy time against the Minutemen as Lion grapplers captured four individual matches on pins and six more on decisions, to dominate 10 of the 12 weight classes. Paul Arduino, 100, Bill Hurwitz, 117, Bob Berkowitz, 157 and Bruce Gordon, 187, in his first varsity match, all won by pins. Bruce Kraft, 125, Tri-Captains Paul Eisenberg, 139, Fred Virgilio, 147, and Paul Dumais, 167, Larry Feldman, 177 and Bob Staulo, 187, each added three points on decisions. Although the score was much closer the Lions did not have too much trouble with Brookline, either. They did have difficulty pinning their opponents, however, as only two pins were registered in the match. Junior Steve Etkin (132) and Virgilio, scored the two pins.

South ran up some impressive decision scores, though. Arduino and Kraft were victorious, 6-0, and 7-2 respectively. Eisenberg, Dumais, and Charley Schuff were also Lion winners. The win was the fourth in a row for the unbeaten Lion grapplers. Most responsible for the unblemished slate are Virgilio, 4-0, Arduino, 4-0, Eisenberg, 3-0-1 and Schuff, 3-0.

Then Newton South matmen take on Lincoln - Sudbury and Tewksbury both at home, this week.

LION GRAPPLERS — Panel shows three matches in last week's Newton South High 38 to 8 victory over Lexington, and hopes are high that the victory is a good omen for the remainder of the season. At top, South tri-captain Paul Eisenberg completes a lock on his Lexington opponent after switching out; in center, David Smith, Lion grappler in the 132 pound class, is holding out against his foe as he went for three rounds to a pin; at lower panel, tri-captain Fred Virgilio fakes out his opponent as he switches to gain better leverage and win the match. St. Louis Cards Sign Waban Star

Bob Geist, of 297 Woodward St., Waban, has just been signed to a contract by the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

This is the culmination of a dedication to the sport since an early age. Starting with the Waban Braves of the Newton South Little League 14 years ago, he has progressed through Junior High, Stan Musial League, High School, and College baseball. He has also played the past two summers with the Bob Wolf Club of the Boston Park League.

At Newton South High School in 1964 and 1965, he was a two-time all scholastic pitcher in the Suburban League, and led the team to the League championship in the latter year. He played on the varsity at Northeastern University for three years, and was captain of the team in 1969. While in college, he played primarily outfield.

Bob bats and throws left-handed. Jeff Jones, the St. Louis scout who signed Bob, after watching him in action since high school, says that he has a good arm, is fast on the bases, and plays heads-up ball at all time. He has a good eye at the plate, and hits for a good average.

The Cardinals will try him

South Hockey Team Faces Acton-Boxboro

Bob Landfear notched a goal at 5:02 of the first period and a stiff-checking, hustling Bedford High team made it stand up, as Bedford edged Newton South, 1-0, last Saturday.

Landfear took a pass from Mike Lane and beat Lion netminder Paul Modern from close up.

South had many opportunities, but couldn't capitalize. Modern had his hands full, even though the Lions afforded him good protection. The Lions are 2-3-1 and are in a three-way tie for fourth place in the Dual County Hockey League. This marks South's first shut-out of the year.

South faces off against Acton.

Boxboro at the Merrimack Valley Forum in Billerica, Saturday night. Acton is tied with Newton, though it has won fewer games.

Wins 300 In BAA Games

With only a limited amount of performers available for action due to College Boards and injuries, the Newton High Track Team still managed to finish a very creditable sixth in the Boston Athletic Association Games last Saturday at the Boston Garden. Lawrence High of Falmouth won the team prize while Xaverian and Lexington trailed.

The highlight of the afternoon, from the Newton standpoint anyway, was Alan Boyer's victory in the 300. The slim junior recorded a life time best of 33.5 in the event while outdistancing a strong field.

George Norcross finished fifth for Newton in the 50 and the relay team tied for fourth with Boston College High.

This week Newton resumes Met League action versus Waltham. A week from Saturday trials for the State Meet will be held and two weeks from Saturday Newton returns to the Garden to go after Class A State Honors.

With the Class division Newton seems to have a much better chance of winning the team trophy as none of their performers should be missing because of boards and the competition should be easier as the State Meets are divided into four classes.

Tiger Hoopsters Feel Dismal After Two Very Close Losses

By JEFF GROSSMAN

The Newton High basketball team lost two agonizingly close contests to Cambridge Latin and Waltham last week to drop to the .500 mark in Suburban and overall competition. In the Latin game the Newton team came from a 16 point deficit at half time to five points away with five minutes left but could get no closer.

Last Friday night's Waltham game took two double overtime periods to decide as Waltham was the least sloppier of the two in the extremely sloppy game. Waltham shot a horrendous 30 percent and Newton shot an even more brutal 25 percent.

Still, it took two overtime periods and as Waltham mentor Don Prohovich said, "It was a battle of who wanted to give it away. It wasn't good basketball but it sure was exciting."

As in the Cambridge game, Newton came from behind in a losing effort. Down 28 to 18 going into the final period the visitors outscored the Waltham team 16 to 6 to force the game into overtime.

Co-captain Jerry Beatrice provided the only hope of the night for Newton as he scored with 2:20 and 1:47 left in the regulation contest and then stole the pass in and fed Chris Doolin who scored to tie the game.

Newton retained possession of the ball with 1:16 left and stalled until 27 seconds remained when Dave Drinon stole the ball. Newton pressed well however, and Mark Flynn's 40 footer at the buzzer was off. Flynn, who was averaging over 20 points a game before the contest hit for only 12 in the prolonged game but was a decisive factor as he hit for four points in the last overtime.

Newton had 18, Gentle 13 and Pendergast 12. Bob Loughlin and Jerry Beatrice had eight apiece. John Colantonio scored four, Chris Doolin had three and Bob Wargin scored one foul shot.

Tomorrow night Newton game but was a decisive factor as he hit for four points in the last overtime.

Newton South High reeled to its seventh and eighth consecutive basketball losses last week, succumbing to Rindge Tech, 71-54 and Brookline High, 79-57.

Shooting an ice cold 15 percent from the floor in the first half the Lions were outscored by Rindge, 20-7 and 21-3 in the opening two frames to take a 41-15 deficit into the locker room. The Lions warmed up considerably, controlling play to the tune of 39-30 in the second half, but could not come close to overtaking the Technicians.

Dennis Edwards, 20-plus per game scorer, maintained his average with a 24-point effort. He was followed by Len Smith, 15, and Ray Pina, 13, double figures. Corcoran, 9, Levine, 9 points and 11 rebounds and Don Cohen, 2, games was South's high man with 18 points. John Corcoran, 10 Bob Sherman, 9, Emmons Levine, 7, Bill Garber, 6, Paul Selby, 2, and Ken Green, 2, were the other Lion scorers. Brockton High utilized a well-balanced scoring attack and a strong second half to topple the Lions after a close first half. South kept pace 35-27, before the intermission, but the Snoe Citians collected 23 and 21 points in the last two quarters to take command. Brian Sullivan with 24 points, led four double-figure scorers for the visitors. Garber, 16, Sherman, 11 and Schwartz, 10, were the Lions' leading point-men as seven men in the contest tallied in double figures. Corcoran, 9, Levine, 9 points and 11 rebounds and Don Cohen, 2, rounded out the South total.

Pottery Clocked In 10:41 For Two Mile Run

Chuck Pottery erased his own school indoor two-mile standard, and two other Newton South tracksters recorded their fastest times in the BAA schoolboy state meet, last Saturday at the Boston Garden.

Junior Pottery logged a 10:41 two-mile to lower the record from 10:46.3, a time registered in a dual meet against Milton High two weeks ago.

Scott Lampert cut over a second from his fastest previous 300 clocking in winning his heat in 35.7.

Junior John Seeler chopped over three seconds from his best 600 timing by racing to a 1:21.3.

Also competing was the South relay team of Dave Peeters, (who also hurdled), Lampert, Seeler, and Captain Ron Schneider, who missed the 100 because of college boards.

Two days prior to the BAA.

Farm Fire Damage

NEW YORK — For such reasons as lack of fire-fighting facilities, less rigid wiring and construction standards and poorer heating equipment, fires in rural areas cause three to six times more damage on the average than fires in the cities, says the Insurance Information Institute. Farm fires caused a record $214 million damage in 1968.

Pottery and Dick Dickinson recorded their best mile times. Pottery was clocked in 4:53 and Dickinson in 4:55.

South returns to dual meet action this Saturday against unbeaten Met Division II leader Arlington at Harvard's Briggs Cage.

The Lions are 2-3 in dual meet activity.

Basbas Asks Return Of TB Mailers Soon

Mayor Monte G. Basbas, Newton Chairman for the 1970 March of Dimes campaign, has issued an urgent appeal to those who have not already returned their mailers received from The National Foundation — March of Dimes to do so at their earliest convenience.

"Progress through research has done so much in recent years to uncover the causes of birth defects, yet so much more must be done," Mayor Basbas stated. To emphasize the urgency, Mayor Basbas cited some statistics. "In our society today, a quarter of a million newborn babies are denied their rightful heritage of sound health."

"The March of Dimes supports more than 100 Birth Defect Centers across the nation to help these infants. Throughout this network are outstanding medical teams who are treating and rehabilitating young victims of birth defects."

"Many other March of Dimes — supported scientists are carrying on research which, hopefully, one day will prevent these tragedies."

"So don't let the hour grow any later," Mayor Basbas appealed. "Return your contribution to the March of Dimes in the next mail."

THE HIGHLANDS

Gourmets all over the world regard soup as a superb delicacy. In royal households, hot soups are part of the daily breakfast menus, particularly in the cold northern countries. Soup begs for flavorful things cooked in your kitchen, for all the juices left from steamed or boiled vegetables, for small quantities of meat or fowl you can spare from the main course. In Europe, every woman prides herself on the soup pot. It is large and roomy, simmering on the back of the stove. To the pot, which never boils but is ever steaming hot, she adds all these "flavorful things." Whatever you do, if you are a good cook, you will never underestimate the worthiness of soups.

Never underestimate the quality of the food or the service you receive from all of us at THE HIGHLANDS RESTAURANT, 1114 Beacon St., Newton, 332-4400. Try our Gourmet Catering Service — we will serve all occasions at your office, plant or home... Monday thru Friday dinner special, Sunday, too... two (2) boiled live lobsters only $3.95! Enjoy your favorite cocktail in our lounge.

A native of St. Louis, Dr. Wagoner brings to this Service a wide experience in ecumenism. A former Marine Corps chaplain, a college chaplain, a university professor and dean, he has served as delegate to the World Council of Churches Assemblies in Evanston and New Delhi, and has lectured extensively both in this country and in Canada. He did graduate work at Yale, Princeton, and the University of Chicago and was honored by the Pacific School of Religion and McGill University with Doctor of Divinity Degrees.

His most recent work includes several chapters in Contemporary American Catholicism published in 1969 by the University of Notre Dame Press. In 1968, Dr. Wagoner accepted the post as Director of the newly formed Boston Theological Institute, a cooperative venture initiated by seven seminaries in the greater Boston area: Andover Newton Theological School, Boston College, Boston University School of Theology, Episcopal Theological School, Harvard University Divinity School, St. John's Seminary, and Weston College.

Supporting this Service as part of the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity are the six Newton Centre churches: First Baptist Church, First Church, United Church of Christ, the Lutheran Church of the Newtons, Newton Centre United Methodist Church, Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church and Trinity Episcopal Church.

The Service of Prayer for Christian Unity is open to all interested persons.

Employee Safety Program Opens at Newton Company

The Franchi Construction Company of Newton has announced this week the inauguration of a company-wide incentive safety program for its more than 400 employees.

Pasquale Franchi, President of the company, explained that awards will be given on a monthly, quarterly, semi-annual and annual basis to superintendents and foremen whose crews operate during each 30-day period without a lost-time accident.

These awards will also be given to those supervisors who compile the best safety record on the basis of man-hours worked vs. lost-time accidents. Work crews will also share in the safety awards.

This emphasis on safety has a threefold goal, according to President Franchi:

1. Reduction of human suffering resulting from injury.

2. Minimizing the financial burden to the family when the wage earner is off the job or hospitalized because of injury, and

3. Promoting greater job security for employees by reduced insurance rates resulting from improved safety performance.

Franchi stated further that each job would have a safety billboard featuring the company's new "hard-hat" safety insignia and slogan. In addition, he disclosed that there would be safety suggestion boxes on each job with monthly cash awards for the best safety suggestion. The judges will be a committee of company officials and construction insurance experts.

Hearing Today On Patrolman's Case

A Boston Municipal Court judge will hear arguments today involving a Newton patrolman, the Civil Service Commission and the City of Newton, relative to punishment duty imposed on the officer.

Patrolman Walter B. Haywood, 35, was under department orders to work 200 hours without pay for failing to appear on duty.

He told Judge Harold W. Canavan last Thursday that the punishment amounted to "involuntary servitude" and asked that a Civil Service ruling be set aside which upheld the ruling by Mayor Monte Basbas and Police Chief William F. Quinn.

It is the city's contention that Haywood, a four-year member of the force and the father of three, was found in a parked car covered with a blanket. The city alleges that there was a pillow under Haywood's head and his shoes were off.

Haywood maintains he was only taking a 10-minute break and was available via the radio in the cruiser.

He was found by Sgt. Richard Duffy in the cruiser parked behind the Angier School in Waban at 3:15 a.m., April 1, 1969.

Rev. Campbell Gives 10th Old South Lecture

Rev. Dr. Ernest C. Campbell, minister of the Riverside Church in New York City will deliver the tenth and final lecture in the 300th anniversary series at the Old South Church in Copley Square, Boston, on Sunday, Jan. 18, at 11 a.m. The public is invited.

The topic of his lecture is "What Does It Mean to Call Christ Lord Today?"

Dr. Frank N. Allen of West Newton is chairman of the anniversary committee. Dr. Urban H. Eversole of Wellesley Hills, chairman of the lecture series, will introduce the speaker. Committee members include Mrs. Charles A. Haynes, Jr., of Jamaica Plain; Richard L. McDowell of Waban, Paul Parks of Dorchester and Dr. Searle B. Rees of Brookline.

Dr. Campbell, a native of New York City, served Presbyterian churches in Pennsylvania and Michigan before he was called to the Riverside Church in 1966 to succeed Rev. Dr. Robert J. McCracken.

Dr. Campbell has been a frequent speaker on college campuses, at Bible conferences, preaching missions in the United States and Canada, and on the NBC "National Pulpit." He is a member of the Theologians' Council of the American Management Association.

During his ministry in Michigan, Dr. Campbell was a member of the University of Michigan Commission to Study Off-Campus Housing, and was minister advisor to the University of Michigan chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He received his bachelor of divinity and master of theology degrees from Princeton Theological Seminary.

Working 200 hours minus pay, Haywood told the court, would cost him more than $900. He also said he has been barred from overtime work, extra details and his days off have been split.

Although many Massachusetts police departments use "punishment hours" as a form of discipline, Boston abandoned the practice several years ago.

Representing Haywood at the hearing was Atty. Bernard Dwork. The City of Newton was represented by Acting City Solicitor Charles Morang while Asst. Atty. Gen. Charles K. Mone represented the Civil Service Commission.

Community Development Drive In Churches Has $1,000 Start

The Newton Community Development Foundation announced today that it has received $1,000 from St. Mary's Church in Lower Falls which makes the Church the first to complete its pledge of support for NCDF.

The check was presented to Marc Slotnick, Executive Director of the Foundation, by Lloyd Gates, Senior Warden of St. Mary's, who said, "We at St. Mary's felt that housing for families of modest means is a deeply christian concern and that it was imperative that we continue to participate in the work of this church-based Foundation which is so close to being able to make a real impact."

In a statement accepting the check, Mr. Slotnick said, "The Foundation is proud that St. Mary's Church is leading the way by completing its pledge so quickly. We believe that this gift represents the kind of commitment that Newton's churches, temples and civic groups are willing to make toward finding creative solutions to the urban crisis. Nearly all of Newton's churches and temples have made time available to the Foundation to present its program."

Slotnick went on to say that, "A few clergymen have even substituted our slide program for their own sermons. When a small church gives $1,000, when ministers pass up their own sermon to let their congregants hear about Newton's housing shortage, when four Auburndale churches call a combined meeting to hear about NCDF and when over 6,000 people take time out to hear the story, something intangible is happening. Once again Newton people are demonstrating that they care about our city and our people."

NCDF, a non-profit sponsor of low and moderate income housing, is in the process of raising $100,000 from the churches, temples and civic organizations in Newton so that it can purchase land and prepare a proposal for the Board of Aldermen in the spring. Each church and organization is being asked to become a sponsoring member of the Foundation and to raise a portion of the $100,000 goal. By the end of the month NCDF estimates that over 6,000 people will have seen one of its presentations.

A list of the presentations for the remainder of the month follows. Further information about time and place can be obtained by calling 244-7062.

PUPPETS IN SHOW — Eleanor Boylan, of Newton, and her famed puppets will be featured in a musical puppet show for children to be held in Waltham on Sunday, January 25th.

Newton Puppeteer To Be Featured In Show

The "Patchwork Girl of Oz," an enchanting musical puppet play for young children, will be presented by Eleanor Boylan and Jeannette Nizel on Sunday, January 25th, at 1 and 3 at John F. Kennedy Memorial Junior High School, Lexington Street, Waltham.

The show is being sponsored by Green Acres Day School, especially for a nursery and grade school audience. For information and tickets call 861-8539.

The creator of the "Wizard of Oz," L. Frank Baum, also wrote the delightful tale of Scary, a hilarious rag doll who comes to life in the "Patchwork Girl of Oz."

Scary sets off on a journey through Oz with Ojo, the little Munchkin boy. During their adventures in Oz they meet Dorothy, the Scarecrow, the Tin Woodsman, a fantastic beast, Woosley, the giant Yoop, and the beautiful princess Ozma.

The story was adapted for the puppet stage and set to music by Eleanor Boylan. There are six catchy songs and the fanciful plot is an ideal vehicle for the stunning puppets created by Jeannette Nizel.

Peter Bent Names New Lab for Women's Group

The new tissue typing laboratory of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital has been named in honor of the Women's Committee of the Kidney Foundation of Massachusetts. The $82,000 advanced research facility was made possible by a grant from Life Membership funds according to Mrs. Robert Yanofsky, of Newton, president of the 2000 member Women's Committee.

The Peter Bent Brigham Hospital pioneered kidney transplant and is one of the major beneficiaries of the over one quarter of a million dollars which the Kidney Foundation of Massachusetts has distributed to hospitals and laboratories throughout the Commonwealth.

The new tissue typing laboratory will conduct tissue typing for all hospitals in the area doing organ transplants. Other area transplants are the Massachusetts General, Veterans Administration, Boston City, University and Beth Israel.

Dr. Ramon Patel, Director of the new laboratory, said the facility will intensify research into refinement of techniques for typing of white cells. Identification of cell types is necessary for matching of donor and recipient in organ transplant. "The present method of typing cells is imperfect, entailing a 3-4 hour process," Dr. Patel said. "We would like to speed the test to about one hour. We will also intensify our investigation in the analysis of the antibodies in the serum used for the identification of cell types."

GOP Italian-American Club Dance Jan. 23

The Newton Italian-American Club will sponsor a Mid-Winter Regional Dance and Buffet on Friday, January 23, at Amaru's Restaurant in Dedham according to an announcement issued today by the Executive Committee following a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Joanne Lincoln.

The Club also announced that representatives of Republican organizations in Brookline, Norwood, Dedham, Needham, Weston, Wellesley and Milton will be joining them for this occasion.

The Newton Italian-American Republican Club was chartered by the Republican State Committee in 1967 as the state's first ethnically-based Republican Club. It has since enjoyed substantial success in a series of organizational and fund-raising functions.

Those interested in attending the Mid-Winter Dance and Buffet should contact Mrs. Barbara Schulman at 244-3936 or Mrs. Gwen Giles at 244-7485.

Applications for September are now being accepted for children of ages 2½ to 4.

Golden Rule Honor Given To Waterman

For the fifth straight year, J. S. Waterman & Sons, Inc. of Boston has been selected for membership in the Order of the Golden Rule, according to an announcement by Frank S. Waterman, 3d, president. Also included in this membership are the two branch homes in Wellesley and Weyland.

The Order is a non-profit, world-wide organization which investigates funeral directing firms and accepts those which are found to be worthy.

Membership is not automatically renewable, for a firm is re-evaluated each year to assure that it continues to merit the public trust.

There are presently some 1,400 Order of the Golden Rule affiliates, with, in most instances, only one to a community. In officially notifying the Waterman firm of its acceptance, a spokesman for the Order said: "It was the founding aim of our organization to seek out in every town and city one firm which could be relied upon for modern facilities, capable assistance, and prices within the reach of any family. Your organization has again proved that you meet every qualification, and it is therefore with tremendous pride that we continue our association for another year."

Temple Emanuel Expands Nursery School Program

Professor Harold Weisberg, chairman of Temple Emanuel Religious School Committee, has announced that as a result of a most successful first year, the Nursery School will conduct a five day a week afternoon program, 12:30-3:30 p.m. in addition to the morning session, 9:00-12:00 noon. Prof. Weisberg also stated that plans are being formulated for a six-week summer program to be conducted from June 29 to Aug. 7.

The nursery program, under the direction of Mrs. Michael Libenson, provides a wonderful opportunity for the emotional, social, physical and religious development of the young child.

Interested parents of children ages 3 and 4 should contact the Temple Emanuel School Office at 385 Ward street, Newton Centre, 332-5770.

Teacher Salary Talks Moving Very Slowly

Salary negotiations between Newton teachers and the School Committee are "proceeding very slowly," and the school budget may have to be approved without provisions for pay increases, Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith reported on Monday night.

Beckwith made the comment at a special meeting of the School Committee at which several non-salary items in the 1970 school budget were given tentative approval.

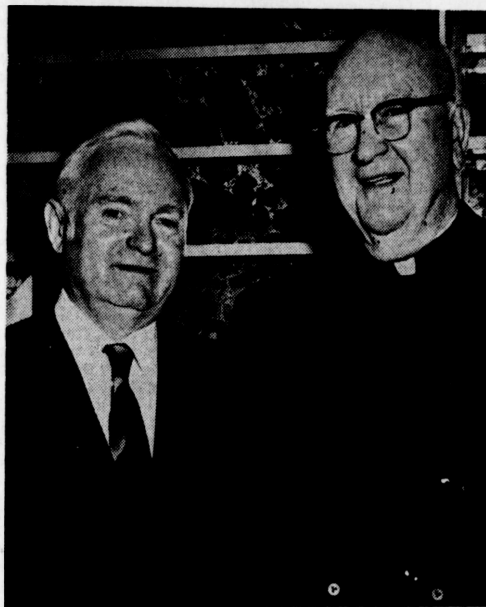

The school budget is usually submitted to the Mayor by Feb. 15 although, according to John Gilleland, assistant superintendent for business services, a Supreme Court ruling in 1958 decreed that there is no deadline.

Beckwith said that if negotiations are not concluded in time, the School Committee may have to vote the budget without salaries or vote it with last year's salaries and then seek a supplementary appropriation when they are completed.

In 1969 Newton teachers received a minimum salary of $6875, and there is no real indication of the figure that is currently under discussion.

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Josiah Spaulding Convinced He Can Defeat Ted Kennedy

If the unfortunate accident which placed the name of Chappaquiddick Island in the political history books had not occurred last July, Massachusetts Republican leaders probably would be hard pressed to find a respectable sacrificial candidate to stand against Senator Edward M. Kennedy in next November's election.

The likelihood is that Governor Francis W. Sargent would have produced a candidate about the time of the Republican State Convention next June after promising to reward him with an important appointment after he had made his futile fight against Ted Kennedy.

But the turn of fate, which sent Ted's automobile off the much publicized bridge, carrying Mary Jo Kopechne to a tragic death, apparently eliminated Senator Kennedy as a possible candidate for the Presidency in 1972 and, in the opinion of most observers, hurt him politically outside his home state.

Pierson Cites Impressions Of Moscow People, Places

What follows is a description of my feelings and impressions about the people whom I met during my stay in Russia last fall. In general, I thought the people were relatively friendly towards Americans although not overly so. Perhaps the reason for this feeling is two-fold.

First, it is difficult to get around Moscow and Leningrad because so very few Russians speak English and I did not speak Russian. Second, the Soviet government prohibits private currency exchange between American tourists and the Russian people.

Therefore, most Russians appear to be very cautious and afraid of conversing with foreigners, especially Americans, for fear of being arrested for some infraction of the currency exchange laws.

The several encounters I had with individual Russians were most interesting and instructive about the Soviet people. In Moscow we were met at the plane by Intourist agency guides. Intourist is the Russian state tour agency which conducts all of the tours and keeps tabs on all foreigners inside the Soviet Union.

The principal person who stayed with us from the moment that we got off the plane at Moscow until the moment of our departure on the Pan American flight to return to the United States was Nellie, a marvelously warm and sensitive individual, a woman in her early forties who spoke extremely good English.

However, it appeared that on occasion when some of the questions we asked her got a little bit too incisive or if they ventured into areas which she felt didn't want to discuss she found it convenient to not understand the English which was being spoken to her.

However, I feel confident in saying that she was a bright person who had an excellent command of the English language and understood clearly everything that was asked of her or anything that was said by our group among ourselves about the Soviet Union.

Is Major Achievement

1st Home Bought In City With NCD Plan

For the first time in Newton or in any suburb west of Boston, a moderate income family has moved from an apartment to its own home with the aid of an FHA reduced interest mortgage.

The move was the result of an experiment conducted by the Newton Community Development Foundation and the Newton Savings Bank using a new FHA mortgage program that enables moderate income families to purchase homes with as little as $200 down and interest as low as 1 percent.

Under Section 235 of the National Housing Act of 1968, a family may purchase a home which costs less than $17,500 ($20,000 for a 4-bedroom home) and have its mortgage interest rate reduced to the point that 20 percent of the family's income will carry the house.

The FHA will reduce the interest rate to as low as 1 percent, but will not subsidize a mortgage below that amount. Thus a family must be able to carry the costs of owning the home at 1 percent in order to be eligible.

This particular sale is considered a major achievement in Newton and in the entire metropolitan area because homes under $17,500 are nearly impossible to find especially in Newton and because suburban banks have been reluctant to place such mortgages even though they are guaranteed by the federal government.

NEW ENGLAND GRIPPED BY ARCTIC COLD; CAPE COD DIGS OUT

ALL NEW ENGLAND remained in the grip of arctic cold Wednesday night with the mercury dipping to the zero mark along the coast and 15 to 25 below in Northern New England. Cape Cod bore the brunt of a snowstorm Wednesday where up to eight inches of snow fell as the storm swirled over southeastern Massachusetts. Schools were shut down from the point of the Cape to the South Shore. Driving was hazardous though work crews cleared most highways. Martha's Vineyard reported four inches of snow, an unusually large amount for the island which normally receives little accumulation. The storm tapered off to a dusting in Boston. The sun peeped through a slight haze at noon.

NEWSPAPER GROUP CONSIDERS CHALLENGE OF INQUEST RULING

A STATESWIDE NEWSPAPER group is considering a possible legal challenge if the Massachusetts Supreme Court upholds the judge's findings in the secret inquest into Mary Jo Kopechne's death in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car. William L. Plante Jr., chairman of the Massachusetts Newspaper Information Service which represents more than 50 daily and weekly newspapers in the state, said the big concern among editors was whether the high court would prevent immediate release of District Judge James A. Boyle's report on the inquest. In ordering the inquest closed, the state Supreme Court also said all testimony would be impounded until it was determined no trial was necessary or until after any such trial in Miss Kopechne's death. The Massachusetts Supreme Court did not say the report must be impounded, nor did it say it must be made public immediately.

MIT TAKES LEGAL ACTION AGAINST 29 FOR OCCUPATION

THE MASSACHUSETTS Institute of Technology Wednesday obtained trespass complaints from Cambridge District Court against 29 persons who allegedly took part in the occupation of President Johnson's office last week. Two of the complaints were against staff members. Judge Harold E. Magnuson also issued two complaints of disruption of classes, as well as a single complaint of assault and battery. Magnuson denied two other trespass complaint requests. The 24-hour occupation began Thursday when about 150 demonstrators used a steel battering ram to gain entrance to the offices. The students left Friday after leaving the office in a "shambles," school officials said.

BRA & PEN CENTRAL REACH ACCORD ON SO. STATION RAZING

THE BOSTON Redevelopment Authority and the Penn Central Railroad have reached an agreement clearing the way for demolition of 72-year-old South Station. It was announced Wednesday. William H. Tucker, New England regional vice president for the Penn Central, said no firm schedule was set but demolition probably would begin in the Spring. The Mass. Port Authority plans to construct a $65 million New England Trade and Transportation Center at the site. Tucker said Penn Central trains would continue to use the facility during the demolition. South station currently handles 16 Boston-New York trains daily, a Boston-Chicago round-trip train and 63 commuter runs involving about 7,200 commuters.

NIXON HIGHLIGHTS: CRIME, INFLATION, POLLUTION PROBLEMS

CRIME, inflation and a "do it yourself" approach to air and water pollution are expected to highlight President Nixon's first State of the Union address to Congress and the nation today. Nixon was scheduled to deliver his summation of America's domestic problems, and his proposed solutions, before a joint session of the House and Senate starting at 12:30 p.m. EST. The President spent most of Wednesday conferring with his advisers and trying to trim the address to about a half-hour, considerably shorter than the recent average of 55 minutes for a Presidential annual report to the nation. Sources close to Nixon said he was expected to use one of his wife's favorite ideas, "volunteerism," in urging a concerted attack on man-made contamination of the U.S. environment. Because the federal government will be strapped for funds this year, Nixon's argument is that a "do-it-yourself" program of volunteer antipollution efforts are preferable to a massive government outlay.

PRESIDENT APPEALS AXES FOR BELT-TIGHTENING EFFORT

PRESIDENT NIXON, expressing particular concern over the depressed housing industry, appealed anew Wednesday for belt-tightening by all Americans to end inflation as the prime cause of U.S. economic woes. "The decline in housing production must and will be stopped," Nixon said in a statement following a meeting with Housing Secretary George W. Romney and representatives of the National Association of Home Builders.

ISRAELI COLUMNS SMASH FIVE MILES INTO JORDAN

ISRAELI armored and infantry columns slashed five miles into Jordan Wednesday, then turned around and pulled back to Israel under cover of jet fighter-bombers. The 22-hour raid was the longest sustained battle in the Middle East since the 1967 war. The attack launched early Tuesday night apparently was designed to smash Arab guerrilla bases in the area of Safi and Feifa, just south of the Dead Sea and 70 miles from the Jordanian capital of Amman.

COMMUNIST GUNNERS SHELL 18 U.S. BASES AROUND SAIGON

COMMUNIST GUNNERS fired rockets and mortars into 18 U.S. bases and positions in key provinces around Saigon in the heaviest shelling attacks on American forces since September, military spokesmen in Saigon said Wednesday. Among the targets shelled Tuesday night and early Wednesday were the huge Bien Hoa Air Base, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, and the U.S. Army headquarters at Long Binh, three miles away. Military spokesmen said the shelling attacks killed two Americans and wounded 23. Two other Americans died and eight were wounded in other actions throughout South Vietnam, while the Communists lost at least 209 men killed, spokesmen said.

POPE TELLS CATHOLICS TO STOP FIGHTING AMONG THEMSELVES

POPE PAUL VI told Roman Catholics Wednesday they must stop fighting among themselves before they can hope to overcome divisions with Protestant and Orthodox churches. He also took some non-catholic Christian churches to task, and said at times the difficulties in the way of Christian unity "seem insurmountable." The Pope spoke at his weekly general audience and referred to the "Week of Prayers for Unity" being observed now. He did not touch on the quarrel started this week in Holland over priestly celibacy. But he said, "every division, every quarrel, every separatism, every selfishness" within Catholicism hurts the ecumenical cause.

Registrations Open For Creative Art Classes For Women, Children

Registrations are now being accepted for Creative Art classes for children, mothers and tots and adults at the Newton Community Service Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton (969-5906). Art Director, Linda Janower announced today.

A full range of classes is being offered to include the smallest tot (age two and up), children of elementary age, handicapped youngsters, and adults.

Classes will begin the week of Feb. 3, but advance registration is strongly recommended, as many of the students from the fall term will be continuing in the program.

For Mothers and Tots: This class offers the child his or her first introduction to creative work through the special effort of mother and teachers. Children will expand their sensory perception by experimenting with many forms of art media (visual and tactile) in an atmosphere which is free of restraint and worry about mess.

Mothers gain ideas for home use with children, as well as a new perspective for themselves on the potentialities for an adult's use of the so-called children's media. Seeing mothers and children (ages 2 and up) involved in mutual creative efforts like puppet making, splashing in paint with bare feet to music, building constructions from boxes, etc. has made it clear that the values of togetherness and creativity make this venture doubly meaningful.

This group was photographed and publicized in a Boston paper last month. The parents and children are so enthusiastic that new sections of the program had to be added to accommodate the demand. It is recommended when registering that an indication is made for second choice of hour, in case the class requested is filled. Register early; spaces are limited and fill quickly.

Mothers and Tots as well as Mothers and Children meet on Mondays, beginning Feb. 3. Bea Lewis is instructor; Judy Keller is assisting her. There may also be a Friday morning section if there are sufficient applicants. The hour Mondays are 9:20 a.m. to 10:20 a.m.; 10:40 a.m. to 11:40 a.m.; 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. for mothers and tots. (An indication of interest will be taken for 9:30 a.m. - 10:30 a.m. on Fri'y.) Mothers and Children will be offered on an "indication of interest" basis also, and meets on Monday from 3:15 p.m. to 4:15 p.m.

For Elementary School Children: An unusual program is offered geared to a wide-open experience for children. The staff is trying to build a child's awareness of himself and the world around him. With this orientation they draw on natural sciences and experimentation, improvisation, body movement, feelings - all paths of communication and perception open to children and all culminated in the artistic experience.

The atmosphere is one of discovery. Children are challenged to solve problems in new ways. In the fall semester many problems were considered: the art of make-up (with slides from the Audobon society and pictures of people in natural make-up) provided for inspiration.

Another topic was the art of sounds, with a match-box on loan from the Children's museum of real instruments to stimulate enthusiasm. The class also visited the Antique instrument collection at the Museum of Fine Arts.

The strummers, noisemakers, and resounding instruments created out of junk, were a natural outgrowth of these activities. Mask making, the problem of feeling your face and of exaggeration were considered around Halloween and seemed to be a big hit with the kids.

But the highlight event of the fall session was a Light Happening in which children experimented with still and moving color in projecting images on the wall and on themselves. (slides, film strips, shadow play, transparent projections were all created by the kids to provide individual discoveries as well as a total visual environment).

Plans for the spring semester include a discovery of environmental space, microscopic life, batik and many different areas selected by the teachers. Color, design and an appreciation of aesthetic concepts permeate all areas taught.

There is a great variety of two and three dimensional materials used, as well as outside resources from libraries, museums and collections. However the emphasis is not on the finished product, but rather the total experience within the child.

If a child is drawn to projects which tap the intellect, the senses, the emotions, the body - indeed involve him totally as a person, he will find this program exciting, meaningful and a great deal of fun!

The schedule for classes is as follows:

Kindergarten Classes: Tues., 9:30 a.m. - 10:30 a.m.; Avis Jacobson; Tuesday, 2 p.m. - 3 p.m., Sandy Olansky; and Wednesday, 12:45 p.m. - 1:45 p.m., Avis Jacobson. Grades 1-3, Tues., 3:20 p.m. - 4:30 p.m., Sandy Olansky and Thurs., 1:45 p.m. - 3 p.m., Edith Schroeders. Grades 4-6 Thursday, 3:15 p.m. - 4:45 p.m., Edith Schroeders. Open Workshop, (Kindergarten Grade 6), Wednesday, 3:45 - 4:45 p.m., indication of interest only). Bonnie Wittington. Special Education, 2:30 p.m. - 3:20 p.m., Avis Jacobson.

For Adults, with babysitting available at the afternoon session there is a special Painters Workshop. This class is geared especially to the beginning and intermediate painter. No previous painting or drawing experience is necessary to join.

Those who have always wanted to learn to paint but have been too timid to try; and those who have painted personal style that expresses what they want to say, will find this course helpful.

The emphasis will be on how to use space well, create a good composition, use color expressively and freely and make a unique personal statement, rather than a photographic representation of reality. Students will progress at their own rate. Acrylic paints will be supplied by the student as these are easier to paint with than oils. A complete list of materials will be sent to each student before the first class. Mis. Lipsitt, instructor, is meeting approval to on Monday involved adding $367,450 to the budget for educational maintenance of school buildings.

In addition, the Committee agreed to recommend to Mayor Monte G. Basbas and the Board of Aldermen an appropriation of $100,000 in advance of the passage of this year's city budget. This would allow the School Department to begin to set priorities for needed maintenance work, Gilleland said.

The addition of the sizable amount of money to the school budget will not represent in itself an increase in the tax rate, Gilleland declared. The items had been carried in the city budget and are now being transferred to the school budget. However, the entire Public Buildings budget will be up about 20 per cent over last year.

The move is in line with a recommendation made by Mayor Basbas in his inaugural address that the School Department be given more control over school repairs and renovations.

Gilleland commented that there is a difference between technical maintenance and maintenance to provide a "suitable environment for education."

This part of the budget would take care of the "educational maintenance." The Public Buildings Department would still handle technical maintenance.

Controls for actual spending of the money by law would still lie with the Public Buildings Department at City Hall and the aldermen, Gilleland explained, but the School Department will now be able to set priorities of needs. Committeeman Vincent Stanton remarked that "I feel we may have more the appearance of things than the reality of things." If the control for the actual spending of the money still lies outside of the School Department, Committeeman Herbert Regal and Committeewoman Eleanor Rosenblum agreed with him.

"This gives us some control over the direction in which the money will be spent whereas in years past we didn't even have token control," Gilleland argued.

Chairman Manuel Beckwith noted that "this is the first stage in the change." The motion to include the $367,450 in the school budget and request the $100,000 advance appropriation finally was adopted unanimously.

Field Service Seeking Host Families Here

Host families are being sought for foreign students who will come for a year's stay and attendance at one of the city's high schools.

The Newton Chapter of the American Field Service is sponsoring the program which is aimed at furthering international understanding by bringing foreign students to the United States and sending American high school students abroad.

This year there are two AFS students in Newton. These ambassadors of good will are providing themselves and their host families a wonderful opportunity for close exchange of friendship, ideas and philosophies.

Offering a home for an AFS student is a rewarding experience. These outstanding foreign students come from one of fifty or more countries and have been chosen after being tested in a highly selective competition.

The prime financial responsibility for the host families is to provide food and shelter. The overseas transportation, school costs, medical care and an allowance are provided through AFS.

Interested families with children of junior and senior high school age are urged to contact Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Berman, of 30 Ellis Rd., West Newton.

Feb. 1 Newton Symphony Program Features Haydn

One feature of the Newton Symphony's February 1st evening concert at the Meadowbrook Junior High School will be a performance of Haydn's Symphony 6.

This beautiful work which has the additional distinction of having been the first of Haydn's works to be performed in Prince Esterhazy's palace was written for a virtuoso orchestra with Luigi Tomasini a leading violinist of the day as concertmaster.

Cognizant of the talent available to him, Michael Sasson, music director of the Newton Symphony, has called upon Newton's own superb concertmaster, Max Hobart of the Boston Symphony Orchestra to compose and perform original violin cadenzas just as was called for in Haydn's score.

Distinguishing aspects of this symphony are a violin solo, as well as cello and bass violin solos, and the harpsichord continuo common only to Haydn's early symphonies. Mr. Robert D. Levin of Philadelphia's Curtis Institute, a noted musicologist and acclaimed keyboard artist will perform on the harpsichord adding his original cadenzas on that instrument.

The harpsichord Mr. Levin will play is itself worthy of special note. It is an exact copy of a French harpsichord made by Pascal Taskin in 1770 which is now housed in a Yale University museum.

The instrument was made by John C. Reed who took great care in copying the dimensional proportions of the original. Mr. Reed, an engineer at Polaroid, spent two years making the instrument at his home in Lincoln, Mass.

Paying strict attention to even the smallest details he handtooled the hinges and like metal fittings of the instrument. The sound of the instrument is said to be exceptionally sonorous.

Concertgoers can expect a delightful musical experience from the refinements going into the preparation of this performance. Other works to be performed are the cello works of Dvorak and a Rossini overture. Ticket information is available from Mrs. Leo Stolbach, 244-8506.

Jewish Congress Chapter To Meet Today In Newton

Mrs. Hiram Viscott, a prominent educator, will speak on the topic "The Jewish Novel" at the Mid-winter meeting of the Newton-Chestnut Hill Chapter, American Jewish Congress, announced Mrs. E. Louis Friederman, President.

The meeting will take place on Thursday, January 22, at 12:30 p.m., including luncheon, at the Sidney Hill Country Club, Newton.

Mrs. J. Charles Santis is program chairman for the day. Mrs. Friederman will render a presidential report. The secretary's report will be given by Mrs. Edward Levenson. Mrs. Charles Brown will report on the results of the recent Metropolitan Women's Division Annual Donor Luncheon. The invocation will be given by Mrs. Harold Chaban.

George I. Samansky, Executive Director of the N.E. Region, A.J.C. Congress, will talk on the latest developments regarding Israel.

Mrs. Viscott received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Boston University. She is a former teacher of Romance Languages in the Boston School system and a devotee of the arts, music and the theatre. For the past five years she has worked with a research team at the Children's Medical Center studying the medical needs of the Boston community.

Suicide, Drugs Arrests On Increase in Newtons

Newton's mental health problems have increased alarmingly, according to a recent report by the Newton Mental Health Center.

Newton, together with Weston and Wellesley, is in Region V, as the state is geographically divided, and under the direction of Dr. Gershon Rosenblum of Newton. Statistics disclose that, of the three communities, Newton has the highest percentage of school dropouts at 1 1/2 percent, the highest percentage of both adult and juvenile arrests for alcohol and drug offenses, the highest number of admissions to state, private and veterans hospitals, and the highest suicide rate per thousand.

"Figures show that while only 10 Newton individuals were referred to state or private institutions for treatment of drug addiction in 1967, this number jumped to 32 in 1968, indicating that drug dependency is on the increase."

The Mass. Drug Addiction Rehabilitation Board Research Dept. reports that approximately 20-25 percent of the teenage population in this area (about 2000) have either experimented with drugs or are using them with some frequency. They also estimate that 20 percent of this group (about 400 persons) will eventually develop drug dependency problems.

Suicide statistics are even more alarming, in that not only is the rate per thousand in the Newton-Wellesley area substantially higher than the rate for the Commonwealth, but it is much higher than the comparable towns of Lexington and Quincy. It is similar to that of Cambridge, a city with multi-racial problems, transients and students.

According to state estimates, no services in Newton are being completely fulfilled under the Comprehensive Mental Health Act. The deficiency rate ranges from no services available for Day Care Centers to about one-third of the actual services needed in a total program.

The Comprehensive Mental Health Act was passed in recognition of the urgent need to cope with increasingly complex emotional disorders, plus the prohibitive cost of private therapy. The State was divided into geographical regions in order to cooperate with communities in establishing the various needed services, and be co-partners in financing their cost.

All the foregoing data is taken from a compilation of facts gathered throughout the Commonwealth to alert the public to the need to expand mental health service in compliance with the Comprehensive Mental Health Act.

Future articles will explain existing services in the community and describe the urgent need for additional services for the best interests of our citizens and the community.

The Newton Democratic City Comm. has heartily endorsed this program and has already shown their support by pledging $1000 to the Foundation.

A brief report will be given on plans for the annual theatre party sponsored by the Democratic City Committee.

This event, scheduled for Wednesday, March 25th, will be held at the Spingold Theatre at Brandeis University. Morris Carnofsky will star in Shakespeare's "Henry IV."

The meeting is called for 8 p.m. Refreshments will be served. Chairman Kraft extends an invitation to all Democrats and Independents to attend the meeting.

Political Highlights

So far, however, there has been no reason whatever to believe that Ted Kennedy could be defeated for renomination or reelection by any opponent.

Former Republican State Committee Chairman Josiah Spaulding of Manchester has announced his candidacy for his party's nomination for the Senate and the right to stand against Ted Kennedy in next fall's election.

Spaulding, who declares that he does not think the tragedy of Chappaquiddick Island should be a campaign issue and does not intend to make it one, believes he can defeat Ted, an opinion which is not widely shared.

The point is that Spaulding does not see himself as a sacrificial political lamb and is not running because anyone persuaded or pressured him into doing so.

You might think that the Republican chieftains would be jubilant over the fact that as prominent a candidate as Spaulding desires to carry the GOP banner against Ted and wage what most political pundits believe will be a hopeless fight.

That, however, is not the fact. Except for a few of Spaulding's personal friends, no prominent Republican appears to be enthusiastic about his candidacy.

Governor Sargent and Senator Edward W. Brooke, the state's two top Republican leaders still in the business of fighting election battles, both would prefer other candidates although there is great doubt that either will get the man he wants.

The Governor's choice is Congressman Silvio Conte of Pittsfield, but it is highly improbable that Conte, an able and astute politician and public official, can be persuaded by Governor Sargent, President Nixon or anyone else to give up his seat on Capitol Hill for the dubious privilege of running against Ted Kennedy.

Neither the President nor the Governor can offer Conte an appointment which would overcome his desire to stay right where he is. So the possibility that he will run for the Senate is so slim as to be non-existent.

Senator Brooke is beating the drums for Erwin Canham, highly respected editor of the Christian Science Monitor. Mr. Canham indicates that the possibility of Senator Brooke or anyone else talking him into running for the Senate is pretty remote.

Persons close to Mr. Canham say there is no chance whatever that he would contest with Spaulding for the Republican nomination for the Senate.

Conservative Republicans are unhappy about Spaulding's candidacy. They say his political philosophy is not much different from that of Ted Kennedy. They hope Frederick C. (Buck) Dumaine will oppose Spaulding at the Republican State Convention.

Dr. John Knowles, director of the Massachusetts General Hospital, who has been bitten deeply by the political bug, is a potential contender against Spaulding.

If Dr. Knowles decides he wants to run against Ted Kennedy, he would have to defeat Spaulding either at the G.O.P. State Convention in June or in the September primary since there is scant likelihood Spaulding will withdraw from the contest.

While there is some difference of opinion on the matter, most political analysts believe Spaulding would be too strong for Knowles.

An unusual aspect to the situation is that both Spaulding and Dr. Knowles are considered anti-Nixon. Spaulding was associated with the more liberal wing of the Republican party, and Knowles was blackballed by President Nixon for the top medical job in the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Nixon adherents, in fact, think it would be rather awkward if either Spaulding or Knowles were the Republican candidate for the Senate.

Top Republicans have been extremely cautious and restrained in commenting on Mr. Spaulding's candidacy. Senator Brooke, as a matter of fact, hasn't said anything at all.

"I wish him well in the course he has set for himself," declared Governor Sargent in something of a masterpiece of blandness.

Former Senator Leverett Saltonstall sent Spaulding a carefully worded letter of good wishes although his son showed up at Spaulding's press conference.

Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler probably would be the Republican candidate for the Senate in the highly improbable event that Ted Kennedy decides not to stand for another term. Except for that unlikely possibility, the guessing here is that Josiah Spaulding will be Ted's adversary in November even though he isn't everybody's choice in the GOP. He moved into the fight while the others were standing around.

Four M.I.T. Demonstrators Wore Masks Like Holdup Men

It is virtually inevitable that someone will be seriously injured in campus demonstrations such as the one staged recently at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

When that happens, there certainly will be a great public outcry for a severe crackdown on the outlandish and unlawful aspects of these actions which at times are so weird as to be almost unbelievable.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology is one of the outstanding and most respected institutions of learning in the entire world. Students accepted there are considered fortunate, indeed. Far more applicants are turned away than are admitted.

How can students with the intellect, the ability, the will to work and study necessary to gain admittance to M.I.T. participate in that kind of demonstration?

The answer from M.I.T. official is typical of those offered at most universities under such circumstances. Some of the demonstrators were not students. Those who were students represent only a tiny percentage of the undergraduate body.

This was one demonstration where the actions of certain of those involved reflected their awareness that they were violating the law and trampling down the rights of others.

Four young men broke down the door of the office of M.I.T. President Howard Johnson with a battering ram made from six-inch steel pipe.

An unusual aspect to the situation was that in order to escape identification the four dressed like holdup men. They wore blue ski masks and white coats. As soon as they had smashed down the door, they raced away. Other demonstrators wiped off their finger prints.

Other demonstrators also were obviously unwilling to accept the consequences for their actions and acted more like thieves in the night than students at a great university.

When attempts were made to snap their pictures, they sprayed a solution of sugar and water on cameras, maintaining later that photos sometimes are turned over to police for use in identifying demonstrators.

The background to this recent uprising was that a demonstration was staged last fall against defense-related research at M.I.T.

One student demonstrator subsequently was expelled from M.I.T. Two were placed on probation. Two others were given a warning, and three cases are still pending.

Dr. Johnson's door was battered down as part of a demand that amnesty be given to those who participated in the demonstrations last fall.

Whatever the merit of the demand may have been, the logic of making it in this matter completely escapes us. But there will be those who will write in their columns and argue on television programs that four M.I.T. demonstrators had a right to dress up like bandits and crash down the door to a private office with a battering ram.

This will be on the theory that the tactics used were warranted by the noble motives involved.

M.I.T., incidentally, may lose its defense-related research which has poured hundreds of millions of dollars in federal funds into the institution. That will be a blow to the university if and when it happens. But it's what the original demonstration was all about.

John McCormack Has Pledges To Gain Speakership Again

Some very sound political observers express doubt that John W. McCormack will stand for reelection next fall. They believe he will change his mind and retire from public life at the end of this year.

That Mr. McCormack has every intention at the present time of standing for a 22nd term on Capitol Hill is reflected by the fact that he has been soliciting and obtaining pledges from Democratic members of the national House that they will vote to retain him as speaker next January.

In fact, he apparently already has lined up enough pledges to assure him another term as Speaker if the voters of his district return him to Congress.

Congressional Quarterly recently quoted McCormack's supporters as declaring that he had received pledges from 167 of the 245 Democratic Congressmen.

That is in line with the results of a recent poll of Democratic House members which indicated that if a Speakership election were held today, McCormack would get only about 10 fewer votes than he received last January, when he beat back a challenge by Congressman Morris Udall of Arizona, drawing 178 votes to 58 for Udall in a Democratic caucus.

John McCormack apparently is more determined than ever to run for reelection as the result of the indictment of Martin Schweig, his suspended chief secretary. Incidentally, nobody questions Mr. McCormack's honesty or integrity.

He has said he will run for personal vindication, and on that basis there is little likelihood he will be turned down either by the people of his district or the Democratic members of Congress.

Most top Democrats in the House already have indicated they will back McCormack for another two years in the Speakership. Wilbur Mills, House Ways and Means Committee Chairman, who looms as the probable successor to McCormack as Speaker, will not oppose him. But there still is the possibility McCormack will decide to step out voluntarily.

Richard Gordon Santa Claus Party Choice for Governor

If Francis W. Sargent, Kevin H. White, Francis X. Bellotti and Kenneth O'Donnell will all please step gracefully and gracefully to the sidelines, we would like to present the Santa Claus Party's candidate for Governor.

His name is Jacob J. Gordon. He lives in Worcester. His platform is imaginative and appealing.

If he gets elected, he says, everybody will get free automobile insurance. Nobody will have to worry about the rates because there will not be any rates.

Elderly couples will get pensions of at least $400 a month. Working families will receive at least $10,000 a year. Taxes will be cut in half and may be reduced even lower.

Where will the money come from? Who will pay the bills? Please don't bother us with trivial details.

Spiro Now Big Attraction On the Banquet Circuit

When Spiro Agnew came to Boston in October, 1968, to speak at a $100-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner, the urgent hope of top GOP leaders was that he would get out of town without putting his foot so deeply in his mouth that it would embarrass and politically hurt Richard M. Nixon.

Now the Bay State GOP leaders consider they have made a 10-strike in arranging to have Spiro speak at a Republican fund-raising dinner to be held in May.

The Veep has become a great gate attraction. His presence here will assure a capacity crowd regardless of where the dinner is held.

This has come about because Spiro blasted the great TV networks and the powerful New York Times.

Even those people who disagreed with what he said expressed admiration for his courage in doing battle with those giants, and a vast number of people were in accord that there was some merit with what Spiro said.

So today Spiro is almost as big an attraction on the banquet circuit as President Nixon himself. Privately, the dinner sponsors are hoping he will rear back and let fire at some inviting target.

Robert Welch Says Nixon Is Not Bonafied Conservative

Is Richard M. Nixon really a conservative; or is he just pretending to be one?

Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society, who has impeccable credentials to prove he is a conservative, declares that many of his followers are convinced that the Nixon administration pretends to be more conservative than it really is.

He insists that Spiro Agnew's blast at the news venson for election to the U.S. Senate.

Volunteers Are Needed In City Headstart Work

The Newton Headstart program is in search of a number of persons interested in providing a community service in the coming year.

Project Headstart is a program for the economically disadvantaged pre-school child. It is based on the philosophy that a child can benefit most from a comprehensive interdisciplinary attack on his problems.

Newton's program is in need of individuals to provide such functions as helping in the classrooms, assisting with special events, and driving for field trips. Persons are also needed who possess special skills.

Individuals interested in providing volunteer service while deriving the benefits inherent in helping individuals to help themselves, should contact Mrs. Lester Steinberg at 332-3612.

In addition, the Newton Program is in need of a part-time custodian. This individual will be supervised by the local Headstart Director. Applications are available by calling 969-5906 or 899-3650.

Family Night At Church Jan. 24th

A Family Night Ham and Baked Bean supper will be served at St. Paul's Church, Newton Highlands, on Saturday, January 24 at 6:30 p.m.

A special price for children is offered for this supper, with entertainment furnished by students from Northeastern University.

Editorial . . .

Mrs. Norma Mintz

Newton has been fortunate in the number and caliber of men and women who have been willing to devote their talent and time to unpaid public service on both the Board of Aldermen and School Committee.

Some public officials who came in that category retired from the two bodies at the start of this year after dedicated service and a tremendous amount of work for the people of Newton.

One such was former School Committeewoman Norma Mintz who served for eight years on the School Board and in that period made a real contribution toward maintaining and providing a high quality of public school education for the children of Newton.

As a School Committee member, she was highly sensitive to the community and brought the parents' point of view to the Board. She had the ability to listen with understanding and insight as parents voiced their feelings and concerns.

She saw the role of the School Committee as of a policy-making nature. She was willing to take a stand for those things she considered to be important. She had an innate respect for the dignity of pupils, parents, teachers and the community at large.

Mrs. Mintz deserves the thanks of the people of Newton for her work as a School Committee member.

Computerized History

A half century back, some smart promoters turned a pretty penny several summers in a row at Revere Beach. They adopted a Punch and Judy technique to place before thrilled audiences their idea of the Civil War sea battle between the Merrimack and the Monitor.

Guns blazed away from both ships. It was very exciting and the verbal description which went along with the admission price was very satisfactory. It made the Monitor appear as easily the winner. It was all over in half an hour and the big tent was emptied in time so the seats could quickly be refilled for another battle.

Actually the real battle, according to historians, lasted for five hours and ended in a draw.

The Rever entrepreneurs could not be blamed for not getting a closer-to-fact reproduction back in their days. They didn't have the advantage of the computer.

The matching of Cassius Clay and Rocky Marciano through the medium of the computer probably lacked a lot of factual action. However, the attempt could very well have been a forerunner of computerized history.

How would Napoleon Bonaparte in his best days compare with Alexander the Great? Would George Washington have been able to cope with Hannibal's elephants on a neutral battlefield?

This generation probably cannot begin to conceive of what the computer will mean to man, his progress and his problems in the distant future.

Right now, however, we'll have to depend on our historians for a near accurate peep at the past.

Taxpayers Help

The U.S. Internal Revenue Service recently passed out kudos to employers who use typewriters and other business machines to prepare returns and process various reports required by the government. At the same time the IRS had praise for those individuals who use typewriters to make out their returns.

For years large concerns have maintained special departments and highly trained personnel to handle these obligations. The bulk of the individual taxpayers spend hours of worry, work and application to get out their own returns, although the number of those who hire experts to do the job is growing year by year.

The point is that to collect its income taxes the United States can and does depend on the taxpayers themselves to do most of the tremendous paper work which makes the collection possible.

Mr. Taxpayer's work doesn't stop with his task of making out his own tax bills. In these days the future of the Post Office Department stands in an area of doubt which may see it becoming a private operation. Mr. Taxpayer is asked to help out in the sorting of the mail and getting it to its destination by making use of Zip Code numbers and putting them on every piece of mail he dispatches.

Every now and then, men and women in and out of government, bewail the constantly growing payrolls of civil servants. One of the prime reasons some of our private affairs get gummed up in inexplicable red tape is due to the vast expansion of paper work and the number of human hands some items must pass.

It's reassuring to know that it could be much worse if it were not for those folk who got a deserved pat on the back from the I.R.S., an expert in such matters.

media was really part of an act intended to delude the conservatives.

If Richard Nixon really is trying to pretend that his administration is more conservative than it actually is, he's not only fooling the conservatives but also the liberals and a lot of other people, including this writer.

Why President Nixon would want to pretend he's more conservative than he really is would rate as one of the mysteries of the year. If he isn't a bonafide conservative, he'll do until one comes along.

His Royal Highness John Kenneth Galbraith, self-appointed monarch of the liberals, has given a backhander to a Republican liberal.

Galbraith declared that Governor Nelson Rockefeller "would seem comical even in California." Galbraith asserted that Rocky's recent tours of Latin America represented "one of the greatest comic exercises since Charlie Chaplin." He said Rocky has become a "fired, self-serving politician."

The professor made these caustic comments while endorsing William Vanden Heuvel for election to the New York Governorship.

Incidentally, Adlai Stevenson, 3rd, has escaped from Galbraith's dog house and has been dropped from the list of Democratic politicians Galbraith would like to purge. That must be a source of great relief to Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley who is supporting Stevenson for election to the U.S. Senate.

Shea Urges Public Hearing On Aim Liberalizing Election Laws

Representative H. James Shea, Jr. of Newton, speaking on behalf of Citizens For Participation Politics (CPP), has warned that a special commission charged with making election laws more democratic, is in danger of going out of existence without holding public hearings.

Together with the Democratic Council of Massachusetts (DCM) and Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), Shea joined in sending a letter to the Commission Chairman, Senator George Mendonca, D-New Bedford, and other Commission members, seeking prompt public hearings. The letter follows:

"We have followed closely your commission's initial efforts toward election reform and are deeply concerned that you fulfill the promise implicit in your very broad mandate.

"We realize that accomplishing this task will at best be difficult and will require you to call upon all those citizens—whether they be political leaders, members of the academic community or any interested members of the general public—to contribute their best ideas.

"Only by gathering and evaluating these diverse views can more participatory election laws be developed for all of our Massachusetts Citizens.

"To this end we strongly urge:

"1. Immediate extension of the commission's existence, which is presently scheduled to cease January 28.

"2. Extensive general public hearings on all ways to make election laws more responsive, such as popular election of state convention delegates, election of more national congressional delegates from state wide, revision in the composition and function of ward, town, city and state committees, and providing better nominating procedures for state-wide office. These public hearings should be a state level complement to the recent federal level McGovern Commission hearings.

"3. That your commission's only basic standard be to make election laws and our Massachusetts political system more responsive to the people."

Mental Health Project Blocks School Crises

"To create a school climate conducive to maximum learning, and to recognize and prevent school crises before they occur" are two of the objectives of the "Burr School Project" being jointly conducted for the past two years by the Newton Mental Health Center and the Burr Elementary School, explained Dr. William E. Stone, Director of the Newton Mental Health Center at a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Newton Mental Health Association, Inc.

In an unique project under the co-leadership of Dr. Haskell Cohen, Chief Psychologist of the Newton Mental Health Center, and Dr. Clarence Truesdell, Principal of the Burr School and also a psychologist, a new approach to preventative psychiatry is taking place and working.

An unusual team effort by teachers, parents, school administrators, psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers has decreased the number of children referred to the Newton Mental Health Center to the lowest in the city for the year 1968, while at the same time, achievement test scores are held up.

Dr. Stone explained the program as a basic difference between the traditional approach to teaching and the psychiatric approach to teaching, wherein through workshops, education and seminars, teachers become more sensitive to the issues and problems of young children in school.

The educational programs remain the same, but the attitudes of the teachers change toward learning and teaching, and in this relaxed atmosphere, the child with problems can be observed in the classroom interacting with his peers, rather than being pulled out of his natural setting.

The gap between home and school in this new program is bridged with coffee hours for parents and teachers where general problems can be worked out, and social workers visit in the home when necessary.

Miss Regolino, 3rd grade teacher, Miss Salletto, Kindergarten teacher, and Mrs. Jean Fasmar, a parent at the Burr School, were present and explained their individual roles and reactions to the program and made suggestions for improvement.

In conclusion, Dr. Stone explained that the modern architecture of the Burr School lends itself to this kind of a program very easily, however, the principles learned can be used in other schools in the city regardless of architecture, and many are requesting it.

He also emphasized that there is no overlapping between this program and the School Guidance Program in white each week.

Damage Set at $35,000 At Funeral Home Fire

One firefighter was injured during a $35,000 fire in a West Newton funeral home early last Saturday.

Treated for an injured eye at Newton-Wellesley Hospital was John J. Murphy, 49.

He said the blaze apparently started in the ceiling over a heater and shot up to the second floor where it was contained by firefighters after an extensive battle.

The fire was discovered by a passerby, Matthew Seeds, of Barnes road, Newton, who alerted police at headquarters a short distance away. Police then notified firefighters.

There was extensive smoke and water damage and windows fronting the two-story, 100-year-old building were blown out. The fire was confined to the building.

Melvin Dangel Is Appointed City Solicitor

The Board of Aldermen received on Monday night the nomination of former Alderman Melvin J. Dangel to be City Solicitor of Newton, and it was sent to the Board's Finance Committee.

While the office of Mayor Monte G. Basbas did not release any salary figure in connection with the appointment, it was considered likely that it will approximate $20,000 annually. That information will be available to the Finance Committee.

Recently Mayor Basbas appointed former Alderman Winslow C. Auryansen as an administrative assistant. Serving as acting city solicitor has been another ex-alderman, Charles H. Morang. The post was made vacant by the death of Matt B. Jones.

Upon the confirmation of Dangel, Morang will return to his position of assistant city solicitor.

Dangel's appointment to the post was rumored as long ago as last fall, when former Alderman H. James Shea, Jr. said Morang was only "keeping the seat warm" for Dangel. At that time Dangel denied he was in line for the post.

Dangel, 59, has been a lawyer for 37 years, with an office on Devonshire street, Boston. He has been a member of the Board of Aldermen from Ward 3 for 10 years and is a former chairman of several major committees.

A graduate of Boston University Law School in 1932, he also attended B.U.'s Business Administration School and English High School in Boston. He served as president of the Newton Council of PTAs for two terms, Warren Junior High and Peirce School PTAs presidency for two terms each and has been associated with Norumbega Council of Boy Scouts.

It was during Dangel's tenure as chairman of the Board of Aldermen's Legislation & Rules Committee that the city enacted the dog leash ordinance.

A resident of 32 Oldham road Dangel is married to the former Phyllis Coley. They have two children, Dr. James C. Dangel and Robert W. Dangel.

the school is now incorporating German into its already enriched curriculum.

Women Voters To Present 2nd Set of Zoning Units

The League of Women Voters will present its second set of zoning units on Jan. 28, 29, and 30. Some of the pertinent questions to be discussed are: What's ahead for Newton? What will be Newton's role in the development of the metropolitan region? What are the pressures that are fostering change? Are our present zoning procedures and policies flexible enough to meet the demands of tomorrow?

The need to provide housing for more people, the need to see that Newton remains a community for people from all economic levels, and the need to ensure a healthy environment for these people are basic considerations in discussing development and its relationship to zoning.

In considering the future growth of Newton, it is essential to look at the vacant land in the community and to determine first if there are certain lands that should not be built upon for ecological reasons. Secondly, the development of non-development of the remaining land should be analyzed from the point of view of people and their need for a healthful environment, i.e. from the point of view of density and open space.

With the present reliance on the property tax for revenue to provide essential community services, fiscal considerations often play a role in determining zoning policy. How business and manufacturing districts fit into the zoning picture is another area which will be

Country Players Production Of "The Balcony" Coming Up

The Country Players of Newton have tapped George R. Cohen of Chestnut Hill to produce their second production of the season, Jean Genet's "The Balcony." The controversial drama will be directed by James A. Cooke of Brookline.

Performance dates for the mid-winter offering, which will feature a cast of 17, are slated for Friday and Saturday evenings, March 6 and 7 and March 13 and 14, at the Rebecca Pomroy House, Eldredge St., Newton. Openings are still available on production crew and additional information may be obtained by calling 254-3948.

Blocks of tickets or the entire house are available at reduced rates to charitable and philanthropic groups interested in fund raising. Seating capacity at the Pomroy House's Stanley Auditorium is approximately 150-175.

When Genet's drama was originally produced at a private club in London, critic Kenneth Tynan called it "a theatrical experience as startling as anything since Ibsen's revelation that there was such a thing as syphilis."

The setting is a brothel in the midst of a revolution that has wiped out all the real holders of power except the Chief of Police, who now enlists the regular customers to play out the fantasy roles that destiny has denied them. In a series of macabre, climactic scenes, the playwright develops his mocking view of man and society.

A relative newcomer with the Players, George Cohen made his debut under their hallmark last Spring as Ivan Vassilyitch Lomov in Anton Chekhov's "A Marriage Proposal" and doubled on sound and special effects in the remaining two one-act plays that comprised "An Evening of One-Act Plays."

He worked on production in a similar capacity with the Players' entry into the New England Theatre Conference Drama Festival in May and once more last Fall, when the private club in London, critic Kenneth Tynan called it "a theatrical experience as startling as anything since Ibsen's revelation that there was such a thing as syphilis."

member also of the production staff of the Players' opener, "Little Mary Sunshine," in November.

Past stage characterizations include Tommy Turner in "The Male Animal," the Priest in "Rashomon" and the Butler in "Charley's Aunt," with the Roadside Theatre, U.S. Army Special Services, Heidelberg, Germany.

For the McGuire Little Theatre, McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., he was seen as the Scientist in "Under the Sycamore Tree" and William Blone in "Ten Little Indians." He also directed "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, etc."

In other areas of theatre, Mr. Cohen has worked on set design, set construction and lighting, and for a number of years was affiliated in a technical capacity with children's summer camp productions in Penna.

For information concerning theatre party sponsorship or individual membership, write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02459 or phone 969-6465.

Rep. Dukakis To Address Fair Housing Group

Representative Michael S. Dukakis of Brookline will address the Newton Fair Housing and Equal Rights Committee at 8 p.m. next Thursday night (Jan. 29) at St. Mary's Church. The subject of his talk will be "Highways and Housing."

Rep. Dukakis has been a leader in the fight to call a moratorium on further highway construction within Metropolitan Boston and Route 128. He has declared repeatedly that "unless current transportation priorities are reversed, a series of highway projects in Eastern Massachusetts, to cost at least one billion dollars, will, by 1975, destroy almost 5000 units of needed housing, displace thousands of jobs, pave over irreplaceable parks and green spaces, and further befoul our already dangerously polluted air."

The Brookline legislator has recently proposed the establishment of a new state agency to be called the Replacement Housing Agency, whose major function would be to rebuild housing destroyed by public action, especially by the construction of new highways.

Rep. Dukakis is currently Vice Chairman of the Committee on Insurance. Formerly he was Chairman of the Legislative Committee on Public Service, a member of the Special Commission on Low Income Housing and a member of the Criminal Law Revision Commission. He was educated in the Brookline Public Schools, and graduated with honors from Swarthmore College and Harvard Law School. He also served with the U.S. Army in Korea.

Country Players Production Of "The Balcony" Coming Up

The Country Players of Newton have tapped George R. Cohen of Chestnut Hill to produce their second production of the season, Jean Genet's "The Balcony." The controversial drama will be directed by James A. Cooke of Brookline.

Performance dates for the mid-winter offering, which will feature a cast of 17, are slated for Friday and Saturday evenings, March 6 and 7, and March 13 and 14, at the Rebecca Pomroy House, Eldridge St., Newton. Openings are still available on production crew and additional information may be obtained by calling 254-3948.

Blocks of tickets or the entire house are available at reduced rates to charitable and philanthropic groups interested in fund raising. Seating capacity at the Pomroy House's Stanley Auditorium is approximately 150-175.

When Genet's drama was originally produced at a private club in London, critic Kenneth Tynan called it "a theatrical experience as startling as anything since Ibsen's revelation that there was such a thing as syphilis." The setting is a brothel in the midst of a revolution that has wiped out all the real holders of power except the Chief of Police, who now enlists the regular customers to play out the fantasy roles that destiny has denied them. In a series of macabre, climactic scenes, the playwright develops his mocking view of man and society.

A relative newcomer with the Players, George Cohen made his debut under their hallmarks last Spring as Ivan Vassilyitch Lomov in Anton Chekhov's "A Marriage Proposal" and doubled on sound and special effects in the remaining two one-act plays that comprised "An Evening of One-Act Plays."

He worked on production in a similar capacity with the Players' entry into the New England Theatre Conference Drama Festival in May and once more last Fall, when the Players were to perform at Holy Cross Fenwick Theatre. He was a member also of the production staff of the Players' opener, "Little Mary Sunshine," in November.

Past stage characterizations include Tommy Turner in "The Male Animal," the Priest in "Rashomon" and the Butler in "Charley's Aunt," with the Roadside Theatre, U.S. Army Special Services, Heidelberg, Germany.

For the McGuire Little Theatre, McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., he was seen as the Scientist in "Under the Sycamore Tree" and William Blaine in "Ten Little Indians." He also directed "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, etc."

In other areas of theatre, Mr. Cohen has worked on set design, set construction and lighting, and for a number of years was affiliated in a technical capacity with children's summer camp productions in Penna.

For information concerning theatre party sponsorship or individual membership, write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159 or phone 969-6465.

Women Voters To Present 2nd Set of Zoning Units

The League of Women Voters of Newton will present its second set of units on Zoning on Jan. 28, 29, and 30. Some of the pertinent questions to be discussed are: What's ahead for Newton? What will be Newton's role in the development of the metropolitan region? What are the pressures that are fostering change? Are our present zoning procedures and policies flexible enough to meet the demands of tomorrow?

The need to provide housing for more people, the need to see that Newton remains a community for people from all economic levels, and the need to ensure a healthy environment for these people are basic considerations in discussing development and its relationship to zoning.

In considering the future growth of Newton, it is essential to look at the vacant land in the community and to determine first if there are certain lands that should not be built upon for ecological reasons. Secondly, the development of non-development of the remaining land should be analyzed from the point of view of people and their need for a healthful environment, i.e. from the point of view of density and open space.

With the present reliance on the property tax for revenue to provide essential community services, fiscal considerations often play a role in determining zoning policy. How business and manufacturing districts fit into the zoning picture is another area which will be considered at the unit meetings.

The question of zoning policy is an exciting one, its answer challenging and complex. Members of the League of Women Voters and their guests are cordially invited to attend these units and participate in a provocative discussion.

The schedule of unit meetings follows. Morning meetings are from 9:30 to 11:15, luncheon meeting is from 11:30 to 2, and evening meetings are from 8 to 9:45.

Wednesday morning, Jan. 28, at the home of Mrs. Peter Morehouse, 5 Cochituate Road, Newton Highlands (Baby sitting provided). Wednesday luncheon at the home of Mrs. Roy Green, 28 Lenox Street, West Newton (Bring a sandwich; coffee will be provided.) Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Dinsmore, 9 Crescent Avenue, Newton Center.

Thursday morning, Jan. 29, at the Newton Highlands Workshop, 72 Columbus Street, Newton Highlands. Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Allan Mann, 26 Merrill Road, Newton Center.

Friday morning, Jan. 30, at the Auburndale Congregational Church, 64 Hancock Street, Auburndale (Baby sitting provided).

Members of the zoning committee are Mrs. Joseph Apfelbaum, Chairman, Mrs. Joseph Alexander, Vice-chairman, Mrs. Leon Barron, Mrs. Charles Bates, Mrs. Robert Capeless, Mrs. Solomon Fleishman, Mrs. Arno Heyn, Mrs. David Jackson, Mrs. Lawrence Rubin, Mrs. Blair Schick, and Mrs. Samuel Waldstein.

There will be no added cost and no addition to the architect's fees, Gililand said.

In addition, the assistant superintendent claimed that the delay in the filing of bids would have "little or no effect" on the date for the start of construction which has been targeted for this spring.

The new high school went out for bids at the end of December and they were due to be filed by Feb. 19. The delay would postpone that date until March 19.

Committeeman Richard Douglas noted that the committee could be severely criticized if the delay were prolonged.

Gililand responded that "we're sure this is the last delay. At this particular point our best interests will be served. People in the science department had the greatest anxiety over the plans right from the beginning," he declared.

Committeeman Vincent Stanton said he favored the delay. "If we kept the deadline on bids we might pay for it in terms of carelessness of preparation. It is better to delay the filing of bids 30 days so that the contractor can be sure he won't face changes in the economy is slowing down Engineers, Boston Society of Civil Engineers, New England Water Works Association, and New England Water Pollution Control Assoc.

The story of the "Children of Vietnam" will be presented at a public meeting sponsored by the Newton Community Peace Center and the Committee of Responsibility (COR) to be held at the Eliot Church of Newton, Wednesday evening (Jan. 28th) at eight o'clock.

Dr. Peter Wolff, featured speaker of the evening, is assistant professor of psychiatry at the Harvard Medical School and director of psychiatric research at Children's Hospital and the Judge Baker Guidance Clinic. Dr. Wolff will show his film, "The Evil Hour", made on a recent trip to Vietnam and discuss its implications. He is a resident of Newton Centre where he lives with his wife and four children.

Also sharing in the evening program are Mrs. Thomas Sheridan and Mrs. Proctor Houghton, executive secretary of the Boston Regional office of COR. Both of these women are Peace Center members and have also served as parents to a Vietnamese foster child during the past year.

Ho Bon Bay lived for five months with Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan at their West Newton home where he recuperated from severe burns - playing with the Sheridan children and attending Peirce School. Previous to this time he had had no schooling in Vietnam at all. The Sheridans have been able to keep some contact with Bon since his return to his family - two sisters, two brothers, mother and grandparents. Mrs. Sheridan has learned of his return to school through the COR representative in Saigon.

Many Americans are grateful to COR - the Committee of Responsibility, a group of dedicated people attempting to alleviate in some measure the suffering of the war-burned and war injured children of Vietnam.

"As one supporter stated, 'We can do little as individuals, but we can express our feeling of responsibility for the anguish suffered by these youngsters.' There will be opportunity to make contributions to support the work being carried on by COR at the Peace Center public meeting Wednesday evening at Eliot Church.

Robert A. Aleshire, executive director of the National Association for Community Development, has written to the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington, asking for a review of the WEMBROC community action program, in which Newton is involved.

Aleshire wrote to Donald Rumsfeld, director of OEO, asking for a personal review, in which the New York regional office decided not to refund the WEMBROC program.

"I am sure I cannot even begin to appreciate all the pressures that there are upon you for available funds," the letter said, "but I think that WEMBROC deserves a chance to perform under a more realistic funding situation before this judgment is made."

Final Decision Is Awaited . . .

Judge Considers Case Of 'Sleeping' Officer

A Boston Municipal Court judge has under consideration the case of a Newton police officer accused of sleeping while on duty.

Judge Harold W. Canavan reopened the case for trial last Thursday involving Patrolman Walter B. Haywood who police superiors charge was asleep last April in a cruiser.

Judge Canavan said he reopened the case because of the "credibility" of the testimony of Police Sgt. Duffy and the conflict between Civil Service officials in regard to the finding.

The commission overturned its hearing officer's finding who heard Haywood's appeal and ruled against him by a 4 to 1 vote.

Counsel for Haywood, Atty. Bernard Dwork, argued the commission "acted unreasonably" in overturning its hearing officer's findings.

The only person to determine the facts was the hearing officer, Dwork asserted.

Dwork argued that the Supreme Court has ruled that the finding of a hearing officer cannot be overturned except on a charge of bias.

Dwork expressed disbelief with Sgt. Duffy's testimony before the Civil Service officer that "he didn't open the door of the car because he was afraid Haywood would fall out."

Dwork also said he doubted that Sgt. Duffy blew the horn.

Cynthia Zimon Enrolls At Mt. Holyoke College

Miss Cynthia Zimon of Chestnut Hill will join the Class of 1973 at Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley when classes convene for the second semester on Jan. 27.

Miss Zimon spent the first semester at Boston University. She is a graduate of Newton South High and is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Zimon of 122 Pond Brook road, Chestnut Hill.

High School Intern Project Going Here

The office of Mayor Monte G. Basbas has announced that an experimental "High School Internship Program" is underway at Newton City Hall.

The program involves students from Newton South High School who are working on a part-time, unpaid basis in the various departments of the city administration.

According to Mayor Basbas, the purpose is two-fold. "While the students are being exposed to municipal administration and learning the functions of the various departments through practical experience, the departments are able to utilize the skills of the students at no expense to the City. Consequently, the program is mutually beneficial."

The concept of the Internship Program was originated by Newton South High School Principal William D. Geer, Jr. School coordinator for the program is Wayne Altire, head of the Social Sciences Department for both of Newton's high schools.

A rotating schedule calls for each student to work three hours per week for five weeks in each of ten departments. Each will work in four different departments for the remainder of this year and six departments next year, (the

Mr. Epstein said he was gratified that Mrs. Rogers has taken over the office of volunteers at Newton Red Cross, and is certain that with her varied experience in volunteer work in Newton, she will be in a position to attract many new volunteers to service in Red Cross.

Mrs. Rogers said that from a cursory study of volunteer needs, there are openings in the Motor Corps, and the Blood Program for workers.

Motor Corps at present is assisting people getting to hospitals for treatment, and is also driving Red Cross Youth to their community assignments not only to the bloodmobiles, but to service to the aged and home-bound.

In order to further expand Red Cross activities in the community there is a need for volunteers in all aspects of Red Cross work. People interested in volunteering for such work may call Mrs. Rogers at 527-6000.

I. M. CHRITICKAL, OPERATIONS EXECUTIVE VS. PETER L. GALANIS, AD MANAGER
 On the night before the advertising deadline, Ad Manager Peter L. Galanis and Operations Executive I. M. Chritickal are still "discussing" the ad which will announce the grand opening of the Plantation Beefsteak House on January 23.

CALL IT A STEAKHOUSE!
 We feature steak-by-the-ounce, cut to order, and charcoal-broiled right before your eyes.

CALL IT A RESTAURANT!
 Does a steakhouse serve lobster? Rack of lamb? Bouillabaisse? And what about the entertainment?

What about the entertainment? Tell them about the entertainment. And mention the trio. And mention the singer. That group is really good.

I'd rather get in about the intimate, sexy quality of the cocktail lounge. It is beautiful! It's going to be a swinging place.

So get in about the lounge. And the atmosphere. And the entertainment. Even the menu. And mention you don't have to fight the Southeast Expressway into Boston. But, I'll tell you what I would like! Aside from calling it a steakhouse...

You gotta be kidding. Me in the ad? What about my beard?

Leave the beard, Peter, leave the beard.

Serving as centerpieces in the ballroom will be the colors of pink, raspberry and purple, the mannequined heads with old-fashioned headpieces will set the theme for this year's ball. Flowing pink fans will complete the table decorations.

The Gourmet Adventures of THE HIGHLANDS

The miracle has come of making pies weeks ahead, freezing them in a home freezer and enjoying them fresh from the oven when convenient! Favorites for freezing are: double-crust pies: apple, cherry, peach, mincemeat or deep-dish fruit and berry pies. Pies can be frozen unbaked or baked. If frozen unbaked, do not cut steam vents in top crust; wrap in moisture-vaporproof material and seal, label, date and freeze. If pie is frozen baked, let pie cool thoroughly at room temperature, then wrap and freeze.

We know you will enjoy dining at THE HIGHLANDS RESTAURANT, 1114 Beacon St., Newton, 332-4400, created for discriminating diners who will settle for nothing less than the finest in beverages, food and service. Daily Dinner Special (Mon. thru Fri.) 2 boiled live lobsters for $3.95. Enjoy this same special on Sundays, also.

HELPFUL HINT: Pie crusts will brown beautifully if you brush lightly with milk just before putting them in the oven.

The recent Christmas Season again brought a large volume of Christmas mailings to be handled by the employees of the Boston Postal District. Their complete dedication to this task enabled us to effect delivery of this mail during this Holiday Season.

Much of our success is directly attributed to the residents of your area and their cooperation with us in mailing their Christmas cards and packages early in the month of December, as well as utilizing the mailing bands which were delivered to their homes.

Your personal kindness in enabling us to bring our message to the readers of your publication and thus securing their cooperation is truly appreciated.

Once again, may I extend to you my thanks for your assistance and to wish you and the readers of your paper a Happy and Healthy New Year.

What's in a name?

Barbados, the easternmost of the Caribbean islands, is also the most Anglicized. But the name is Portuguese.

The island was discovered by the Portuguese who named it "Barbados" or "Bardudos" ("Bearded Ones") because of the beard-like vines on the island's fig trees.

Trip To Moscow

ties, Maria, was our second principal guide especially around Moscow. She was knowledgeable, extremely attractive and very much aware also of the fact that difficult questions would be aimed at her by us, as Americans.

She, too, simply refused to answer any questions which she feigned not to understand when they got a little bit too sticklish.

After about an hour and a half's drive on a bus from the Moscow airport, we arrived at our hotel, the Hotel Rossia which is just a short two blocks from the Kremlin Wall. The hotel has over 3000 rooms, probably one of the largest hotels in the world. Perhaps a brief description of a couple of individuals in the hotel and the hotel itself would be of interest.

On each floor, there are about 12, and in several sections of each floor there are what I called "house mothers." These ladies are on duty twenty-four hours a day in the old traditional European fashion and the way it used to be in the United States up until 25 or 30 years ago. These women were on desk duty twenty-four hours a day, 7 days a week and there are other women, of course, who replace them periodically.

Their function was to take the keys when we left the room to save them for us and to sell newspapers in the morning or to sell little bits of candy or little knick-knacks which they might have available for sale there. The woman who I met on my floor, the 5th, in my first hour in the hotel was named Tamara.

She was a very interesting person in her fifties and she was very definite that I learn a few Russian words. She kept me there for fifteen minutes and was determined that I learn how to say "Good Evening" - Dobrye Veche or Spakoyenoeche or Debreute which is "Good Morning".

She explained to me the differences in the newspapers: Pravda, the morning newspaper; Izvestia, the evening newspaper; and then a separate newspaper for the young Communist League and also a separate newspaper for Soviet sports.

These news items are not combined in one newspaper and you had to buy a different newspaper if you were interested in this particular kind of news. She indicated that she was a former school teacher of English and was now just getting back to work in this fashion and wanted to practice her English. She certainly understood English and was able to speak passably and would be able to get by in this country if she had to.

A couple of instances where Russian citizens went out of their way to help me was in Leningrad when I was trying to locate a taxi. Apparently, I appeared quite confused and as I was looking around when a woman came up to me who didn't speak any English and said "taxi" with a Russian accent and I said "Yes" and she pointed around the corner and sure enough there were a bunch of taxis waiting at the corner.

During the same effort to find the Hermitage Museum a few of us boarded a bus, obviously not sure where we were going; we finally asked a bus driver for the Hermitage which he was finally able to understand and motioned to us how to get off and get on another bus.

There was apparently no charge or payment for the bus ride. There appeared to be an honor system because apparently he had no mechanism to collect the fare. There were boxes on either side of the front and back of the bus where people were expected to place five kopeks which I believe was the cost of the ride.

It seemed like a marvelous idea to eat in a restaurant away from the rest of the group at the hotel where our meals were all paid for, so one morning I asked Nellie to recommend a restaurant. She suggested the Uzbekistan Restaurant.

In Moscow there are at least fifteen restaurants which represent each one of the fifteen Soviet Socialist Republics which make up the Soviet Union. About 7:30 in the evening seven of us took a taxi over to the Uzbekistan

Restaurant and what followed was a most fascinating and interesting experience.

Outside of the restaurant there was a large crowd of about fifty Russians who were very anxious about getting into the restaurant which was packed. The door was locked and guarded by an attendant in uniform; his job was to keep out the crowd until seating was available in the restaurant.

Each time he would let a couple of people out there was much pushing and tugging and yelling about who was next to go into the restaurant. It was indeed most disorderly and a couple of persons in our party were concerned and left.

About fifteen minutes after arriving at the restaurant, perhaps by coincidence, two young Russian University students arrived on the scene apparently desirous of having dinner at the restaurant. They quickly saw that we were Americans and joined us and we proceeded to discuss a great many things with them although only one of them spoke good English.

We invited them to join us for dinner which they were happy to do, and we sat down to a marvelous Russian dinner which consisted of a very large bowl of stew or soup combination with some terrific Russian bread that was excellent, two or three bottles of vodka, and a bottle of beer. It was generally a very pleasant although a boisterous evening in the restaurant.

It appeared that the Russians enjoyed their vodka in the restaurant since it was a fairly loud atmosphere. There was no music. Both the ceilings and the walls of the restaurant were painted with various designs and decorations which was definitely not wall paper but which was hand painted by an individual or individual artists in the area who did this work.

I took the opportunity of going to the men's room to see what it was like and I must say it was a far cry from the type of rest room that one would expect in a fine restaurant in the United States.

There were very unpleasant odors, the piping was decaying and rusty and it was in very poor repair, something you would expect to find in a very poor area in this country or perhaps typical of many restaurant rest rooms which I had the occasion to visit in South America.

After concluding our meal and a very lively conversation with this one particular Russian student we proceeded to take a street car back to the Hotel Rossia near the Kremlin Wall. I happened to carry a cigarette into the bus and sat toward the front. I was verbally set upon by a Russian and I quickly stamped out the cigarette on the floor of the bus which seemed to enrage him even further.

Apparently having some concern for my physical safety our two Russian student friends who were still accompanying us ambled down to the front of the bus and placed themselves between this visibly upset Russian and myself and some people with whom I was sitting.

The Russian students told me that he was either a little bit drunk or mentally disturbed. Unfortunately, since I don't understand Russian, I wasn't able to understand what he was complaining about.

By way of concluding this second article about the people in Russia I would like to describe briefly my experience of meeting a young Russian couple in another restaurant which I visited - the Stravinsky Bazaar for lunch a day or two earlier.

The friend who I was with and I walked into the restaurant and were very uncertain as to where we should sit. However, we found ourselves seated across from a young Russian couple and it became quickly apparent to the four of us that we didn't speak any Russian and they didn't speak any English.

Fortunately we had a small pamphlet with us which listed about 60 or 70 Russian words numerically opposite some English words so we were able to communicate to them the idea that we would appreciate it if they would order for us a typical Russian lunch which they proceeded to do including the vodka.

The weather is so cold it is therefore understandable why the people drink a good deal of vodka in the Soviet Union. We had a marvelous time laughing, joking and just communicating non-verbally in a fashion which was very exhilarating.

At the conclusion of our meal we took pictures of the Russian couple and we offered them a dollar bill which they didn't care to accept but they were interested in our United States coins.

We gave them a Lincoln Head Penny, a Jefferson Head Nickel, a Roosevelt Dime and a Washington Quarter. Unfortunately, we did not have with us a Kennedy Half Dollar.

They appeared to know Kennedy and the other Presidents that were on our coins and were interested in having examples of them to keep but they were deeply disappointed that we didn't have a Kennedy Half Dollar. So apparently the appeal that Kennedy has to many Americans he also was able to communicate to some knowledgeable Russian young people.

By way of reciprocation for our little gift, they bought us each a box of Russian candy which was for sale in the lobby of the restaurant.

We said our warm goodbyes and they disappeared into the street crowd in Moscow having had a very exciting

Newton DAR Hears About St. Mary's, Indian Girls School

The Lydia Partridge, school; they come from all over the United States, and from any tribe. Each is expected to pay something toward the cost of her education, which is $1800 a year per student. Ninety-six girls are enrolled this year, many from very poor homes.

Through the standard curriculum is taught, with the addition of Episcopal religious instruction, much else must be imparted. Numbers of the entering students must be taught to take baths, for example, and must learn for the first time the most elementary hygiene.

At meals faculty members and older girls are placed with the younger pupils to teach table manners. Because money means nothing to Indians (and become progressively interested in their project sharing equally the support of the school with the Episcopal Church.

She was most enthusiastic about the work done by Headmaster, Kenyon Cull and his wife, aided by a good faculty. St. Mary's was founded in 1872 in Nebraska by Episcopal missionary Bishop Hare and later moved to a site near Springfield, South Dakota.

Girls are accepted from the fifth grade on through high experience, as we did, and one which they will probably relate to their friends many times over.

It seems to this observer that if individuals were in control of their respective governments, i.e. people who are not concerned with ideology but people who are concerned about human beings as individuals the animosity which exists between nations would disappear.

It is my opinion that the Soviet people are good people, are warm people just like most American citizens are but it is the governments which stand in the way of true universal brotherhood among mankind.

It's been said that perhaps the nation/state notion is outdated. After my few discussions with some Soviet citizens, I fully concur in this belief.

In summary, it seems to me that at some point in the world's history, in order for true and lasting peace to prevail on our planet, governmental bureaucracies and their ideologies will have to become truly subservient to the wishes and demands for peace among all mankind.

ordinary business or professional man. The flat terrain on the banks of the Missouri River appears bleak and uninviting to New Englanders, and, as Miss MacPeck explained, just 150 miles from Springfield the great treeless plains begin. Yet the campus of St. Mary's School looks cozy and homey, with its comfortable one-story brick and frame buildings, and its young trees, carefully set out. And on that campus the British Mr. Cull, a naturalized American and devoted patriot, is helping to put right a sad part of American history.

ties, Maria, was our second principal guide especially around Moscow. She was knowledgeable, extremely attractive and very much aware also of the fact that difficult questions would be aimed at her by us, as Americans.

She, too, simply refused to answer any questions which she feigned not to understand when they got a little bit too stickish.

After about an hour and a half's drive on a bus from the Moscow airport, we arrived at our hotel, the Hotel Rossia which is just a short two blocks from the Kremlin Wall.

The hotel has over 3000 rooms, probably one of the largest hotels in the world. Perhaps a brief description of a couple of individuals in the hotel and the hotel itself would be of interest.

On each floor, there are about 12, and in several sections of each floor there are what I called "house mothers." These ladies are on duty twenty-four hours a day in the old traditional European fashion and the way it used to be in the United States up until 25 or 30 years ago. These women were on desk duty twenty-four hours a day, 7 days a week and there are other women, of course, who replace them periodically.

Their function was to take the keys when we left the room to save them for us and to sell newspapers in the morning or to sell little bits of candy or little knick-knacks which they might have available for sale there. The woman who I met on my floor, the 5th, in my first hour in the hotel was named Tamara.

She was a very interesting person in her fifties and she was very definite that I learn a few Russian words. She kept me there for fifteen minutes and was determined that I learn how to say "Good Evening" - Dobryeche or Spakoyenoch or Debreute which is "Good Morning".

She explained to me the differences in the newspapers: Pravda, the morning newspaper; Izvestia, the evening newspaper; and then a separate newspaper for the young Communist League and also a separate newspaper for Soviet sports.

These news items are not combined in one newspaper and you had to buy a different newspaper if you were interested in this particular kind of news. She indicated that she was a former school teacher of English and was now just getting back to work in this fashion and wanted to practice her English. She certainly understood English and was able to speak passably and would be able to get by in this country if she had to.

A couple of instances where Russian citizens went out of their way to help me was in Leningrad when I was trying to locate a taxi. Apparently, I appeared quite confused and as I was looking around when a woman came up to me who didn't speak any English and said "taxi" with a Russian accent and I said "Yes" and she pointed around the corner and sure enough there were a bunch of taxis waiting at the corner.

During the same effort to find the Hermitage Museum a few of us boarded a bus, obviously not sure where we were going; we finally asked a bus driver for the Hermitage which he was finally able to understand and motioned to us how to get off and get on another bus.

There was apparently no charge or payment for the bus ride. There appeared to be an honor system because apparently he had no mechanism to collect the fare. There were boxes on either side of the front and back of the bus where people were expected to place five kopeks which I believe was the cost of the ride.

It seemed like a marvelous idea to eat in a restaurant away from the rest of the group at the hotel where our meals were all paid for, so one morning I asked Nellie to recommend a restaurant. She suggested the Uzbekistan Restaurant.

In Moscow there are at least fifteen restaurants which represent each one of the fifteen Soviet Socialist Republics which make up the Soviet Union. About 7:30 in the evening seven of us took a taxi over to the Uzbekistan

Restaurant and what followed was a most fascinating and interesting experience.

Outside of the restaurant there was a large crowd of about fifty Russians who were very anxious about getting into the restaurant which was packed. The door was locked and guarded by an attendant in uniform; his job was to keep out the crowd until seating was available in the restaurant.

Each time he would let a couple of people out there was much pushing and tugging and yelling about who was next to go into the restaurant. It was indeed most disorderly and a couple of persons in our party were concerned and left.

About fifteen minutes after arriving at the restaurant, perhaps by coincidence, two young Russian University students arrived on the scene apparently desirous of having dinner at the restaurant. They quickly saw that we were Americans and joined us and we proceeded to discuss a great many things with them although only one of them spoke good English.

We invited them to join us for dinner which they were happy to do, and we sat down to a marvelous Russian dinner which consisted of a very large bowl of stew or soup combination with some terrific Russian bread that was excellent, two or three bottles of vodka, and a bottle of beer. It was generally a very pleasant although a boisterous evening in the restaurant.

It appeared that the Russians enjoyed their vodka in the restaurant since it was a fairly loud atmosphere. There was no music. Both the ceilings and the walls of the restaurant were painted with various designs and decorations which was definitely not wall paper but which was hand painted by an individual or individual artists in the area who did this work.

I took the opportunity of going to the men's room to see what it was like and I must say it was a far cry from the type of rest room that one would expect in a fine restaurant in the United States.

There were very unpleasant odors, the piping was decaying and rusty and it was in very poor repair, something you would expect to find in a very poor area in this country or perhaps typical of many restaurant rest rooms which I had the occasion to visit in South America.

After concluding our meal and a very lively conversation with this one particular Russian student we proceeded to take a street car back to the Hotel Rossia near the Kremlin Wall. I happened to carry a cigarette into the bus and sat toward the front. I was verbally set upon by a Russian and I quickly stamped out the cigarette on the floor of the bus which seemed to enrage him even further.

Apparently having some concern for my physical safety our two Russian student friends who were still accompanying us ambled down to the front of the bus and placed themselves between this visibly upset Russian and myself and some people with whom I was sitting.

The Russian students told me that he was either a little bit drunk or mentally disturbed. Unfortunately, since I don't understand Russian, I can't be sure of what he was complaining about.

By way of concluding this second article about the people in Russia I would like to describe briefly my experience of meeting a young Russian couple in another restaurant which I visited the Stravinsky Bazaar for lunch a day or two earlier.

The friend who I was with and I walked into the restaurant and were very uncertain as to where we should sit. However, we found ourselves seated across from a young Russian couple and it became quickly apparent to the four of us that we didn't speak any Russian and they didn't speak any English.

Fortunately we had a small pamphlet with us which listed about 60 or 70 Russian words numerically opposite some English words so we were able to communicate to them the idea that we would appreciate it if they would order for us a typical Russian lunch which they proceeded to do including the vodka.

The weather is so cold it is therefore understandable why the people drink a good deal of vodka in the Soviet Union. We had a marvelous time laughing, joking and just communicating non-verbally in a fashion which was very exhilarating.

At the conclusion of our meal we took pictures of the Russian couple and we offered them a dollar bill which they didn't care to accept but they were interested in our United States coins.

We gave them a Lincoln Head Penny, a Jefferson Head Nickel, a Roosevelt Dime and a Washington Quarter. Unfortunately, we did not have with us a Kennedy Half Dollar.

They appeared to know Kennedy and the other Presidents that were on our coins and were interested in having examples of them to keep but they were deeply disappointed that we didn't have a Kennedy Half Dollar.

So apparently the appeal that Kennedy has to many Americans he also was able to communicate to some knowledgeable Russian young people.

By way of reciprocation for our little gift, they bought us each a box of Russian candy which was for sale in the lobby of the restaurant.

We said our warm goodbyes and they disappeared into the street crowd in Moscow having had a very exciting

Newton DAR Hears About St. Mary's, Indian Girls School

The Lydia Partridge school; they come from all over the United States, and monthly meeting on Monday (Jan. 12) at the home of Mrs. Louis Catherine with Miss Gertrude A. MacPeck of Dedham as featured speaker. Miss MacPeck is honorary state regent, Massachusetts Society, DAR and a member of the Contentment Chapter, Dedham. Miss E. Marguerite Allen, Regent of Contentment Chapter, showed colored slides depicting St. Mary's school for Indian girls and some of the students, subject of the lecture.

Miss MacPeck, who spent five days at a Workshop at the Episcopal school near Springfield, South Dakota, discussed her impressions of the school, the students and progress made. The DAR has become progressively interested in their project sharing equally the support of the school with the Episcopal Church.

She was most enthusiastic about the work done by Headmaster, Kenyon Cull and his wife, aided by a good faculty. St. Mary's was founded in 1872 in Nebraska by Episcopal missionary Bishop Hare and later moved to a site near Springfield, South Dakota.

Girls are accepted from the fifth grade on through high experience, as we did, and one which they will probably relate to their friends many times over.

It seems to this observer that if individuals were in control of their respective governments, i.e. people who are not concerned with ideology but people who are concerned about human beings as individuals, the animosity which exists between nations would disappear.

It is my opinion that the Soviet people are good people, are warm people just like most American citizens are but it is the governments which stand in the way of true universal brotherhood among mankind.

It's been said that perhaps the nation/state notion is outdated. After my few discussions with some Soviet citizens, I fully concur in this belief.

In summary, it seems to me that at some point in the world's history, in order for true and lasting peace to prevail on our planet, governmental bureaucracies and their ideologies will have to become truly subservient to the wishes and demands for peace among all mankind.

ordinary business or professional man.

The flat terrain on the banks of the Missouri River appears bleak and uninviting to New Englanders, and, as Miss MacPeck explained, just 150 miles from Springfield the great treeless plains begin. Yet the campus of St. Mary's School looks cozy and homey, with its comfortable one-story brick and frame buildings, and its young trees, carefully set out. And on that campus the British Mr. Cull, a naturalized American and devoted patriot, is helping to put right a sad part of American history.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

By JANICE E. KAPLAN

Mr. Raymond Ethier, head of the language department, is leaving Newton South High on a sabbatical. He will be absent for the remainder of the year, and he will be taking courses at one of the local universities.

Taking over as the head of the department will be Mr. Petrillo who is currently the assistant department head. Mr. Ethier's two classes, French 5, and sophomore honors French, will be taught by a new part time teacher.

Mr. Ethier is a familiar face around Newton South as he has been teaching there since the school opened, and in the Newton High School since 1950.

Mr. Ethier is looking forward to the chance to study at a university, although he commented: "I really will miss the kids." Hopefully, he will return as a classroom teacher in September.

Plans for the 1970 Hunger Hike are now well under way. Rusty Phillips, Lynn Greene, and Marcy Richmond are chairmen of the effort.

The hike is planned for April when a large number of students and adults from the area will be walking to Concord, Mass., and back to Newton. The purpose of the twenty-six mile trip is to raise money for organizations which are fighting hunger around the world.

Those planning to march will be given a list of organizations, or anyone else for a specified amount of money for each mile walked by that person. During the walk there are checkpoints, and afterwards the money is collected.

Hunger Hikes in the past have always been very successful. This year it is estimated that at least several hundred will participate.

The class of 1970 is trying very hard to choose a theme for the Senior Symposium. They have planned the structure of the four day symposium.

The first day will probably be in the traditional form. Speakers will discuss the theme with the class, and students will be welcome to comment, argue, and ask questions.

Small group discussions will be held the second day, and students will discuss points of personal interest. The third day's format calls for a panel debate. Included in this will be students, faculty, and speakers. The last day of the symposium will be dedicated to groups who have planned projects. They will present them to the class in the form of movies, tapes, or slides.

Despite the recent Senior Supper fiasco, Neil Linsky, chairman of the Symposium Committee, is expecting an interesting symposium.

January 17 marked the beginning of the second year of the Newton Education Workshop. A group of Newton South students have prepared an educational enrichment program for fourth, fifth, and sixth graders of four Newton elementary schools.

Classes are held in a relaxed atmosphere on Saturday mornings from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The purpose is to give the elementary school students a learning incentive. Hopefully, contact with the high school teachers will broaden their outlook on education.

The faculty members are all Newton South students. Each class has no more than three young students.

The courses offered are English, which is primarily reading and writing, science, dealing mainly with experimenting, art, music, and drama. Also available are tutors in math or English.

The founder and director of the program is Steve Porter. The new assistant director is Jim Smith. The department heads include: Jill Einstein, English; Howie Adelstein and John Long, Science; and Richard Cohn, art.

This is the only student run educational program of its kind in the country, and it has received strong backing by many groups in Newton. Another successful year of the Newton Educational Workshop seems likely.

Club Activities

One of the largest clubs in the school this year is the ski club. Over one hundred fifty students are active members in the group which goes on ski trips.

Led by co-president Kathy Falk and Bruce Kapsten, and vice-president Judi Berk, the ski club took their first day trip on January 11. It was a long day as the bus left for Stratton at dawn, but it was an excellent day for skiing.

There are plans for late February overnight excursions to Snow and Magic Mountains. The Newton South math team competed in its second meet recently at Newton High, placing behind Boston Latin and Newton High.

A qualifying test is given at Newton South before each meet, and high scorers from each grade participate in the meet. The team for the last meet included seniors Joan Aron and David Simen, juniors Andrea Berly and Andy Cohen, and sophomore Linda Wolfson.

Reflections, the Newton South magazine, is looking for students to submit stories, poems, or drawings. Editor Sue Barros is trying to restore the magazine to its former position of a popular and largely circulated publication. Twenty students meet weekly to judge the manuscripts which have been submitted. Mr. Caras, the teacher advisor to Reflections, is urging all students to contribute to the publication.

In the field of education his contributions have been numerous. He has taught at Simmons College, Boston College School of Nursing, the Harvard School of Public Health, Tufts University School of Medicine and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. Rubenstein lists among his credentials numerous professional and civic organizations.

He has made a generous contribution to the Department during his more than thirty years of outstanding service. He resides at 164 Ward St., Newton.

DISCUSS PLIGHT OF ISRAEL — In Temple Shalom Library for "Sabbath of Concern for Israel" are the Rev. Newell Curtis, Jr., Vice Pres. of Newton Clergy Assoc., Rabbi Cary D. Yales, Asst. Rabbi of Temple Shalom, Miss Joan Mandell, student just returned from Israel, Rabbi Murray I. Rothman, Temple Shalom, The Honorable Moshe Ofer, Consul General of the State of Israel, Fr. Robert Quinn, Director of Paulist Centers of Boston, Miss Deborah Glickman, folk singer who participated in the Service.

Newton Clergy Support "Sabbath of Concern"

At Temple Shalom of Newton's Sabbath of Concern for the State of Israel, a congregation of over five hundred people heard Rabbi Murray I. Rothman, spiritual leader of the Temple, the Honorable Moshe Ofer, Consul General of the State of Israel, and Fr. Robert Quinn, Director of the Paulist Centers of Boston participate in a discussion of Israel's plight in the Middle East situation.

The climax of the service was the reading of a statement by Rev. Newell Curtis, Jr., which he and the Rev. Robert L. Griesse, President of the Newton Clergy Association had drafted. The statement read:

"We, the officers of the Newton Clergy Association, are compelled to add our voices to the others across the land in protest against those forces which seem determined to limit the integrity of the State of Israel. We are disturbed by statements issued by members of the cabinet of the Nixon administration that seem to imply concessions by our government to the Soviet Union and the Arab States that will undermine the vital interests of the free and freedom-loving Israeli people. The return of Jews to the Promised Land answered prayers of generations of people. The vital interests of the sovereign state are inseparable with the concern of peace-loving people throughout the world, as well as our own national interests. It is our prayer that a formula for peace in this troubled part of the world will soon be found so that an uprooted people who have known much tragedy might live in peace and quiet."

In response to Rabbi Rothman's message that "... we must make the administration aware of the desperate plight of Israel", concerned congregants sent hundreds of letters and telegrams to President Nixon.

Promoted At Dow Chemical Co.

Newton resident Dr. Francis Johnson of the Eastern Research Laboratory of the Dow Chemical Company has been advanced to research scientist, Dow's highest rank for those performing research.

Johnson's major contributions to Dow have been in synthesis of bioactive natural products, determination of structures of naturally occurring molecules, elucidation of rules governing stereochemical considerations and development of new synthetic methods.

These activities have strengthened Dow's technical base in the pharmaceutical area and provided information which has enhanced the understanding of organic chemistry. From his work, Johnson has attained international recognition among organic chemists.

He has been a member of the Dow research organization since 1957 when he joined the Eastern Laboratory as a research chemist. He was named an associate scientist in 1962. In 1969 Dr. Johnson was made a member of the Human Health Research Advisory Board. He has authored 38 scientific papers and is named as an inventor in 33 U.S. patents.

A native of England, he studied at the Royal Technical College (now the University of Strathclyde) in Glasgow and earned his B.Sc. and Ph.D. degrees at Glasgow University.

He has taught at Boston University on a part-time basis and was appointed an associate faculty member of its graduate school in recognition

Mansfield In NU Production Jan. 30 and 31

David Mansfield of West Newton, a junior drama major at Northeastern University, has been selected to play the role of Callimaco in "Mandrakola" an NU Studio Theatre production scheduled for Friday and Saturday (Jan. 30-31).

Mansfield has participated in several other Northeastern Theatre productions and is a member of Silver Masque, the Northeastern drama society.

The play, "Mandrakola" by Niccolo Machiavelli, is a ribald sixteenth century Italian comedy that criticizes and satirizes Florentine life and exaggerates the stupidity of dupes.

Tickets may be purchased at the box office or by writing the Drama Department, Northeastern University, 360 Huntington Ave., Boston. Performances will be in the Studio of Northeastern's Carl S. Ell Student Center beginning at 8:30 p.m. both Friday and Saturday.

PTA leader Harriet Woods of St. Louis sent messages to parents of students at Hanley Junior High School on ways to pay their dues. Send the money, she said, to the school "via your child or the U.S. Postal Service (whichever seems more reliable)."

Newton Women Help At 141st Camellia Show

Mrs. Irving Keiter of Chestnut Hill, Mrs. Richard Cotton and Mrs. Richard Kanter, both of Waban, will be among the flower arrangers who will participate in an Annual Camellia Show on Thursday and Friday of this week (Jan. 22 and 23). Joins Surgeons Group

Dr. John A. Donovan Jr. of 44 Hancock St., Newton Centre, was inducted recently as a Fellow of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons during ceremonies held at the Palmer House in Chicago, Ill.

This was the 37th annual meeting for the nation's largest medical organization for specialists in bone and joint surgery. Some 506 Fellows were inducted as members at this time. All Fellows must have passed the certifying examination of the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery.

Disposal For Insecticides Is Set Up Here

Mayor Monte G. Basbas has announced that he has set aside an area of city property for disposal by all Newton residents of their home supplies of hard insecticides.

All materials of this nature may be brought to the Insecticide Disposal Area, Eliot Street Yard, Eliot Street, Newton Upper Falls. The yard will be open for this purpose from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

According to the pesticides Board of the Department of Public Health, insecticides falling into this category are those containing DDT, DDD, Dieldrin, Aldrin, Endrin, Toxaphene, or Heptachlor.

In making the announcement, Mayor Basbas said that, "We want to comply with the State Department of Public Health's prohibition of the use of DDT and other hard insecticides."

"But, at the same time, we must be realistic in affording our citizens the opportunity to do so in a safe and convenient manner."

Convenient Cab Color

Yellow cabs now are cruising the streets of Stockholm for the benefit of people who have had difficulty distinguishing private cars from cabs. Hitherto, Stockholm cabs have been black but they are gradually being replaced by the yellow ones.

Girl Scouts Prepare For Annual Cookie Campaign

Girl Scouts in this area soon will continue a 51-year tradition of selling cookies, a time-honored program whose income supports a host of educational and recreational activities.

The first sale of cookies, 300 boxes, took place in Somerville in 1919. This year the Bay Path Colonial Girl Scout Council expects to increase that figure by more than 1000 percent, or 318,248 boxes to be exact.

The sale force, all uniformed Girl Scouts, will take orders for the cookies door to door and deliver between January 31 and March 19.

Although it will be the 51st year of sales nationwide, it will only be the eighth year for the new Council which covers 29 communities in Middlesex and Norfolk counties, Mrs. James Cox, Centre;

Mrs. Paul Mann, Quinobe-Village-Homestead; and Mrs. Thomas S. Hayden, Westdale; come supports a host of educational and recreational activities.

In 1969, the volunteer salesgirls sold 261,924 boxes of cookies. The income helped to support camperships, senior Scout Council expects to increase that figure by more than 1000 percent, or 318,248 boxes to be exact.

Two resident and five day camps present complete programs and were attended by 2,486 girls last season.

On the troop level, treasuries receive five cents for each box of cookies sold. Funds of that nature are earmarked for all types of troop activities, including for the new Council which covers 29 communities in Middlesex and Norfolk counties, Mrs. James Cox, Centre;

Murray Rd. School Pupils Hold Concentration Week

Regular classes are up in the air this week at the Murray Road Annex to Newton High School while students engage in concentration week, an intensive study in various interest fields, using the school as a home base for the different projects.

The 13 courses offered this term by core and volunteer faculty members are computer programming, humanistic communication, poetry and more, creative art, film making, Sumu Cuique (creating art objects for the youth group store), still photography, astrology, dramatic exercises, study of new towns, reading and writing, brainstorming with Newton High School students, and study of experimental schools.

In the study of new towns with instructors Carol Lynch and Mimi Grosser, the proposed agenda includes discussion with one of Mayor White's advisers on urban renewal. The students are talking to people from the Rouse Development Corporation (developers of Columbia, Maryland).

They plan to confer with the B.R.A. and neighborhood opposition; to discuss ideas with the commission for the Year 2000 at Harvard University; and to explore new educational concepts with Jon Kozol (author of "Death At An Early Age").

At the week's end the students hope to have on paper their own design for a new town. Like creators of the new towns in England, Sweden, and California, they must consider residential areas, educational needs, requirements of business, cultural activities, recreational facilities, transportation and finance.

With the completion of concentration week, students will resume their second semester activities.

Newton Police Investigating 4 Larcenies

Four larceny cases, reported to police last Friday, are under investigation in Newton.

Jacob Whitkin of 91 Clark Rd., West Newton, reported at 9:55 p.m. that his home had been entered and the entire house ransacked.

Missing are an Alaskan seal coat, a portable television set, a radio and a diamond watch. Police said entrance was gained by breaking glass in the kitchen door.

Larry Fontaine, a guard at the Holiday Inn, 399 Grove St., Auburndale, told police that a ski game machine was broken into and the change taken. No amount was listed.

The incident was reported at 11:47 p.m. and was believed to have occurred between 10 and 11:15 p.m.

Linda L. Gurvitz, 132 Greenwood St., Newton Centre, told police at 11:33 p.m. she saw two men leaving her home. She reported a bedroom had been ransacked but it has not been determined if anything was taken.

The means of entrance is not known. Thomas Bemis, 4 Arbor Rd., West Newton, reported the theft of a battery and battery cable from his car while it was parked on Hull St., near Dexter Rd., Newtonville. The theft was reported at 3:20 p.m.

Charter Group Meets Tuesday

The Newton Charter Commission will hold a meeting in the Charter Commission Office, room 202, of the City Hall at 8 p.m. next Tuesday night and urges Newton citizens to attend.

After reviewing the testimony of the speakers at last Tuesday's Public Hearing, the Commission will turn to the main business of the meeting—a discussion of the Executive will be considered.

The Commission will hear reports from a subcommittee which has been interviewing consultants and from another subcommittee which has been preparing a budget. The Commission has received an automatic appropriation of $5000 and may request additional funds up to a total of $50,000.

The story began in May when Marc Slotnick, Executive Director of the Newton Community Development Foundation, answered an ad seeking an inexpensive home placed in a local newspaper by Mrs. Betty Porter.

Mrs. Porter told him that the Auburndale home in which she lived was recently sold to a builder and that she and her two children faced their third move in five years. She explained that she worked at the Newton Mental Health Center and hoped to find an inexpensive home in which to settle down, but she feared she wouldn't have enough for a down payment.

Slotnick explained the 235 mortgage program to her and told her that the Newton Savings Bank had agreed to place one such mortgage on an experimental basis if an eligible buyer and home could be found.

Mrs. Porter's family was eligible, but she still had to find a home. In June, after looking at scores of homes, Betty Porter found one she liked in West Newton which was priced at exactly $17,500. The bank sent a team of mortgage experts to appraise the home and they regrettably concluded that the home would need thousands of dollars of repairs to make it structurally sound.

Undaunted, Mrs. Porter again began her search. After two months she found the house in the Newton Corner area through Mr. Elton George of Gateway Realty and Mr. Norman MacLean, both Newton real estate brokers.

The owners of the home had moved to Nova Scotia and their closest relative lived in Worcester. After some long distance negotiating through the brokers, a price of $17,000 was agreed upon, and immediately the Newton Savings Bank team went to appraise the house. They concluded that the house was structurally sound, but that it would need some repairs to the roof.

Now several hurdles remained: FHA had to make an independent appraisal of the home; Mrs. Porter had to make an application to FHA for the subsidized mortgage; and the owner had to agree to pay the FHA appraisal fee and to postpone receiving a down payment until federal approval was certain.

The FHA appraisal took about two weeks and was favorable but stipulated that the owner do over $500 in repairs and painting before selling the house.

At this point, Laurence Madfis of Lyne, Woodworth and Everts, an attorney familiar with subsidized housing programs, was called in to work out the legal problems.

Through the skillful negotiation of the attorneys and the brokers for both parties, a contract was drafted and executed to sell the home, pending completion of the repairs and approval of Mrs. Porter's FHA application.

Marc Slotnick of the Newton Community Development Foundation and John Stevens of the Newton Savings Bank assisted Mrs. Porter in filling out the lengthy and complex application. After the usual credit checks, the application was given final approval by the bank and forwarded to FHA.

After resolving two technicalities, FHA sent its approval the next day. It was now the end of October. The repairs, the closing and the moving took nearly two more months, but now the Porter family is finally settled in a home of its own.

Speaking for the Newton Savings Bank, Keith G. Willoughby, Vice President, said: "We are encouraged by the success of this experiment. We hope now that it will be possible to move from

Donate $1000 In Support Of NCDF Goals

The Newton Republican City Committee this week gave further support for the construction of low and moderate income housing by setting $1,000 as the minimum target for its contribution to the Newton Community Development Foundation.

The action was taken by Executive Committee which voted to raise the funds through special subscription.

In announcing the contribution, Julius L. Masov, Chairman of the Newton City Committee, declared that "It is logical and right that we should be involved in the work of the foundation which represents a community-wide effort to meet a common need."

"Our action is consistent with the Newton Republican policy statement issued last April. At that time the GOP in Newton undertook an analysis of housing needs of low and moderate income residents."

"We are firmly convinced that coordination between the public and private sectors for the construction of adequate housing must be encouraged to the fullest extent."

"Such cooperation is not new to the city of Newton and we are again seeing evidence of civic awareness in the activities of the Newton Community Development Foundation. We are happy to continue our part."

Masov announced the appointment of a Special Committee to coordinate Republican activities for the fund raising with the following named: Charles E. Aucoin, Chairman, and Stephen P. Crosby, and Henry J. Wilson.

LWV Invites Women For Leader Training

Present and new members of the League of Women Voters of Newton are invited to attend a leader-training session from 9 a.m. to noon on Tuesday, Jan. 27 or Feb. 3. No previous experience is necessary to participate in one of the most rewarding, fascinating and enjoyable areas of League work.

Meetings will be held at the home of Mrs. Austin Horowitz at 38 Manomet road, Newton Centre. For more information call Mrs. A. Arthur Lowenthal, Discussion Units Chairman, at 332-3008.

Willard Homes Auxiliary To Meet Jan. 25th

On Monday, January 26, the Newton Auxiliary of the Frances Willard Homes will hold a luncheon and meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry B. Shepard.

Cochairmen for the luncheon will be, Mrs. Gilbert McNamara, Mrs. William B. Plumer. Their committee will include, Mrs. Wat H. Tyler, Mrs. John H. Underhill, Mrs. Frederick J. Warren.

The pourers will be, Mrs. Payton T. Lowell, Jr., Mrs. Willis W. Williams.

Mrs. Sydney L. Eaton will introduce the speaker, Joseph Hudak, architect and landscape gardener, who will speak on "Origins of Gardening."

This experimental loan to the establishment of a permanent program sponsored by all the banks of Newton for the placement of subsidized mortgages.

"Such a program could have a meaningful impact especially if the federal government adjusts its maximum sales prices which at the moment do not relate to a community where few homes sell for under $20,000."

Asked to draw some conclusions about the program, Marc Slotnick said: "The experiment taught us that with the cooperation of banks like the Newton Savings Bank and brokers and attorneys as well the subsidized home purchase program can be made to work for Newton families like the Porters. Indeed, much of the credit for its success must go to Mrs. Porter herself who, despite several setbacks, just wouldn't give up."

"The experiment had another lesson, too - that despite its success, the process is a slow one and can be relied upon to make only a small though meaningful impact. In order to make a substantial impact on Newton's severe housing shortage for low and moderate income families, new housing units must be created, and this is the essence of NCDF's program to build 500 units scattered on 10 sites in Newton."

Further information about the subsidized home purchase program can be obtained by writing or calling the FHA office at the John F. Kennedy Building in Boston.

Newton Realtor Gets Joint Honor For Service Project

A public service program coordinated by Myron C. Roberts of Newton and Richard H. Hallett of Framingham has been feted for its effectiveness in stimulating local real estate Boards in Massachusetts to positive action by helping their communities to cope with certain social problems.

The Make America Better Committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, selected the program coordinated by the two realtors as the best of its kind to be conducted by a state real estate association during 1968-69.

Roberts, now President of the Massachusetts Association of Real Estate Boards, was chairman of the State organization's Make America Better Committee from June, 1968, until mid-1969, when Hallett was appointed to the post upon Roberts' election to the presidency.

The program developed by the two men was designed to stimulate local real estate Boards to positive action in helping their communities solve various problems facing them, such as housing decay, crime, inadequate school facilities, etc.

Through streamlining of the National Association's pilot Make America Better Program, Roberts, Hallett, and their committees developed a modified program within the capabilities of local Boards.

Then, the state group used speeches, face-to-face contact, and continuing suggestions and encouragement to motivate the local Boards. As a result, more than half of the 26 boards in Massachusetts conducted individual programs, helping their communities.

The award to the Massachusetts Association of Real Estate Boards is one of six first prizes to be given throughout the nation. It will be accepted by Roberts later this month at a meeting of the National organization in Houston, Texas.

Judges in the competition were Gordon D. McMullen, Washington Public Relations Manager of the Reynolds

Housing Group Bows Out

Legion Wins Support For Victory Field

Apparently, Victory Field in Nonantum will be the site of a $250,000 American Legion Post building as the Newton Community Development Foundation has abandoned plans for lower income housing there and has announced support of Legion Post 440.

At a Finance Committee meeting last week of the Board of Aldermen, Legion post officials outlined plans for the proposed building. They said 25 per cent of the floor space will be set aside for community use.

A workshop for physically handicapped children will be operated five days a week all year round, under a plan being developed. Roger Marrocco, chairman of the post board, said as many as 40 children could use the facility.

There was no outright opposition expressed by the aldermen. The post wants to buy the no-longer-used Victory Field for $18,000.

Milton Manin, chairman of the Housing Authority, said his agency is willing to build 55 units on the 80,000 square feet of land involved. He said the authority can build any number of units.

The post wants to build a gymnasium, a community room, a separate wing for the physically handicapped and

Newton Upper Falls Seek Area Alderman

Under a resolution passed by the Newton Upper Falls Improvement Association, the Board of Aldermen has been asked to consider appointment of an alderman in Ward 5 if a vacancy should exist.

One of two aldermen at-large from Ward 5 - Franklin N. Flaschner - may resign from the board if his appointment as Newton District Court judge is confirmed. Flaschner is a Waban resident but the ward also includes Newton Highlands.

Upper Falls residents contend that their region is somewhat different from Newton Highlands and Waban and has its own unique problems.

They feel they deserve board representation as the other two aldermen are not from Upper Falls.

About 150 persons attended the meeting at the Emerson School, at which an exchange of views passed between Landlord Abraham Ginsberg and the residents.

The Rev. Kent Millard of the First United Methodist Church in Upper Falls reported to the group that 650 individual citizens and 11 different civic groups have endorsed the Upper Falls Improvement Association's resolution urging the city to undertake "vigorous legal

Newton GOP Backs Sargent On NASA Steps

The Newton Republican City Committee, at its Executive Committee meeting this week, endorsed the efforts of Governor Frank W. Sargent to secure replacement funds and activities to counter the closing of NASA in Cambridge.

The Newton GOP, in its communication to the Governor, commended him for his efforts in investigating the various possibilities for utilizing the facilities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The Governor was told that "While we recognize that cutbacks in NASA and other federal programs are likely to be made in the process of establishing new national priorities, we are nevertheless deeply concerned, as you are, with the impact of such reductions on the social and economic life of our communities in Massachusetts."

"We commend the prompt and vigorous action you have already taken to assure that there will be adequate replacements of federal funds and activities with which to counter the loss of NASA in Cambridge."

In behalf of the Republican City Committee, Julius L. Masow, Chairman, assured the Governor of "our continuing interest in and support of programs provided for alleviating the impact of the NASA closing."

Rep. Shea Lauds Farnum Decision In Ins. Income

Rep. H. James Shea Jr. (D-Newton) hails Insurance Commissioner C. Eugene Farnum's ruling on Massachusetts automobile insurance rates, which holds the line by rejecting insurance company's requests for rate increases, as a "major victory" for Massachusetts consumers.

The companies requested a 26 percent increase in property damage and medical payments.

"As one of the first representatives to call for inclusion of investment income in the setting of Massachusetts automobile insurance rates," said Shea, "I am also gratified by the Commissioner's statement that investment income is from now on to be a factor to be considered in the setting of these rates. This action represents a new hope for Massachusetts motorists."

"The Representatives involved in successfully urging this decision, especially Rep. Alan D. Sisitsky (D-Springfield) are to be commended for the fortitude they demonstrated in securing fair treatment for Massachusetts' automobile owners in the face of intense pressure from insurance lobbyists," he said.

Newton's Lincoln Day Dinner Gains Support

Broad support is again being given Newton's Eleventh Annual Lincoln Day Dinner by neighboring communities according to Donald P. Quinn, General Chairman of the Feb. 25 event.

Brookline GOP groups will be present in force as in past years, he reported. It is expected that many from Dedham, Needham and Wellesley will be among the dinner's subscribers.

The Patrons Committee now includes in addition to Mrs. Harry Brenner, Chairman; Mrs. Edward C. Beacherer, and Mrs. Robert L. Tennant, co-chairmen. New appointments by Anthony J. Medaglia, Jr. President of the Newton Republican Club, include the names of Mrs. Herman Smerling and Mrs. George L. Bent.

An interim report by Mrs. Brenner listed several new Patrons taking tables at the dinner which now has a long list of subscribers. These are Mayor and Mrs. Monte G. Basbas, ex-Congressman Laurence Curtis, Mrs. William A. Lincoln, The Republican Town Committee of Brookline, Arthur Hanflig, Chairman; and the Women's Republican Club of Brookline, Mrs. Donald Alberts, President.

Mrs. Donald Quinn, Ticket Chairman, reported that the city-wide distribution of tickets was being completed this week.

The event, ranked among the area's top political affairs, is sponsored by the combined Republican organizations of Newton, including the Newton Republican Club, Newton Republican City Committee, Newton Women's Republican Club, and the Newton Young Republicans.

Mrs. Norma Mintz Presents 'Window' On School Problems

In her first speaking engagement since retirement from the Newton School Committee, Mrs. Norma Mintz presented "a window on the concerns, and some of the problems and issues, facing the Newton schools of the 70's" before the Newton Branch Alliance of the First Unitarian Society in West Newton.

Looking back on seven years, in terms of decision-making Mrs. Mintz spoke of one of the most crucial areas that would face the School Committees of the 70's was "HOW decisions would be made, as opposed to WHAT decisions," the "vast power struggle in education was reflecting itself in Newton in the 60's, and the 70's will likely see continued demands for participatory democracy within the schools... from teachers, students and parents."

With only 14 days into her retirement behind her, Mrs. Mintz spoke at length mostly about education in Newton yet to come, and her belief that with all the stresses put upon the Committee from these struggles, it will without a doubt, "continue to seek ways to use the energy of these groups and work with them to provide a strong school system for the Newton community."

School budgets, she reminded the women, will still continue to take their toll of the School Committee's mental and physical resources, - what with 85 percent of the budget going for salaries and the cost of non-salary items continuing to rise!

The issue of responsibility for building and maintaining schools (which at present is vested within the Mayor and Board of Aldermen), together with decision-making authority vested in state agencies, has left much to be desired in the past. Hopefully the Charter Review Commission will develop a more feasible procedure for the future, she said.

Mrs. Mintz's list of issues and problems to be tackled in the future ranged from sudden school population increases due to new parochial school reassessments, to new ways of organizing teachers and students to adapt to teaching techniques necessary for more meaningful use of today's technology.

Continuing curriculum review and revision as brought about by the increased sensitivity of teachers through METCO children, is one example of changes developing naturally; ecology and the study of pollution and environment necessitated by alarmed professionals in the field the world over is another.

Financing public education is not the least of these issues. "It is untenable to think that the local property tax," stated Mrs. Mintz, "can continue to be the only source of revenue on which schools are dependent."

Finally, Mrs. Mintz reaffirmed the cardinal rule in preservation of a quality school system in stating that "if the schools are not equipped with the best possible person in the classroom (the teacher), then we cannot expect to continue to demand a quality product from the schools. Newton today ranks sixth or seventh in its salary schedule compared with nearby Massachusetts Communities and teacher recruitment is becoming increasingly difficult."

Library Players Present Three Performances January 29, 30, 31

A troupe of 30 theatre buffs, members of the Newton Free Library Players, present their second production, directed by Dick and Carole Power of Needham, Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice" (dramatized by Helen Jerome), in three free performances on January 29, 30 and 31, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, at 7:30 p.m. at Meadowbrook Jr. High School, Newton Centre.

Jointly sponsored by the Newton Recreation Commission, John B. Penney, Commissioner, and the Newton Free Library Players got their start in June of 1969 as a library-sponsored drama workshop for Newton young people.

The group, which is free and open to all Newton youngsters from 13 to 18 years old, and which meets at the Newtonville Branch Library Hall on Sunday afternoons and Thursday evenings during the school year, performed "Mousethat Roared" last fall for delighted audiences at Our Lady's last fall at Our Lady's auditorium.

The new play, a period piece produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, involves the hilarious efforts of Mrs. Bennett to marry off her three daughters.

With Eve Teixeira of Newton High School as production coordinator and Julie Wank of Weeks, Jr. High as stage manager, "Pride and Prejudice" features Rona Foster, Karen Bronk, Lillian Spatz, Edie Hochberg, Nancy Wolfe, Tanya Berko, Sandra Silver, Stephanie Lent, Hal Bronk, David Bronk, Tom Teixeira, and Jim Laning of Newton High School.

Three Warren Jr. High students, Christine Bresnahan, Amy Teixeira and Judy Austin are also in the group with Denise Ethier of the Country Day School of the Sacred Heart; Amy Tighe of the Hyde School; Stephen Bronk of Day Jr. High; Raymond Ethier of Rivers Country Day School; Joseph DePasquale and Licette Marcotte of Our Lady's School; and John Oshima, Stacey Tighe and Karen Vasil of Weeks Jr. High School.

Casting is already taking place for the Players' third production, "Tom Jones," to be staged in the spring. The Players is an open-end drama group and welcomes new members at all meetings.

Newton To Receive Food Stamps in Gov't. Program

Newton has been designated by the Department of Agriculture to take part in the Food Stamp Program—a program to boost the food buying power of low-income people, according to an announcement from the office of Senator Edward W. Brooke.

Exact dates when Newton will start food stamp operations will be announced following arrangement of a timetable for the steps that need be taken to assure an effective and efficient operation to be made by local and Welfare officials.

"I am delighted that Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin has moved so rapidly to implement President Nixon's commitments to 'put an end to hunger in the United States,'" Senator Brooke said, "and I have nothing but praise for the local officials whose action in requesting this program has brought food stamps to the needy in Newton."

The Food Stamp Program enables eligible low-income families to boost their food purchasing power by investing their own food money in Federal food coupons that are worth more than they pay for them. The coupons are then spent just like cash at retail stores, enabling the family to purchase a more adequate diet.

Here is an example of how the program will work: A family of four will be issued a coupon allotment of $106 a month. (Prior to the change, received as little as $58 to $60)

Solons Cite Hatch Act In N-V Dispute

Newton State Representatives H. James Shea, Jr., Paul F. Malloy and Irving Fishman have requested the State Division of Conservation Services of the Department of Natural Resources to investigate and determine whether there has been a recent violation of the Hatch Act between Court Street and Turner Terrace in Newtonville.

This area, the co-called Newtonville Triangle, has been the subject of heated dispute between residents in the area and the City over what residents refer to as a commercial encroachment and blight caused by a junk car lot, a construction equipment firm, a telephone company parking lot and the neglected condition at the rear of the Crafts Street city barn.

Representative Shea, Fishman, and Malloy jointly stated: "In response to a number of constituent complaints, we have written George Sprague, —Director of Conservation Services of the Department of Natural Resources, requesting him to investigate the possibility of violation of the Hatch Act prohibiting the filling of inland wetlands without a license."

Shea went on to indicate that he had inspected this property consisting of lots 23-16, 21, 24, 25 and 26 between Court Street and Turner Terrace and that there was clear evidence of recent filling appearing to further uplift the water table causing increased harm to private residences on Turner Terrace.

Housing Crisis Considered By Church Groups

Four Newton-area Churches conducted a meeting in the Centenary Methodist Church recently to discuss the housing crisis in Newton and to hear about the Newton Community Development Foundation's (NCDF) program to build 500 units of low and moderate income housing.

The Auburndale Congregational Church, Centenary United Methodist Church, Church of the Messiah and Corpus Christi Church, along with 20 others incorporated NCDF in June of 1969, and have been active in its development.

The idea of "village participation," fostered by Mrs. Rosamond Reed, past president of Church Women United, was endorsed by the four clergymen.

Director of NCDF Charles P. Olton was speaker at this meeting to which the residents of the entire village of Auburndale were invited.

U.S. BEGINS WITHDRAWAL OF 50,000 TROOPS FROM VIETNAM

THE UNITED STATES began withdrawing 50,000 more troops from Vietnam Wednesday, and U.S. military spokesmen reported ground action involving U.S. troops declined to its lowest level of the year. In Saigon, informed South Vietnamese government sources said President Nguyen Van Thieu would call for a 24-hour cease-fire for the Tet lunar new year holiday, but an official statement said Thieu "still needs time to observe the situation" before making an announcement. Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces have announced a four-day cease-fire for the Tet period, with their truce scheduled to begin at 7 a.m. Feb. 5. The phase three withdrawal of troops got under way at the northern port of Da Nang when 528 Marines boarded a Navy transport ship and sailed for San Diego, Calif. About 3,000 more Marines from 19 units will leave for the United States Sunday.

NO MOVES EXPECTED AS PEACE TALKS ENTER SECOND YEAR

THE VIETNAM peace talks entered their second year today in Paris, and sources from both the Communist and Allied sides said there were no moves expected to lift the negotiations out of deadlock. The chief U.S. negotiator, Philip C. Habib, was returning Wednesday night from consultations in Washington. But sources said his trip to Washington was a routine matter and foreshadowed no major diplomatic initiative. North Vietnamese and Viet Cong diplomats showed no interest in altering their previously stated positions, which have been rejected by the United States and South Vietnam.

CLEVELAND INFORMANT TESTIFIES IN YABLONSKI MURDER

A CLEVELAND MAN identified as an informant who led authorities to three men arrested in the murder of Joseph A. Yablonski and his wife and daughter, testified Wednesday before a federal grand jury in Cleveland. James Charles Phillips, 21, indicted in Youngstown, Ohio, on a burglary charge with Claude Vealey, 26, one of three suspects under arrest for the Yablonski murders, was taken into the office of U.S. Attorney Robert Krupansky by two FBI agents. Phillips, wearing a white shirt with open collar and a loose fitting buckskin jacket, was reported to be the mysterious witness who had been a party to the original plot but backed out at the last minute and gave the FBI information which led to the three arrests. Vealey, Paul E. Gilly, 37, and Aubran W. Martin, 23, all of Cleveland, were charged with shooting Yablonski, UMW official, his wife, Margaret, 57, and their daughter, Charlotte, 25. The victims were killed in their Clarksville, Pa., home, New Year's Eve.

9 PERISH AS COMMUTER PLANE CRASHES INTO LAKE ERIE

A TWO-ENGINE Tag Airlines commuter plane en route from Cleveland to Detroit with nine persons aboard crashed into ice-covered Lake Erie Wednesday. Coast Guard said there were no survivors. "The plane crashed through nine inches of ice," a Coast Guard spokesman said. "A major portion of the plane submerged, and no bodies were spotted at the scene. The crash occurred 20 miles northwest of Cleveland."

CARSWELL DENIES RACIAL MOTIVE IN GOLF CLUB INVESTMENT

JUDGE G. Harold Carswell denied Wednesday there was racial motivation when he invested $100 to help convert a municipal country club to private ownership six months after the Supreme Court ordered such facilities desegregated. "I didn't have it in mind," he said, "to avoid the need to integrate the golf course in Tallahassee, Fla., when he made the investment. Carswell swore at a Senate Judiciary Committee hearing Wednesday on his nomination to the Supreme Court."

HOUSE REFUSES TO OVERRIDE NIXON'S VETO OF NEW BILL

PRESIDENT NIXON scored a clear-cut victory Wednesday when the House refused to override his veto of a $19.7 billion school and health money bill he declared was inflationary. Nixon's first major veto was sustained when the Democratic House leaders failed to muster the two-thirds vote required to override his objection. House leaders planned an immediate huddle on what to do next. One plan suggested by key members on both sides of the issue was to re-pass the identical bill but with an added provision to let the President impound part of the money. That alternative was suggested by Nixon in his veto message. The President nailed down his winning vote by sending word of a compromise under which schools getting aid because of federal "impact" would be guaranteed against drastic reductions.

QUINCY MAN PICKED TO SUCCEED DRAFT CHIEF HERSHEY

CHARLES J. DI BONA, 37, of Quincy, Mass., a civilian weapons and systems analysis expert for the Pentagon, has been chosen by the White House to succeed Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey as director of the Selective Service. It was reported Wednesday. Congressional sources who disclosed his selection said DiBona had a "very good" chance of being confirmed by the Senate for the controversial job. Hershey, 77, the nation's draft chief since the start of World War II, will leave the Selective Service Feb. 16 to become a White House consultant. DiBona, Rhodes scholar with degrees earned at Oxford University in England, reportedly is a supporter of additional draft reform and President Nixon's proposals for an all volunteer army. He is president of the Center for Naval Analyses, an independent organization run by the University of Rochester in New York under contract to the Navy. It decides whether new weapons are worth what they cost and helps the Navy and Marines plan how troops and ships are deployed.

FARNHAM: INSURANCE CHEATERS "HAVE HAD IT IN MASS."

STATE INSURANCE Commissioner C. Eugene Farnham said Wednesday insurance cheaters "have had it in Massachusetts." He said "they're not going to collect any longer, because of the activities of the Fraudulent Claims Board. The commissioner told the Rotary Club of Boston the work of the board, over the last 10 months "is beginning to show results." He said Grand juries in two communities already have handed down 18 indictments stemming from alleged fraudulent claims submitted to insurance companies. "More than 400 claims have been withdrawn after an investigator from the Fraudulent Claims Board came upon the scene," Farnham said. The commissioner said additional cases of alleged misconduct have been completed and presented to the criminal section of the attorney general's office for prosecution.

School Costs To Cause Big Boost In Tax Rate

By JAMES G. COLBERT, JR.

Newton's school budget already agreed upon would cause an increase of $7 in the city's tax rate. But that is only part of a bleak fiscal story.

REV. DR. GENE BARTLETT

Name Pastor of Historic First Baptist Church

One of America's leading preachers and seminary presidents, the Rev. Dr. Gene E. Bartlett, President of Colgate Rochester Divinity School since 1961, has accepted the call to be pastor of the historic First Baptist Church, Newton Center.

Dr. Bartlett will succeed Rev. Harold Malmberg, who resigned last year to accept a new call to Denver, Colorado.

PASTOR—(See Page 17)

As matters presently stand, school expenditures already agreed upon would cause an increase of $7 in the city's tax rate. But that is only part of a bleak fiscal story.

It does not yet allow for the fact that Newton will lose $14 million in school aid from the state which must be made up with city funds, and pay raises presumably will be granted to the teachers to become effective next September.

Built-in increases in the school budget contributed a substantial part of the additional $2,367,328 to which the School Board is committed.

Wage hikes voted last year, which were in effect four months in 1969 but must be paid for a full 12 months this year, will cost $1,172,842 more this year than they did last year.

Other budget boosts result from increased allowances for non-salary items, the allocation of funds for new programs and positions and higher costs for Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

Before the School Committee members grant even one pay raise, their 1970 budget totals $21,053,650. That is $2,367,328 higher than the budget adopted a year ago.

Approve Flaschner For Court Position

Governor Sargent's appointment of Franklin N. Flaschner of Waban as judge of the Newton district court was unanimously approved last week by the Executive Council.

Governor's Councillor Herbert E. Connolly of Newton moved for the confirmation of Mr. Flaschner's appointment and then put on a drive to line up the votes for the passage of his motion.

He paid tribute to Mr. Flaschner's "outstanding community work," pointed out that the new judge has served the people of Newton as an Alderman for the past 12 years and that he has been a member of the Massachusetts Council on Crime and Delinquency.

Connolly also cited Mr. Flaschner's work as a Special Assistant Attorney General, in which capacity he was in charge of the Bridgewater Release Project.

Voice Protest To Proposed Restaurant

The Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen voted early Tuesday against recommending approval after more than 50 residents remained after 1:30 a.m. to oppose the proposed construction of a McDonald's cafeteria in Nonantum, at 201 California street.

The Committee had before it a petition for construction of a McDonald's sign, and for the cafeteria to remain open beyond the hours permitted in the city ordinances.

Opponents of the proposed eating place contended it would be "a nuisance, would lower property values and would add to traffic congestion."

Atty. William E. Halliday Jr., counsel for McDonald's Corp., told the Land Use Committee, a permit to erect the building can be obtained without Board approval. He pointed out the site is in a manufacturing zone, which allows restaurants.

The company wishes to remain open until 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Wednesday.

HUD May OK $1/2 M For Newton

Mayor Monte G. Basbas announced this week that Newton was virtually assured of receiving an additional $500,000 in Federal funds to complete a program of street construction and drainage as well as other projects.

The program got underway several years ago but due to increased costs additional money was sought in an application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

This was in the form of an Amendment to Newton's Code Enforcement Program.

Mayor Basbas released a letter from Senator Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass) in which Brooke said that the application is "presently under consideration, with no anticipated problems."

Father Drinan Leans To Run For Congress If Endorsed

Father Robert F. Drinan, S. J., dean of the Boston College Law School, apparently is giving very serious thought to the possibility of opposing Congressman Philip J. Philbin in the Democratic primary next September.

Otherwise, it seems unlikely he would have taken the time and trouble to go to the election department at Newton City Hall and change his voter enrollment from Independent to Democrat.

A person close to Father Drinan says he will run for Congress if he is picked by the Third Congressional District Citizens' Caucus as the candidate it will support in the Democratic primary.

"It's not my mind to make up right now," Father Drinan declared at one point. "It's up to the Caucus."

But when he was asked if it would mean he definitely would run if the Caucus endorses him, the clergyman answered that he still would have

Officer Might Appeal Verdict On "Sleeping"

A Newton police officer accused of sleeping while on duty — said this week that he will consider appealing the decision of a Boston Municipal Court judge who upheld Newton and state officials in imposing punishment duty. At the same time, Patrolman Walter B. Haywood accused Police Chief William F. Quinn of being in violation of "the rules and regulations" of the department in finding him "guilty" before all avenues of appeal were exhausted. Haywood said the departmental violations consist of a change in his working shift, days off and a ban on working special "details." Also a loss in pay. "I am going to consider appeal with my lawyer, Atty. Bernard Dwork." Judge Harold W. Canavan, who affirmed the action of Chief Quinn, Mayor Basbas and the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission, said: "I have reviewed the action of the responding appointing authority and the Civil Service Commission and determine upon all evidence that the action of the appointing authority and the Civil Service Commission was justified. The court therefore affirms the action." Police superiors charged that Haywood was asleep in a cruiser last April. However, a Civil Service Commission hearing officer made a finding in favor of Haywood. The commission subsequently overturned its hearing officer's finding and ruled against Haywood by a vote of 4 to 1. In trial before Judge Canavan, Atty. Dwork argued that the commission "acted unreasonably" in overturning its hearing officer's findings and that "the only person to determine the facts was the hearing officer." Dwork contended that the Supreme Court has ruled that the finding of a hearing officer cannot be overturned except on a charge of bias. Acting City Solicitor Charles N. Morang asserted that the evidence presented at the Civil Service hearing "could have been believed either way" and the hearing officer believed it one way and the commission another. He said the 200 hours without pay duty given Haywood for punishment was not "unusual." The Boston Police Department, among other departments in major cities, has abolished so called "punishment duty."

Newton Woman In B.U. Project

A special education teacher from Newton Centre is involved in an advisory project at the New England Materials Instruction Center (NEMIC) at Boston University. Mrs. Anarita Murtagh of 10 Timson Path, a teacher in the Boston school system, has joined a team called the Boston-NEMIC Resource Teacher's Program. The team's main function is to inform special education teachers of recent developments in materials and teaching methods. The team consists of six Boston School Department leaders, each from an area of special education. Mrs. Murtagh will concentrate in the area of physically handicapped.

In this letter, Brooke said: "Please be assured that I intend to remain in close contact with appropriate HUD officials concerning your interests and will advise you promptly of any further developments."

Brooke's letter was based on one to him from Charles J. Horan, assistant regional administrator for Renewal Assistance of HUD.

The letter to Brooke said in part: "As no major deficiencies have been noted, a normal processing time is expected. However, should there be any significant problems with the application (from Newton), so as to delay its approval, we will certainly notify you."

not a practical approach. They declare that a special city-wide election would be expensive and that only a small percentage of the voters would go to the polls to elect one Alderman.

Newton's City Charter is presently under review by the recently created Charter Commission. It is assumed that the Commission will recommend that special elections be held to fill such vacancies.

Mr. Flaschner was vice president of the Board of Aldermen, and the city fathers will be obliged to pick one of their colleagues to succeed him in that capacity.

Flaschner-

behalf of former Alderman Flaschner, Councillor Connolly voted "present" when the Executive Council approved the appointment of Francis J. Larkin of Hopedale as a special justice in the Newton court, filling the vacancy caused by the retirement of Judge W. Lloyd Allen.

Councillor Connolly said he was not challenging Mr. Larkin's qualifications for service as a judge but that he felt the position in the Newton court should be filled by a Newton resident. He also argued that there are plenty of qualified Newton attorneys who could be named to the post.

Meanwhile, a controversy appears to be developing over the manner in which Mr. Flaschner's position on the Board of Aldermen will be filled.

Flaschner was reelected in November to a two-year term as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5.

Under the provisions in the city charter, his successor will be elected by the other Aldermen, not by the people of Newton.

Many persons are opposed to that self-perpetuating system and advocate a delay in the election of Flaschner's successor in order to permit the Legislature to enact a bill authorizing a special city election.

However, some city officials say privately that is Right Diet Can Help Teeth Of Children

Dr. Robert Kirschbaum, Administrator of Dental Services in the Newton Health Department and Clinical Assistant in Ecological Dentistry at the Harvard School of Dental Medicine, announced this week that recent research in dentistry reveals that it is the bacterial dental plaque adhering to the teeth which is the culprit in dental decay and gum disease. If plaque formation can be controlled it will be possible to maintain healthy teeth and gums throughout old age.

In calling attention to National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 1-8, Dr. Kirschbaum asserted that dentistry is rapidly approaching a transition from its current emphasis on repair and reconstruction to an era of preventive dentistry in which most patients will only require periodic examinations, guidance in oral health measures, plus minor scaling and polishing.

He quoted Dr. Paul H. Keyes whose experiments at the National Institute of Dental Research helped to establish dental decay as a specific bacterial infective disease which he calls "odontolytic plaque infection," and Dr. Harold Loe of the Royal Dental College, Denmark, who has performed experiments to demonstrate the role of dental plaque in periodontal disease.

Dr. Kirschbaum declared that scrupulous attention to oral hygiene by tooth brushing, water jets, and mouth rinses together with restriction of the ingestion of sugar (sucrose — which joins with the dental plaque in causing decay) and regular visits to the dentist for cleaning of the teeth will greatly control the formation of bacterial plaque causing decay.

The Newton Health Department has three dental hygienists, who are constantly in the schools giving dental health education and performing dental prophylaxis (cleaning of teeth) in the dental clinic.

The nutritionist of the department recommends nuts, raisins, cheese, whole grain crackers, unsweetened juices, raw fruits and vegetables, particularly apples, celery and carrots to replace the acid forming sugar in sweets.

Public Schools Forum Subject In West Newton

Freedom vs. discipline in public schools, independent study in junior high schools, and abolition of course marks will be among the subjects to be discussed by two veteran school committee members of two suburban communities at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 27, in West Newton.

Ernest McKenzie Jr., of Waltham, and Dr. Dorothy Lyons McEnany of Dedham, will speak on "What We Can Do to Help Our Schools" at an open forum sponsored by the Eastern Massachusetts Chapter of Americans for Constitutional Action, a national non-partisan conservative-oriented group.

The public is invited and admission is free. The forum will be held at the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry Street, West Newton, just a few steps from a public parking area.

Other topics of discussion will be: the use of drugs by students, handling pressures to attend college, teacher qualifications, and indifference of some parents.

Another public meeting will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 17 at 8 p.m., also at the Newton Community Center, on the subject: "What is Wrong with Our Churches, and What You Can Do About It."

The People's Decision

It is unfortunate that an accommodation cannot be made between Harvard University and the Boston Patriots so they could share the Stadium as a place to play their football games.

It will be even more unfortunate if the Patriots are obliged to move to another city because of the lack of an adequate facility in which to play. Yet, this now seems inevitable.

There is a tendency at this point to blame Harvard for the coming departure of the Patriots, and there are large quantities of blame available to spread around.

But in all fairness this is not Harvard's problem, and it never was. Harvard is in the business of running a great university. It has no responsibility to provide a place where a professional football team can play its games.

Members of the Legislature were unwilling to spend any state funds or to use the credit of the Commonwealth to make the possible construction of a sports stadium. Every proposal for a stadium was rejected. The law-makers obviously took that posture because they were convinced the people they represented did not want any of their money spent on a stadium and did not really care whether the Patriots stayed or departed.

There may have been other factors. Harvard may have been a little too aloof. The president of the Patriots may have a faculty for saying and doing the wrong thing at the wrong time. But the real decision here was made by the people who told their State Senators and Representatives they wanted no sports stadium.

This present situation should come as no surprise. It has been predicted for a long time. Time simply has run out, and Greater Boston is about to lose another sports team which should contribute to the economic prosperity of the area but now will do so in another city.

Our Railroads

A year ago, the Interstate Commerce Commission granted the railroads a six per cent rate increase. The grant brought the roads an increase of gross income amounting to $600 million. That sounds like a lot of money and it is.

However, the rail industry is back looking for more. The rate boost, a spokesman complains, was "not sufficient to offset wage increases and constantly rising material costs."

That's an old story we are hearing and will continue to hear until the dragon of inflation is brought under control.

In the case of railroads, however, the squeeze between income and outgo is of particular concern to the present and future welfare of the nation. In World War I, the contribution of the American railroads to the cause of the United States and its Allies was of tremendous proportions. Without their assistance our pre-dominant ability to turn out war materials from tanks to bullets would have been severely handicapped.

Between World War I and World War II we permitted our railroads to slip badly. The roads themselves appeared to go out of their way to discourage traffic. With the arrival of stiff competition from the airplane, railroad managements made it abundantly clear that they would be content to handle only the nation's freight business.

Today the motor truck and the airplane are combining to cut deeper and deeper into the rail freight business.

Yet, it is not likely that either the truck or the airplane can be developed to a point in the foreseeable future where this nation will no longer need its railroads.

Between wars we permitted our shipping strength to disintegrate to a point where we now trail well behind other industrial nations both in ships carrying commerce over the world's oceans and in ship construction. We have done the same with our railroads.

They represent national strengths which we cannot afford to allow to become completely atrophied.

"several more Rubicons to cross after that."

The Caucus, incidentally, is a sort of peace organization composed of persons who supported Eugene McCarthy and the late Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination for President in 1968.

Based on Father Drinan's statements, the guessing here is that he will become a candidate for Congress if the Caucus decides to back him, him its choice for Congress without first getting assurance from him that he would run if it did support him.

The idea of a Catholic priest standing for election to Congress is so novel that it is certain to stir a sharp controversy if Father Drinan finally does challenge Congressman Philbin in the Democratic primary.

Many Catholics, particularly the older ones, believe a priest should remain a priest and stand apart from politics.

They point out that when a priest is ordained and takes his vows to serve God for the rest of his life, he is extended a degree of respect by members of his faith that is not accorded to persons in any other walk of life and certainly not to people in elective offices in the public service.

The people generally feel they possess a special right and privilege to flail away at the men and women they elect to public offices, from the president down to members of Legislatures, City Councils, Boards of Aldermen and Selectmen.

Priests and ministers have become increasingly active on the fringes of politics in the last quarter of a century.

Catholics generally were aghast when Father Coughlin, the famed radio priest, was as active a combatant in politics as he was in the 1930's and eventually he was instructed to curb his activities.

Since then, however, clergymen have broken down many of the old-time standards. They have given of their time and talents for the public benefit, holding a variety of public positions. They have sponsored meetings and rallies in campaigns and occasionally have endorsed candidates.

When Councillor Thomas I. Atkins, only black member of the Boston City Council, first ran for public office in 1967, he probably would not have won election except for the help given him by the urban priests.

Many priests have spoken out on the public issues. This has come about gradually because they were seeking to help achieve a better life for their parishioners.

Now there is the possibility that a highly placed priest will run for Congress.

Father Drinan is in a somewhat different position from a parish pastor whose word on religious matters is law to the members of his flock. He's the dean of one of the nation's outstanding law schools.

That, however, will not ease the problem which will confront Congressman Philbin if Father Drinan runs against him.

Father Drinan, incidentally, is being urged to run for Congress because of his strong views against the war in Vietnam.

Congressman Philbin is a liberal on domestic matters. But he is not enough of a pacifist to satisfy Professor John Kenneth Galbraith and the McCarthy and Robert Kennedy adherents.

One of those beating the drums for Father Drinan is Jerome Grossman of Newton, well known businessman who is chairman of the Massachusetts Peace Action Committee. He is trying to get the anti-Philbin Democrats to unite behind Father Drinan.

Ted Is Again Being Listed In 1972 Race For President

Washington political observers are again discussing Senator Edward M. Kennedy as a possible candidate for President in 1972.

They say that Ted might not be as strong as he was before the tragic accident at Chappaquiddick last July but that he would be stronger than anyone else the Democrats could nominate.

Top Republican leaders, incidentally, agree with that appraisal. They expect that Ted Kennedy will be President Nixon's opponent in the '72 election.

At this stage the three other Democratic possibilities appear to be Hubert Humphrey, Senator Edmund Muskie and Senator McGovern.

Democratic politicians generally indicate little enthusiasm when suggestions are made for a Nixon-Humphrey rematch in 1972. For a time it was expected that Muskie would emerge as the new leader of the Democratic party, but that hasn't happened.

McGovern would like to be his party's Presidential standard-bearer, but he doesn't seem to be able to ignite much of anything.

For the first time since before last summer Ted is again accepting speaking engagements outside Massachusetts. He has been booked as a speaker at Democratic fund-raising dinners in Wisconsin and New York and at a Democratic gala in Miami.

Exactly how significant that is remains to be determined. Ted himself has said he will not be a candidate for President in 1972. He can, of course, change his mind or be persuaded to do so. The choice of the 1972 Democratic Presidential candidate may well hinge on whether he does.

Democratic Senator Says Republican Governor Strong

When a politician declares that a member of the opposition is strong, you had better believe it.

Democratic State Senator James A. Kelly, Jr., of Oxford makes that appraisal of Republican Governor Francis W. Sargent.

Kelly is not basing his judgment on his personal opinion but on the replies by his constituents to questions contained on a four page questionnaire he mailed to them.

The Democratic Senator obviously was both surprised and impressed by the number of Democrats who listed Mr. Sargent as their choice for Governor, in response to one of his inquiries.

This coincides with the analysis of those political experts who think Governor Sargent is well out front now in his run for election in his own right.

The question, of course, is whether the Governor can stay out front until after the November election. His supporters say he isn't planning any slips.

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White was said to be the strongest of the four Democratic candidates for Governor in the Blackstone Valley area polled by Senator Kelly.

Sen. Cohen Launches Drive For Lt. Gov. Nomination

State Senator Beryl Cohen of Brookline is about to launch his drive for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor, and checks have indicated he will be a pretty formidable contender at the Democratic State Convention in Amherst next June.

Cohen served in the House of Representatives before becoming a State Senator and has many friends in that body.

He has been working for months to line up support across the Commonwealth.

Virtually all Democratic leaders agree Cohen would be an asset to the Democratic ticket if he is nominated as the candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Testimony Ties Up McCarthy And Chicago Street Rioters

It's somewhat disillusioning and shocking to learn now that there was a working agreement between the staff of Senator Eugene J. McCarthy and the anti-war demonstrators who rioted in Chicago streets during the 1968 Democratic national convention.

That was suspected at the time, but it was denied. Now a campaign aide to McCarthy has testified under oath at the Chicago trial of seven men charged with conspiring to incite riots during the convention that there were ties between McCarthy and the demonstrators.

Sam Brown's testimony did little to improve the image of Senator McCarthy or to create the impression that he is a responsible public leader capable of serving as President of the United States.

His testimony indicated that McCarthy could have had the demonstrations called off if he had chosen to do so. Some political experts still believe the televised presentation of those riots made so strong an impact upon viewers across the United States that it cost Hubert Humphrey any chance of defeating Richard Nixon for the Presidency.

Brown testified that members of McCarthy's staff and leaders of the anti-war demonstration had discussed the possibility of calling off the riots if it appeared on Monday or Tuesday of convention week that McCarthy had a good chance of defeating Humphrey for the Democratic nomination for President.

McCarthy, of course, never had a chance of defeating Humphrey for the Democratic Presidential nomination. Most Democratic leaders believed he was not competent to serve as President. So the riots were staged.

The demonstrators were planning to march on the convention hall and, if possible, break up the proceedings. In other words, this was really a protest against the fact that McCarthy didn't have the votes to get nominated, not against the war in Vietnam.

That puts the demonstrations and the demonstrators in a somewhat different light.

The youths who jabbed at police officers with the jagged ends of broken bottles and threw excrement in their faces, with the most noble motives, of course, don't seem to be quite the high-minded idealists they were pictured to be when they were called the unjustifiable victims of police brutality.

Charles River Beauty

Editor Newton Graphic

President Nixon's recognition of the compelling need to "make our peace with nature and begin to make reparations for the damage we have done" will lift the hearts of conservationists everywhere, and make it clear to every American that we are all, of necessity, conservationists.

Nixon calls for the preservation of recreation areas and open space. Perhaps the tide has finally turned against those who would devastate our precious natural resources for personal or corporate gain, or in the name of progress. Increasingly communities are deciding against short term gain in order to preserve those irreplaceable values inevitably destroyed by indiscriminate development.

In Newton, some year ago, a beautiful natural recreation area was sold to a national motel chain. Now, in this residential community, towering over a widening river, the Charles once used by fishermen and canoeists and where children once fed ducks in rustic peace, we have the third largest hotel in Greater Boston. There may still be hope, however, for the hills and pines adjoining this motel if the City of Newton will consider the priority of the values emphasized by the President.

Newton, with a rapidly expanding population, is considering allowing the use of this unmatched stretch of the Charles for a apartment buildings; thus depriving the city of one of its finest natural areas, and speeding the devastation of the banks of the Charles. The construction of apartment buildings on this site would constitute yet another irrevocable step in the destruction of the ecology of the Charles River, and in the deterioration of our Newton environment.

Yours sincerely,
Clemency C. Coggins

The Graphic:

Shades of pre-Pearl Harbor 1941! Nowadays, military and civilian leaders are almost purple trying to make America aware of the hot Soviet threat - but no one tunes in.

For instance, Chief of Naval operations Admiral Thomas H. Moorer recently told the House Committee on Appropriations, in part, "... let me say that the Soviets are on the move so far as seapower is concerned. They are aggressive, persistent, and competent. They back up words with deeds."

"With this background of Soviet intentions, our concern over whether we can afford to meet the threat must, at the same time, recognize that we cannot afford not to meet it." And Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, on January 7, told newsmen, "The Soviet Union has continued to go forward with the development of strategic offensive weapons systems, not only the SS-9 but also the SS-11 and other offensive strategic weapons."

And, how serious is the Soviet threat?

Under Secretary of State Elliot L. Richardson, speaking in Los Angeles said, "The United States, contrary to Marxist dogma, had no need, desire, or intention to spreading influence or empire. We withdrew our troops following the Second World War and returned them overseas only at the request of friendly nations which felt endangered."

"Our worldwide system of alliances was constructed in the face of a real, not an imaginary, threat."

Citing the Soviet military threat, Secretary of the Air Force Robert C. Seamans, Jr., said at a January 12 seminar, "I feel strongly that the major need of the Air Force today is a new strategic bomber to replace the venerable B-52. We are asking Congress for funds to continue development of the B-1. This is, as you might expect, a long-term project. If we proceed as planned with no unforeseen technical or budgetary delays, the first B-1 would not enter the operational force until the late 1970s."

Commenting on America's willingness to pay for a strong posture, General Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said, "It should be recognized, however, that the contemplated (budget) reductions will reduce our military capability to meet unanticipated requirements in Southeast Asia, will limit the number of U. S. military options which will be available to meet new crises elsewhere in the world, and will, to some degree, slow new weapon development and procurement for our future military posture."

From a broad and apparently extremely competent base of military technology now available to the Soviets, we can expect the upward trend in Soviet research and development to continue."

But, is anyone listening? Vincent J. Tuscher, 19 Craigie terrace, Newtonville.

At Harvard, Houghteling is a member of the Harvard Political Union and has done counseling in Cambridge for the Phillips Brooks House Association. He is a resident of Adams House and was a member of the freshman soccer and track teams, and junior varsity soccer team.

A group of Harvard and Radcliffe students, wanting to make a contribution to the growth of an African nation, organized Volunteer Teachers for Africa (at that time called Project Tanganyika) in the fall of 1960. They originally chose Tanzania (then Tanganyika and under British trusteeship) because it was both politically stable and not then receiving technical assistance from another United States program. A shortage of teachers in East African countries which handicaps their efforts to achieve national self-sufficiency and prosperity, also originally shaped the project.

The focus of V.T.A. has always been in education, but in the last several years it has extended to social welfare work. In this way, Harvard and Radcliffe students have been able to take part in East Africa's struggle to develop, and at the same time, to acquire for themselves the useful educational experience of living and working in another culture. A high percentage of past volunteers have either gone on to further African work or into teaching or social service.

Participants in the program were carefully chosen on the basis of their announced enthusiasm for teaching in Africa, demonstrated ability to adjust to new situations, and past academic performance.

During the Spring semester all members of V.T.A. are required to take part in intensive orientation programs. Heart Fund Drive Plans Set in Newton

Newton citizens are organizing to combat heart disease, Paul Slater of Waban, General Chairman for the annual fund-raising drive sponsored by the Greater Boston Chapter of the Massachusetts Heart Association, announced yesterday.

At a campaign meeting, Mr. Slater outlined strategy for the volunteer effort he will direct in February, climaxing with Heart Sunday on February 22.

"Heart disease is our nation's number one killer," he emphasized. "The concern of the people of Newton has supported the Heart Association's programs of medical research, public and professional education, and community service in the past, and the response to the 1970 campaign has been just as gratifying."

Mr. Slater will work with Vice Chairman Dr. Robert Berk of Brookline in organizing the drive. An attempt will be made to involve all members of the community, since cardiovascular disease is such a pervasive problem.

General businesses, clubs and organizations, and individuals will be asked to support the Heart Association, the nation's only voluntary health agency working full time to combat America's leading cause of death, heart and blood vessel disease.

HEART WORKERS — Mr. and Mrs. Amato Lepore of Medford learn about the disease which the Greater Boston Heart Fund is fighting to eliminate from Paul Slater of Newton, at right, General Campaign Chairman.

Residents Oppose Staniford St. Project

The Jan. 26 hearing on the proposed 254-unit Staniford St., Auburndale, apartment project ended after two hours with most of the residents attending City Hall session indicating their opposition and city officials voting against the plan.

Residents named such factors as limited access to the complex, the using up of more open space, decrease in the Charles River flood plain, and the future "slum" possibility.

After the hearing ended, the Land Use Committee and the Planning Board, which were conducting the hearing, voted to recommend that the full board reject the plan.

City Planner E. Michael Ferris, who has said Staniford St. is too narrow to handle the traffic, has also recommended disapproval of the project.

Harold P. Mahon, 47 Freeman St., took the microphone at City Hall to read a letter he wrote which said: "The subject is a prospective slum."

Mahon contended that the complex would be populated by transients, construction would be "garish, Tudor gingerbread," and the thin walled apartments cramped. "The word 'quality' is lacking in credibility," he stated.

With the complex to be built on filled land, he predicted that it will shift, leading to cracked foundation.

Developers John and Joseph McIsaac require a zoning change to erect the complex. The hearing was before the Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen and the Planning Board.

Franklin N. Flaschner, Chairman, who leaves the board next month, conducted his last Land Use hearing.

Atty. Lawrence Shubow, counsel for the developers, said rents would vary between $125 and $265 per month for apartments from studios to two bedrooms.

Planned features include parking space for 314 cars, a swimming and wading pool, and no-pollution incinerator.

Fine Butterfly Exhibit At The Free Library

If Orphan Annie were to drop in at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, today she would undoubtedly exclaim, "Leapin' lepidoptera," should she browse around the butterfly exhibit prepared by Jo Brewer of Auburndale, lepidopterist, author, wife and mother.

And a lepidopterist may indeed be leaping around the Main Library, if the living chrysalis of the black swallowtail in the exhibit matures while on display, and the velvety creature emerges soon.

In nature the living swallowtail would probably spit out of its chrysalis sometime early in April. However, since it has wintered over in a controlled atmosphere, the butterfly may well emerge within the week.

The swallowtail chrysalis, or Papilio polyxenes asterius, is part of the structure of the life cycle exhibit, which also includes a set of skins and a face mask shed by the caterpillar as he proceeds through his five instars or stages; and mounted specimens of four butterflies of the same complex, all related to our parsley-eating friend, the black swallowtail.

Jo, whose interest in butterflies began scarcely 12 years ago when a young guest brought her a monarch caterpillar on a milkweed leaf, has since reared over 1,000 butterflies, including over 14 varieties, and has banded between five and 600 of the celestial creatures.

That first monarch caterpillar turned into a butterfly before the Brewer family realized what was happening, but once Jo caught butterfly fever, there was no stopping her. Now a specialist on the monarch, Jo has written a story of the life cycle of that orange and black beauty, "Wings In The Meadow" (Houghton Mifflin), which has also been published in France and in England. She has butterfly hunted and lectured all over Europe, including the Soviet Union, where she had a private viewing of the Leningrad Institute of Zoology's famed butterfly collection.

Mrs. Brewer is currently talking with children, with students, and to clubs about the metamorphosis of a butterfly, about butterflies in art and their living counterparts, on the butterfly as a symbol of resurrection, and a variety of other topics.

Thirty-five neighborhood children, under Mrs. Brewer's guidance, have organized a Metamorphosis Club, and the diary, or Proceedings of the Club, is included in the Newton Library exhibit.

Jo's husband George, a restorer of antique musical instruments, and her three grown sons, Leeds, now of Barre, Vermont; Thomas, a geologist in graduate study at Boston University; and George, a photographer, have all helped her in various phases of her work, from building specimen cages to making nets.

Also on view at the Library are a selection of butterfly biographies and the many butterfly-decorated objects scattered around the Brewer household; a butterfly stamp collection; and drawings by children who have heard Mrs. Brewer speak at their schools.

The Brewer butterfly display, with a complementary selection of books, will remain on view through mid-February.

Day Junior High Seeks Volunteers For Tutoring

Volunteers are being sought by members of the Reading Department at the Day Junior High School to participate in tutoring program for youngsters who need individualized reading instruction.

Men are especially needed for the junior high boys, particularly those who speak Spanish or Italian.

Four workshop sessions will be held from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 3; Thursday, Feb. 5; Tuesday, Feb. 10; and Thursday, Feb. 12.

Information will be given in these areas: phonics, structural analysis of words, use of an informal reading inventory, use of the library and reference skills for remedial readers, study skills, lesson planning, selection of appropriate techniques and materials, and the role of guidance in remedial reading.

Speakers will include consultants from Newton's Division of Instruction and Reading Teachers at Day Jr. High. Tutors may select the age and sex of the child they wish to tutor them at least once a week. Tutors, if they wish, may tutor more than one child. This can be a very rewarding experience.

Interested individuals will be most welcome. Please call 244-3670 or 244-3671 and ask for Mrs. Mela.

School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith voiced the hope Monday night that a decision on salary policy might be reached at a special meeting on the budget to be held next Tuesday night (Feb. 3). But he added hastily that he is not at all optimistic that his hope will materialize.

At their session Monday night the School Board members tentatively allotted $94,000 to the school department's adult education and at the same time added $78,750 to the non-salary items in the 1970 budget now under consideration.

The action on the funds for the adult education program represented an increase of about $16,000 over the $77,900 spent for the same purposes last year.

In both instances the School Committee pared down recommendations made to them by the school department staff, which had proposed that $108,348 be allowed for adult education and $107,250 for increases in non-salary items.

Monday night's meeting opened on a gloomy note as Chairman Beckwith analyzed possible effects in Newton schools of the loss of $1.4 million in state aid and President Nixon's veto of the Health, Education and Welfare Department budget adopted by Congress.

At Mr. Beckwith's suggestion the School Board urged the Massachusetts members of Congress to override the President's veto and adopt the HEW budget over his objection.

Subsequently, the School Committee members gave a sympathetic but cautious hearing to a request by Davis School PTA President Adolf Caso that a gymnasium and general purposes room be added to the Davis School. (Monday night's meeting was held at the Davis School.)

Caso told School Committee members that he sought completion of the school rather than its improvement since children at the Davis had been left without a gymnasium and must be bused to other schools for their physical education. Caso called the existing situation "inadequate from a sanitary point of view" and declared that it lessens the effective school day for Davis children.

School Committeeman Vincent F. Stanton pointed out that the board had shown its sympathy to the Davis' request by coming to the school to hear it. However, he said, the Committee should respond honestly to building requests rather than endorsing them all and sending them on to the Mayor and Board of Aldermen negative action. Stanton declared that the School Committee cannot "play a cute political game and pass the buck up to the Mayor."

Ward 5 Committee member Edwin Hawkrige explained that the Committee will not be able to judge on needs until it has received a demographic survey of the City's school population which has been ordered and will be undertaken shortly. "There is bad overcrowding in two northside schools," Hawkrige stated, "and the first thing we must do is to get classrooms over people's heads."

Committeeman Richard M. Douglas disclosed that the proposed Davis gymnasium has been studied and would cost at least $90,000 or $100,000. In answer to queries by PTA officials, Chairman Beckwith explained that no recommendation has yet been made by the Committee on Davis gymnasium.

Douglas went on to attribute problems such as lack of a gymnasium at Davis to the splintering of resources involved in neighborhood schools. He maintained that if Newton elementary schools were to be started anew, the centralized facilities rather than its present 23 neighborhood elementary schools would be built.

Chairman Beckwith, in thanking the Davis PTA officials for their presentation of needs at the School, said his committee on school building priorities will make recommendations to the School Committee after studying all Newton educational needs.

Earlier in the evening Beckwith announced the appointment of Mrs. Grace Galton, a teacher and Newton resident, to the School Buildings Priorities Study Committee, as well as those of Alderman Ernest F. Dietz, Alan Kates of Newton High School and Marc Slotnick.

When the Committee began its detailed work on the budget items, Committeeman Stanton urged an increase in the tuition charged for adult education classes. Committeeman Hawkrige pointed out that the Committee must budget the whole cost of the adult education program even though its cost is largely offset by tuition fees which are turned over to the City Treasury and cannot be kept by the school department.

The Committee seemed disposed to raise tuition fees, although Committeemen Hawkrige and Herbert Regal indicated an unwillingness to take special action on the matter at this time.

Ward 2 Committeewoman Eleanor Rosenblum strongly urged her colleagues to restore $18,000 that had been slashed by the school administration from a request for $40,000 in new funds for the creative arts program.

Committeeman Francis P. Frazier expressed his dismay at the possible additional increase by telling of two of his neighbors who have to move and have told him they can no longer afford to live in the City of Newton. Frazier praised the creative arts program but remarked "There is only so much money to go around."

Mrs. Rosenblum was not seconded in her attempt to raise the creative arts allotment. All members but Committeeman Hawkrige voted for the $22,000 allowance.

The School Committee voted an additional $10,000 to increase telephone services at the elementary schools. Business Service Director John E. Gilleland reported that he felt it urgent to put another telephone line into the school since a good deal of bad feeling had been caused among parents who are unable to get through to the schools on existing lines.

The out-of-state travel allowance for the coming year will be held at $20,000. The School Administration had previously withdrawn a request for an additional $10,000. Committeeman Stanton momentarily proposed a further reduction and advocated that $5000 be cut from last year's figure.

Dr. J. Bernard Everett, Assistant Superintendent of Schools and Director of the Division of Instruction, countered that the travel money gives teams of teachers an indispensable opportunity to visit other schools and visit conferences to discover new materials for teaching. "It is a small amount of money with a great deal of return," Dr. Everett contended.

School Superintendent Aaron Fink backed Everett. Fink explained that some $1300 of last year's travel money was not spent. He said $2100 was spent on traveling to recruit new teachers. The remainder was spent on conferences and conventions.

Committeeman Stanton was apparently convinced by Everett and Fink and withdrew his proposal. Committeeman Hawkrige, however, voted against the travel money.

Stanton and Hawkrige again combined to oppose a $600 increase in money spent for overhead projectors, under the concept of "new equipment." Stanton affirmed that $123,000 was already planned for new equipment expenses and that he had understood that all requests were met.

Business director Gilleland explained that all requests had not been met since $10,000 in proposed video taping equipment expenditure was turned down by the School Administration, although the school in question does have closed circuit television to accompany the video tape material. The majority of the Board supported Gilleland.

Committeeman Stanton teamed with veteran member Frazier in an attempt to hold the allowance for the School Committee's Educational Facilities Committee to $2500. At the plea of Committeeman Hawkrige the allowance was upped to $4000, still $1000 less than had been originally requested. Hawkrige pointed out that the Committee is supposed to exist only during 1970 and that the allowance should not reappear. "It is a one-shot affair," he explained.

The Committee also voted itself $5000 for negotiating expenses, which is the statutory limit set by chapter 128 of the Acts of 1968 of the State Legislature.

The Committee was unanimous in supporting two $4000 increases for materials in reading programs at the Davis School and for a joint program conducted by the Oak Hill and Spaulding Schools.

Operation of the elementary school lunch program will cost $23,250 run next year. Total costs will now be $118,000. Committeeman Hawkrige opposed the increased appropriation, which Business Director Gilleland attributed to increased higher pay rates and changes in hours.

The Committee will have to ratify its present decisions when it passes on its entire budget, later on.

Newton High Basketball Team Ends Losing Streak; Wins Two

By JEFF GROSSMAN

The Newton High basketball team won twice last week to move over the 500 mark after a four-game losing streak. The Tigers scored a season high of 96 points while beating Arlington and defeated Newton South 73 to 52.

In both games Newton while flu ridden star guard Coach Jerry Phillips kept up Joe Lewko managed 12. Other constant flow of substitutes as he used nine players extensively. The advantage to this system is that the team is there is always fresh but on the other hand it doesn't give a player a real chance to get a hot hand.

In the Arlington game, Chris Doolin and Bob Loughlin both made their initial varsity starts and both responded with double figure performances. Doolin, a senior, shot seven for eleven from the floor and wound up with 16 points. Loughlin hit four field goals and four free throws for 12 points.

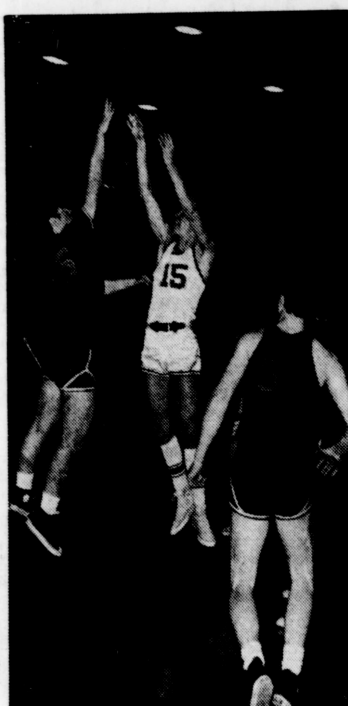

Leading scorer Len Gentile continued to impress in his first varsity season with sixteen points.

For the Spy Ponders captain Jim Kostopoulos had 22 points and collected many assists. Len Gentile, John Colantonio and Jerry Beatrice all had eleven. For Newton South Bob Sherman was the only offensive spark with eleven points.

South's highly touted captain, Emmons Levine, was held to a meager seven points, all in the first half. Hefty Stan Swartz was the only other South scorer in double digits with ten.

Bob Wargin had eight, Loughlin six, Chris and Jim Doolin, Ed Platt and John Murphy all had two points. South, which is now 1-11 overall, made like ABC's Game of the Week as they used player introductions and play-by-play at times not to mention half time stats and the little Chris Schenkel extras.

FROZEN MOTION — Three views of the action as Newton South High basketball team played their cross-town rivals, Newton High, and the latter club was dominant, 74-52. At left, South Hoopster Stephen Stockman outjumps his rival to pass the ball to a

Newton High Qualifies 5 For State Track Meet

The Newton High Track Team qualified five runners for the State Meet final at Boston Garden this Saturday at M.I.T.'s Rockwell Cage in the Class A Trials last Saturday.

Needham led the list with eight finalists while Lexington had seven, Boston College High six and Arlington and Brockton along with Newton had five.

Arlington jumped out into he should have little problem winning the event. 1000 yarder Rex Morrill won the BAA title in 2:19 and will be favored to triumph in his event. Paul Mazarelli, one of the top high jumpers and dash men in the area qualified for both as did Paul Schragle and Jody McLaughlin did in the hurdles.

Darkhorses for the team prize are Arlington and Needham. Both qualified five mile champion Paul Keating and six respectively and all who ran 9:30 to win the BAA and defeat the top runners in the State. Keating's brother, Ted could also be a scoring threat in the 1000 while 300 yarder John Knox is a strong entrant.

The team with the most individual stars, however is Lexington and for that reason they will wear the favorites role.

In the mile, Steve Mabey has run 4:21.8 this year and Arlington runners, the Met League Division II entry looked very strong in the distance. Steve Lynch was the fourth fastest qualifier in the mile while Dave Johnson was third best in the two mile. John Baldwin is another potential point scorer for Arlington in the 1000.

Newton looks toward the sprints and middle distance as in past years for their points. George Norcross qualified in the 50 and faces a very fast field but seems capable of duplicating Don McMillan's win in this event.

Skip Fawson won both of his heats in making it into the Garden this week and he too faces a classy name field. If the lanky senior can move out of the block alright he should be tough to match.

Alan Boyer and Mike Tymann both made the 300 final. Boyer took the BAA title in this event while Tymann has come on in the last few meets. Both should be up front along with Steve Hogan of Woburn who was a fourth place finisher in this event last year.

Steve Scrimshaw in the 600 and David Douglas in the 1000 round out Newton's qualifiers. Scrimshaw will be up against Waltham's Charlie Duckworth, who set a Garden Schoolboy record by churning a 1:13.8 effort this year while winning the BAA.

Newton High Skaters Lose To Brookline

By JEFF GROSSMAN

Last Saturday Newton High was dumped by the Brookline hockey team, 3 to 0 and Cambridge Latin defeated Lingham 4 to 1 to create a tie for third place in the Suburban Hockey League.

Arlington stands atop the loop with a perfect 8-0 slate; Brookline follows with 7-1-1, while Newton and Cambridge are 3-2-1.

Earlier in the week Newton edged Weymouth 2 to 1 on second period goals by Jim Fay and Joe Arnold.

The Newton team, if doing nothing else must be doing a great job of giving Coach Sarge Kinlin gray hair and ulcers. In eight games, Newton has lost twice (both to Brookline by 3-0) tied once and won five times. Four of those wins have been by a single goal. Newton has scored 13 times and goalie Steve Condon has allowed 10.

Brookline opened the scoring at 9:12 of the second stanza as Joe Fernald ripped a shot past Condon off a faceoff to the right of the Newton net.

Only sharp backchecking kept the Townies from scoring more during this time as Newton had two men in the penalty box. Football halfback Tom Fleming scored in the third period and was assisted by backfield mates Rich Patenude and Tom McMahon.

Tom Osonent wrapped up the scoring as he faked Condon to his knees and then slapped a shot past him from ten feet out. Fleming and Jim Saltalamacchia assisted.

Weymouth commenced the scoring for the Maroons in the game played at Weymouth seven minutes into the first period.

Jim Douglas scored on assists from Haley and Dorman. The Newton aggregate did all their scoring in the middle period.

Jim Fay knotted the game at one on a goal assisted by senior defenseman Steve Dunn and Walt Havley. Dunn's slap shot from 25 feet out was deflected in by Fay.

At 9:28 of the second period

Scrimshaw could be runnerup or winner if Duckworth should slip up.

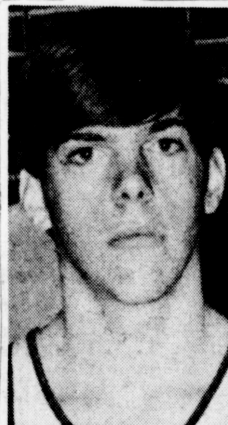

Douglas, who in coming off Weisman and Steve Sacks, the flu still ran very well and qualified with the fourth John Seeler and John fastest clocking should be ready Saturday as he has been called the best Glaser and Ron Schneider, Sophomore middle distance 1000, Mike McKinney, high runner in Newton history by Coach Lem Boyle. You won't find much argument from the 1000 yarders in the Met League Division I either.

If the meet comes down to the relay as it usually does as no one is usually strong enough to run away from anyone in this meet Newton and Lexington should be in excellent shape.

Both have a number of strong sprinters to call on. Notably for Newton Boyer, Douglas and Scrimshaw while the Minutemen can go to Mazarelli, Schragle and a host of others.

Boston College, last year's runnerup does not seem to have the quality that they did last year when they took first in the 1000, mile and second in the shot put. Brockton, with five placers also doesn't look strong enough to be a threat. So, it shapes up as a four way fight between Lexington, Needham, Newton and Arlington with Lexington having the upper hand but only a slight upper hand.

Joe Arnold scored on a power play goal assisted by Bob Fay and Dunn. Dunn hit captain Fay with a pass who circled the net and put the puck on Arnold's stick and he stuffed it into the upper right hand corner of the net.

TIMOTHY HAWKRIDGE, son of Newton School Committee member is a forward on the Hebron Academy varsity basketball team. His parents are School Committeeman and Mrs. Edwin Hawkrige of Waban.

Rick Kates Tops 5-10 1/2 in Jump

Senior Rick Kates recorded the highest leap of his career last Saturday to become one of the six finalists in the Class B high jump at the Boston Garden this week.

Kates, the only Newton South trackster to qualify for the finals topped the 5-10-1/2 mark to improve his best jump by 2-1/2 inches and tie for first place in the trials. Prior to the state meet Kates had cleared only 5-4 because of a knee injury.

Three other Lion performers recorded personal bests. Dave Peters clipped 2/10s of a second off his finest effort with a 6.6 hurdles clocking. Steve Sahl cut his 300 time to 37.4, a 3/10 improvement and Roger Cooper added 5-1/2 inches to his best shot-put of 43-10-1/2.

Paul Nissen, hurdles, Elliot Weisman and Steve Sacks, dash, Scott Lampert, 300, qualified with the fourth John Seeler and John fastest clocking should be ready Saturday as he has been called the best Glaser and Ron Schneider, Sophomore middle distance 1000, Mike McKinney, high jumper, Dick Dickinson, mile and Chuck Pottey, 2-mile, also competed for South.

First Church Elects 2 New Lay Readers

Edmund M. MacCloskey was elected to serve as First Reader for a three year term at the First Church of Christ Scientist, Newton, at a recent meeting of members. In this position he will conduct the Sunday and Wednesday evening services at the church. Mr. MacCloskey replaces L. Bradford King Jr. Assisting him on Sundays as Second Reader will be Miss Ruth Houghton, who was elected at the same meeting. The retiring Second Reader is Mrs. Elizabeth B. Trask.

The new Readers will begin their terms next Sunday, Feb. 1. The Christian Science church consists entirely of laymen, and local members are democratically elected to fill all administrative posts and to conduct services. The two elected Readers carry the main responsibility for the Sunday and Wednesday evening services of the church. Their primary duty is to read the Christian Science Lesson - Sermon on Sunday. This is a weekly compilation of related references from the Bible and the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

During the week, the same references serve as a Bible Lesson on a specific topic such as God, Man, Reality, Sacrament, or Matter. It is studied daily by Christian Scientists throughout the world. Read at the Sunday service, it becomes the sermon.

Hymns, prayer, responsive reading by the congregation, and a solo constitute the rest of the service. The Wednesday evening meeting, conducted by the First Reader, includes a period when individual members of the congregation speak informally of experiences of Christian healing as understood in Christian Science.

A study at Purdue University showed that children with I.Q. levels of 122 and up are more outgoing and participating, more emotionally stable, more venturesome, spontaneous, tough-minded, vigorous, calculating and self-reliant than the average and lower groups. The bright girls among those studied were found to be more sentimental than the bright boys.

Nine Grossman's Executives Hear Romney At Lumbermen's Parley

Nine executives from Grossman's were among some 5000 representatives of the lumber and housing industries who heard an analysis of business prospects in 1970 by George W. Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and a group of economists, at the 76th annual convention of the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association starting Friday, Jan. 23 in New York City.

Secretary Romney, who accepted the invitation of Nilsie Grossman, NLRA director and chairman of the board of Grossman's, to be the key convention speaker, explained the program designated "Operation Breakthrough," a Federal plan for mass-produced housing. He outlined other Federal programs to aid housing and gave an insight into how the lumber dealer can help the country reach the housing goals set for the seventies.

The prospect for housing starts, the boost in interest rates, the effects of inflation and labor costs and other major problems were examined at convention sessions during the three day affair at the New York Hilton. Secretary Romney was met at LaGuardia Airport by Mr. Grossman who also introduced the speaker at a noon luncheon for 50 officials of the association and the Romney party. On Saturday morning, Mr. Grossman was one of the panelists on the subject of inventory and property protection for industry members. Others from Grossman's who attended the convention included Everett Grossman of Newton and Samuel Cohen of Quincy, vice presidents; Edwin Savage of Framingham, general manager; Cornelius O'Reilly of Quincy, chief purchasing agent; Robert Elliott of Winchester, Warren Hill of Hingham and Harvey Chansky of Newton, buyers, and Thomas Grossman, manager of Grossman's store in Auburn.

The custom-fabricated system, introduced locally by Aquapex Corporation of Foxboro, is constructed of one-piece, jointless, heavy gauge aluminum with a baked enamel finish. It is said to be leakproof under the most adverse temperature and weather conditions.

Costing no more than conventional quality rain gutters, the sturdy, seamless system has the advantage of a longer life-time and is said to be virtually maintenance free.

Film Impresses Harvard Critics

An experimental film, "Black Boy '69" by James Medalia of 30 Dorset Street, Newton, a junior in the University of Cincinnati's McMicken College of Arts and Sciences, was shown recently at a film seminar at Harvard University.

Medalia's film was produced as part of a course offered by UC's department of speech and theater arts. It will be submitted for showing at the Ann Arbor Student Film Festival in the spring.

The film captures the tensions black youth feel by contrasting their daily lives with their confrontations with violence. It employs a technique similar to the films of Alain Resnais, with very brief flashes appearing on the screen in an effort to fragment reality. Medalia learned the method from Jud Yalkut at UC's 1967 Spring Arts Festival.

Harvard students were impressed by the freedom extended student filmmakers at UC. A program in communication, with film as one of its specializations, is just beginning at Harvard.

Medalia said "They couldn't get over the fact that I was given the go-ahead to do whatever I felt like doing. It seemed to me that this is the thing that impressed them most — the freedom of expression we have at UC."

Ward 7 Democrats Hear Pro and Con of House Cuts

Ward Seven Democrats and their guests heard State Representatives Paul Malloy, Theodore Mann and H. James Shea discuss the proposed reduction in the size of the Great and General Court of the Commonwealth at its January meeting at Grace Episcopal Church.

Chairman Harry Crosby and Program Chairman Dr. Cavin Leeman introduced Newton Reps. Malloy, Mann, and Shea. Rep. Irving Fishman was unable to attend but sent a written statement.

Rep. Mann believes the question of reducing the size of the Massachusetts House should be put on the ballot. He feels that just a reduction will not improve the quality of the legislative process, and that a more important consideration is the caliber of the person elected.

Rep. Malloy has opposed the reduction in the size of the House since 1966. He believes there must be room for all to be heard and although the League acted out of sincere conviction in proposing the reduction, Malloy does not feel the proposal can effectively accomplish what it hopes for. He explained that staff additions would chew up proposed savings, and that a legislator will be less visible if he represents more people.

Rep. Shea is opposed to House bill 300. He believes the House should be close to the people and therefore needs adequate representation. He pointed out that the Senate has a much smaller number of legislators and that the number of representatives in the House fulfills an important need of and for the people. Shea feels the question of visibility of the legislators and the hope for more funds for staffing are not valid reasons for reducing the size of the legislative body. Staffing, for example, could be improved by shifting funds.

Rep. Fishman quoted from a non-partisan study done by an affiliate of Columbia University which stated that state government will cease to be effective as a political entity unless its role is substantially reformed. He supports the House Reduction.

Mrs. Margaret Smith, President of the Newton League of Women Voters, feels the voters should have a say in deciding the size of the House. She believes there is a relationship between the quality and the number of legislators.

The Gourmet Adventures of THE HIGHLANDS

Webster's defines a gourmet as "a connoisseur in eating and drinking" and a connoisseur as "one who understands the details, techniques, or principles of an art and is competent to act as a critical judge." But what does it really take to become a gourmet...

The first and most important qualification would be a love of life. A true gourmet is usually a person with a zest for doing things, with an appetite for life. His senses are sharpened by his other active pursuits — and he appreciates the table all the more.

The chef at THE HIGHLANDS RESTAURANT, 1114 Beacon St., Newton, 332-4400, uses the techniques in cooking food that please even the most discriminating of diners. See our wide variety of entrees including choice beef, seafood and poultry... Enjoy our Dinner Special served Mon thru Fri — 2 boiled live lobsters at $3.95. We invite you to dine with us on Sunday. Enjoy the lobster special with your favorite drink.

Newton Centre Student In Washington Semester

Mel Warshaw of Newton Centre, a sophomore at the University of Rochester, is among six undergraduates who will spend the spring semester in Washington, D.C. They will write speeches, attend hearings and research the law for legislators.

In an effort to learn firsthand how a Congressional office operates, the students have volunteered their full-time services for several months to Representatives Benjamin Rosenthal (D-N.Y.) and Michael Harrington (D-Mass.), and to Senators William Proxmire (D-Wis.), Birch Bayh (D-Ind.), Mark Hatfield (R-Ore.), and Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.).

The students' "Washington Semester" was initiated and put into practice almost entirely by the students involved. They independently contacted the Congressmen, and then requested and received University approval from Mark Beach, associate dean of the College of Arts and Science, and Richard Fenno, professor of political science.

Richard Fenno, who is a nationally known authority on government affairs, has acted as the students' advisor on what to expect from the Washington scene.

He will contact them regularly during the semester, and praises their plan as "an ideal way to enrich the academic experience with a challenging work experience." At the same time, he anticipates that all five students will "work their heads off morning, noon and night — seven days a week — because that's what Washington is like."

Facilities Set for Handicapped... Newton Legislators Pledge Support of Leg. Clubhouse

As one Newton alderman wondered if the $18,000 the American Legion Post No. 440 offered to buy a three-acre site on Victory Field was "fair," the four Newton representatives have expressed support of the proposal.

The Legion plans to build a new clubhouse which will include a community room for cerebral palsy victims and other handicapped persons.

Reps. Irving Fishman, Paul F. Malloy, Theodore D. Mann and H. James Shea Jr. commended Post No. 440 for its "imaginative program for the recreation and social needs of the community," according to an announcement from the post.

The announcement quoted the legislators as calling the "past achievements of Post No. 440 in the interest of the underprivileged and handicapped."

There are other areas of the new $250,000 building designed for the public, including a full-scale gymnasium with a shower and locker room and a room for use by civic organizations.

Roger Marrocco, chairman of the post's land and building committee last week presented before the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen Post No. 440's arguments why the veterans' organization should be allowed to purchase the city-owned land.

There was no real opposition from the committee members expressed at that meeting.

Marrocco's committee is now preparing a floor plan of the proposed building to show exactly how many feet would be used by the community. He has estimated such use as 25 per cent of the total building space.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas supported the sale of the land to the post.

At one time a Newton housing group was interested in acquiring the site but they have withdrawn their request. Victory Field has been released by the Recreation Commission, which says it is no longer needed for a play area.

Appointed formally at the Emerson School as a clerk and typist was Mrs. Margaret L. Paulin, who is already working there provisionally.

Three lunchroom attendants were appointed by the School Board. They are Margaret Mahler for the Cabot School; Richard Shelley for the Clafin School; and Kathleen Meier at the War School.

A winter exhibit of Eskimo and Canadian Indian artifacts is on display at the Auburndale Branch of the Newton Free Library, 375 Auburn Street, in the Boys' and Girls' Room.

Familiar soapstone sculpture, shaped by igloo-bound craftsmen into ducks, walrus, whales and birds; block prints of Eskimo life and symbols; and delightful sketches of Indian children round out the select showing from the Banff, Alberta, Canada, region.

Dr. Gerald Fasman, a biochemist at Brandeis University, and a Calgary, Alberta, native, has traveled many times with his wife, Jean and 3 sons, Michael, 13, Jon, 9, and Danny, 10, through the Indian reservations of Canada.

Mann Supports Bill To Assist Senior Citizens

Representative Theodore D. Mann (R) of Newton appeared before the Joint Committee of the Legislative Administration at the State House in Boston in support of House Bill 3380 which would establish an office in the Commission on Aging whose responsibility it will be to guide, assist, instruct and educate Senior Citizens concerning coverage and benefits under Medicare, Medicaid and veterans' benefits.

This office will also have the responsibility of helping the Senior Citizens with problems arising from lack of communication and understanding in dealing with the various governmental agencies.

Mann's bill also calls for the commission to develop through research and education a program to eliminate age as a barrier to employment; develop programs for the rehabilitation and training of older workers; institute programs to encourage employers to hire older workers; develop programs for expanding this work of older workers at home and in sheltered workshops; develop programs for the utilization of unemployed older workers by their communities; develop programs to prepare older workers for eventual retirement.

Mann concluded that the creation of this office meets a

Newton Gets $4757 From Court Suit

Newton city officials have received a check for $4,757 from Attorney General Robert H. Quinn's office. The sum represents a portion of the $500,000 settlement recovered by the Attorney General's office in the favorable settlement of an anti-trust case against 10 copper piping companies accused of price-fixing.

The present payment consists two-thirds of a total $7200 which will eventually be returned to Newton.

Approximately 85 towns and cities and 35 housing authorities in the state share in the settlement.

The anti-trust suit against the copper and brass producing companies was brought by Massachusetts and various other states and public agencies in 1967 at the United States District Court in Philadelphia.

In announcing the settlement, Quinn said, "It is the average taxpayer who suffers most from violations of our anti-trust laws. My office will act to preserve free competition in this state against those who would illegally price-fix or attempt to monopolize."

critical need in view of his experience especially with scores of citizens in this age group who do not have the necessary assistance to solve the money problems in our complex society. The creation of such an office in the long run, Mann declared, would help to bring an end to anxieties and could possibly even contribute to a lessening of the financial burden imposed upon this segment of our population.

Newton's Parnell Wins 'Unsung Hero' Award

Steve Parnell, the quarterback of Newton South High's fine football team of 1966 which won 8 and lost 1, received the Boston Tobacco Table's "unsung hero" award for 1969 for his fine play during the past three years as the stellar punt returner of the University of Mass. grid team.

Besides running back punts and kickoffs, Parnell played defensive end at UMass. He received the "unsung hero" award Monday at Fantasia's in Cambridge.

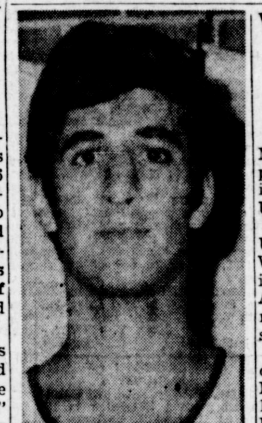

He never missed a quarter of play last season despite a pulled leg muscle that made him forgo most of his pass receiving duties — the job he liked the best. Despite the fine showing he had as a schoolboy, Parnell did not go to UMass on a football scholarship. He is a pre-Med major but before going on to medical school, he said he would like a chance with the grid pros as a specialist or a pass catcher.

"I've heard from Dallas and Baltimore," Parnell said, "and if they draft me, I'll give it a try."

Parnell was raised in Petersburg, Va., where his father was a professor at Virginia State College. The family moved to Newton in 1959. His father died six years ago and Parnell's mother teaches at Cabot Elementary School in Newton.

Cold Weather Fires

New York — Fire losses usually are higher in the winter than any other time of the year, says the Insurance Information Institute. Although other factors are involved, this is a result mainly of heating hazards.

Surveillance In The Soviet Union

By WIGMORE A. PIERSON

One of the most common questions asked of the visitor to the Soviet Union is, "How closely were you watched while you were in Russia." Surveillance and control will be the topic of this article.

The Soviet Intourist guides which one meets when debarking from the airplane at the Moscow International Airport provide the first exposure to Soviet surveillance. One of the tasks of these individuals is to keep foreigners under careful scrutiny. The Intourist guides stayed with our group throughout our entire stay in the Soviet Union.

They took their meals with us; they traveled with us during the day; they traveled with us on the plane between Moscow and Leningrad and back again; they helped us get through customs at the airport and they did everything they possibly could to keep us together as a group and discouraged individual movement around Moscow or around Leningrad.

The great concern of the Soviet authorities for minimizing the movement of people into areas where they can be unobserved or uncontrolled is evident everywhere. The hotels in Moscow provide a good example of this. On each floor of the Hotel Rossia in downtown Moscow — only about two blocks from the Kremlin Wall — there are attendants. Middle aged women are on duty at desks on each of the floors of the hotel. These women are on duty 24 hours a day seven days a week.

They appear to work long shifts working as many as 16 or 18 hours at a stretch or more. You get your key from these women when you check into the hotel and you are to leave the key with them when you leave your room during your stay in the hotel and pick the key up again when you return after being out for the day or for the evening. They sell candy, newspapers, warm beer, and other small knick knacks. Clearly they are there to provide another means of control, regimentation, and surveillance.

Since the night life in Moscow and Leningrad is practically non-existent after 11 o'clock in the evening there is very little reason for a person to be outside of his hotel after those hours. My first evening in Moscow I returned to the hotel at about 11:30.

The Hotel Rossia has over 3000 rooms and is one of the largest in the world, has a west and an east lobby. One would normally expect that simply by taking any elevator in the hotel to the floor where one's room is that you could simply walk around the floor and eventually come to your particular room. However, in Moscow this is not the case. One finds locked glass doors dividing each floor into six or seven different sections. Three times in trying to locate my room and the appropriate elevator I was frustrated by coming up in an inappropriate elevator and finding myself up against a closed glass door through which I could see other people walking but which I could not open and could not enter because the attendants kept saying that I couldn't come through that particular door even though my room was just a few hundred feet down the corridor.

It was most frustrating to take a half hour to get from the hotel lobby to my room. One can go into restaurants, hotels, stores of various kinds throughout Moscow and Leningrad and find them controlled by an attendant. In most instances, even though there may be several doors going into a particular building, only one of the doors is open to enter and leave the building, guaranteeing close control of movement.

Our instructions on picture taking were most explicit when we arrived at the Moscow Airport. We were instructed to take no pictures of any kind — of Russian planes or the airport or industrial sights or factories of any kind or any pictures which would in any way tend to denigrate the Soviet Union.

At a briefing, a U. S. Embassy official reminded us that Soviet law is greatly different from United States, both as to its way of operating and as to the strictness of enforcement. Therefore, one is extremely reluctant to test the sincerity or the ability of the Soviet police system to carry out its laws. Something that would be considered hard-core misdemeanor in the United States can often carry a term of six or more months in jail in the Soviet Union.

And the thing which one always keeps in mind is that there is no recourse, once you are arrested and carried away there is very little if anything that the American Embassy can do for you, particularly if the Soviet law is being carried out to the letter of what it says.

An illustration of this picture taking restriction is interesting. As we got off the workshop class on Wednesday afternoons which is being offered on an "indication of interest" basis only, and will give her and the children an opportunity to experiment with the latest media and ideas in teaching Art to children developed at Harvard.

Carol Lipsitt will continue teaching the Adult Painters Workshop on Wednesdays. She is an experienced artist and teacher from M.I.T. and the DeCordova Museum, and is interested in giving women who are beginning or intermediate painters, guidance and direction in their work.

Art Director, Linda Janower, has announced that all programs for Art are compiled jointly by the teachers, and projects are the result of many weeks of combined thought and research. Thus the children will benefit from the diverse philosophies, resources and experiences that all teachers bring to the program.

Details of classes, including schedules and registration information, can be obtained from the Community Center at 429 Cherry St., West Newton, or by calling 969-5906 or 969-5907.

Six resignations, one retirement and two leave of absences were approved by the Newton School Committee at its meeting on Monday night.

Two lunchroom attendants also resigned. They are Mrs. Olga Marashlian of the Cabot School, and Mrs. Teresa Rizza of the Calfin School.

that Nellie our guide had specifically recommended this restaurant to us earlier in the day.

They decided to spend the entire evening with us, perhaps mostly at our invitation, but nevertheless they did stay with us for the rest of the evening. One is reluctant to conclude unequivocally that they were sent to the restaurant to watch us as result of the tipoff from Nellie that we were planning to eat there for dinner. However, this conclusion is difficult to resist.

These two men accompanied us back to the Hotel Rossia where we chatted for awhile in the lobby of the hotel.

A little later, I decided to walk outside of the hotel to say good-bye. As we came out the front door of the hotel there was a police car in front of the hotel with three policemen sitting inside.

I asked the two young fellows what they were there for and they indicated to me that they were concerned about currency exchanges which is forbidden in the Soviet Union between the Soviet citizens and any foreign visitors. I suggested that we stroll down to the end of the hotel to say our good evenings to avoid the inconvenience and annoyance of being watched by these police officers sitting in this particular car right by the curb in front of us.

Much to my shock and disbelief just as we arrived at the end of the hotel the police car with the three policemen pulled up along side of us. Momentarily I thought that I might become a victim of the Soviet Secret Police. At that point I decided to say a quick good evening and good-bye for both these two young Russians sake and also for my own.

Even after being in the Soviet Union only five days, one has to conclude that a great deal of surveillance and regimentation exists in the society. Expressions of individuality and individual deviant behavior are frowned upon and discouraged. When persons show their individuality too much, they simply are removed from the society.

No hippies or unusual dress styles were to be found in either Moscow or Leningrad, although we noticed them in every Western city which we had visited up to this time, namely, London, Amsterdam, Copenhagen and Berlin. Regimentation, compartmentalization, surveillance and lack of freedom of movement are very much in evidence in the Soviet Union.

No one can travel within the Soviet Union without appropriate identification and documents indicating why they are going to a particular city and the exact dates that they are planning to be there. In summary, the secret police and the surveillance tactics employed are very much in evidence and appear to be most effective.

New York Educator Speaks To Local Teachers, Parents

"Black students are in a renaissance in a quest of themselves." This search for identity is behind the Afro-American movement for black studies in school curricula, according to Professor W. Burghardt Turner of the State University of New York in Long Island.

Dr. Turner spoke to a meeting of teachers, administrators, and parents this past week in Natick. The meeting was sponsored by the South Middlesex Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Alderman Matthew Jefferson is the immediate past president of the South Middlesex Branch.

Dr. Turner explained that all students need to know the truth of this country. Our students deserve this. History does not need tearing down; it needs remodelling from kindergarten through college. An integrated curriculum is the objective, not only in history but in literature, music, art and other disciplines.

Just as teachers had to be trained to teach reading and the new math, teachers will need retraining to teach an integrated curriculum, Dr. Turner asserted.

In a question about Puerto Rican students in Framingham and other communities, Dr. Turner said that we owe it to our Puerto Rican students to teach a meaningful Puerto Rican history so that they can know themselves too.

The speaker noted that while an integrated curriculum is the desired goal, there is a current need for a compensatory education program for those who are now in high school and college.

As the curriculum revision goes on, special units or courses in black studies, particularly in history, are needed to give a balanced understanding and appreciation of Afro-Americans. This is needed by whites and blacks alike.

This meeting addressed by Professor Turner was the first in a series of meetings and seminars being planned by the N. A. A. C. P. South Middlesex Branch for teachers, administrators, and parents in the area of Newton, Wellesley, Natick, Framingham and surrounding towns.

New Year Resolutions: To Lose Weight

BY RUTH B. LENSON

"Ring out the old and ring in the new" means to millions of people all over the country that January is here and it's time to diet again. The firm (?) resolve will be heard in almost every household. "This year I'm really going to lose weight even if I have to starve to do it!"

Scales will tell the sad tale of too much of everything enjoyed over the holidays not to mention the pounds that were there even last Fall before the "goodies" were passed around.

In the new year of 1970 one ought to resolve to lose in a group because most people find dieting alone a discouraging business. "Professional dieters" can attest to the fact that only another dieter can give the proper understanding that is necessary when the "going gets rough."

Experts have acknowledged that group support plus having to report to a figure of authority every week can often make all the difference between success and failure. A good, healthy diet is a must and exercise helps tone the muscles and even gourmet recipes make meals more pleasurable but one needs the combination of all these aids to really reach an ideal weight and stay there.

Here in West Newton there is such a group and it is sponsored and endorsed by Temple Reym on 1869 Washington St. It is The Diet Workshop and meetings are held at the above location every Wed. 9:30 a.m., also at: Community Center, 429 Cherry St. every Thurs. 7:30 p.m. New members are always welcome.

The following recipe is one used by The Workshop and its members find it ideal as a lunch when they're really hungry!

Tuna Delight

1 small can tuna, drained and flaked
1 apple, cored, peeled and diced
1/2 cucumber, peeled and diced
4 or 5 celery stalks, peeled and diced
1 tablespoon lemon juice
several large lettuce leaves
Toss all together except lettuce leaves which you use as a base for the salad. Add favorite salad dressing, 1 slice of toast and beverage. Voilà! — delicious diet lunch.

Two Newtonites Complete Course at Beth Israel

Two Newton residents were among a group of middle management of Beth Israel who have recently completed an education program offered by the hospital for executives and supervisors of administrative, professional and technical departments.

Purpose of the "Education for Management" program is to "study and discuss the principles and techniques by which each participant can successfully develop and direct his efforts and his work force toward achievement of departmental, divisional and hospital objectives," according to Miss Andrea R. Hansen, Training Coordinator and Conference Leader of the program.

Participants met once a week for an 11-week period to discuss the various elements of management and view films illustrating the subject matter which covered theoretical and practical approaches to supervision.

A total of 29 graduates were honored at a reception that followed the ceremony. Thus far, 127 executive and supervisors have participated in the program since it began a year ago.

JONATHAN SCHEFF

Jonathan Scheff Leaves for Study In Belgium

Jonathan Scheff, a senior honor student at Newton South High School, departed Monday, Jan. 26, for Belgium with 13 other American boys and girls from throughout the States to spend a semester abroad on the New Dimensions Program of the Experiment in International Living.

These students just completed a three-week intensive language training course at the School for International Training in Brattleboro, Vt., to help prepare them for the months ahead.

The boys in the group will be attending the Institute Cardinal Mercier which is located near Waterloo, Belgium. While participating in the regular courses given, each student will be developing his own independent research project which he has set up in cooperation with his American high school faculty advisors. Upon completion of the semester, each student will then spend one month living with a Belgian family as a member of that family.

Jonathan is the eldest grandson of the late Dr. Samuel A. Levine and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Scheff of Newton Centre. While at Newton South he was co-chairman of the American Field Service, founder of the Outing Club, Vice-President of the House, on the Cross-Country team, YMCA swim team, and active in various peace activities. In the summer of 1967 he went to Israel with the B'nai B'rith Youth Organization, and the following summer successfully completed the course at the Colorado Outward Bound School.

The New Dimensions program is only one of many programs offered through the Experiment in International Living to further international understanding through the person-to-person contact. Anyone desirous of further information relating to these programs, please call 332-5406.

Commissioner Speaks On Youth Services Feb. 3

Dr. Jerome Miller will make his first major public address since his appointment as Commissioner of the Youth Services Department. Dr. Miller will present his views on the problems besetting the agency on Tuesday, Feb. 3 at the 11th Annual Simmons College School of Social Work Lecture at the Shriners Hospital Auditorium.

He will speak about the challenge confronting the social work community and the citizens of the Commonwealth concerned with providing effective care and treatment for juvenile offenders.

A social worker himself, Dr. Miller's prime professional interest since the beginning of his professional life, has been juvenile delinquency. He comments that it would be impossible for him to recall a time since 1957 in which he was not involved in the diagnosis, treatment or handling of problems of delinquency, or in community planning or research, with direct reference to delinquent children or youth.

Active on the committee which planned the lecture is Mrs. Edith Silverman of 32 Loring street, Newton, an alumna of Simmons College School of Social Work.

problems in education and sharing ideas for the development of meaningful educational opportunities.

Earlier discussion of student roles in educational decision-making provided impetus for the current discussion of the status of curriculum, development, program planning, course selection, and evaluation of major areas of the educational process. The February 3 meeting will take the form of small group seminars, to be followed by a summary period.

The direction of future discussions will be determined by the issues raised on Feb. 3. All students and adults are invited to participate.

New Art Staff At Community Center

The new staff for Creative Art at the Newton Community Service Centers was announced this week by the Director of Art, Mrs. Murray Janower.

The spring Art program will begin next Monday (Feb. 2). The staff is composed of several outstanding and experienced art teachers, supplemented by assistants from the Harvard Graduate School of Visual Education and other interested students.

Sandra Olansky, former Art Bound, and New School for Supervisor from the Winthrop Public Schools and art teacher from South Braintree Junior High, has worked extensively with children of all ages in the field of visual education since her graduation from the University of Illinois in 1958 and graduate studies in Art Education at Boston University through 1960.

Mrs. Olansky stressed the process rather than the product in art. "What the child discovers, recalls, feels emotionally, or reasons as he creates, is what is of real value - the joyous, spontaneous expression that he as an individual has to offer." She will teach the Tuesday afternoon Kindergarten class, and Grade 1 through 3 class.

Avis Jacobson is a teacher and social worker from Chicago, who has taught art to all age levels. She is devoted to broadening a child's background in many fields related to art - such as music, science, dance - and will bring warmth and humor to Kindergarten children (Tuesday morning and Wednesday afternoon) and Special Education youngsters (Wednesday afternoon).

Edith Schroeder brings a wide variety of experiences with children to the Art program. After Radcliffe College, Mrs. Schroeder worked at the Franklin Park Children's Zoo, the Children's Museum, Origins Gallery, South End Community Center, Upward
